REDS TO JAPS: KEEP SEA OPEN

SENATE SPEEDS PROBE OF ICKES GAS 'SHORTAGE'

Apparent Efforts to Halt It Seen.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

gasoline shortage scare might uncover one of the biggest hoaxes in government history, scurried to Capitol hill today in an apparent attempt to put a lid on the inquiry.

Shortly after the senate commerce committee had unanimously approved a resolution for a special senate investigation of the reported shortage of gasoline and fuel oil along the Atlantic seaboard, Undersecretary of the Interior Jack Dempsey and Deputy Oil Coördinator Ralph K. Davies were seen buttonholing Senator Francis T. Maloney [D., Conn.], who will head the investigation.

Gasoline 'Not Mentioned.'

Senator Maloney had luncheon in the senate restaurant with the two assistants of Ickes and they argued long and earnestly with him. With a twinkle in his eye Maloney, a New Englander, said afterwards that gasoline was not once mentioned in this conversation.

The pleas of Dempsey and Davies were obviously unavailing. The committee will not even wait for the usual approval of the senate before starting its investigation. Hearings will start Thursday and Davies will probably be the first witness to be quizzed about the true facts of the reported shortage.

Atlanta Asks for Truth.

In a telegram received today Mayor Roy Lecraw of Atlanta, Ga., called upon Ickes to definitely settle the point whether a gasoline shortage exists.

He quoted Grady L. Clark, independent oil operator, as saying gasoline supplies are ample. He said Grady further stated:

"I have over 100,000 gallons of gasoline on hand at present and I have trucks and tank cars rolling daily to my source of supply. Several other companies have assured me that they have plenty of gasoline and transportation, so if there is plenty of fuel at Atlanta and if we have the transportation, why should the people of Georgia be made the victims of propaganda?"

It was also announced in Atlanta that City Councilman Joe Allen would

BRITAIN TAKES LESSON FROM RUSSIA ON HOW TO SPEED WAR WORK

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 26.—A parliamentary committee today recommended "decorations and a civil list of honors" to war workers who break production records in factories engaged in government work. This recommendation, the report said, is being adopted and lauded by the press as a valuable lesson learned from Britain's new ally, Russia.

The parliamentary committee's recommendations recalled to observers Russia's adoption in 1935 of what was called the Stakhanov system of speeding up industrial production. The plan, then considered revolutionary among orthodox Marxians, was called "rationalization of movements" for the more efficient use of tools. It was named for Alexei Stakhanov, a 35 year old miner in the Don river coal basin.

Stakhanov stepped up his daily output of coal 1,400 per cent by working his drill every minute for a six hour shift. He turned out 102 tons of coal as compared to his previous 7 tons. Now his name ranks close to Dictator Stalin as best known man in the soviet union. Under his speed up plan, Russia was able to increase production greatly.

Tokio Warned Not to Hinder Help from U.S.

MOSCOW, Aug. 27 [Wednesday] (AP).—The soviet government has informed Japan it would regard as an unfriendly act any attempt to hinder normal trade relations between the soviet union and the United States by way of far eastern soviet ports, it was announced today.

At the same time Japan was assured that goods purchased by the USSR in the United States "are destined in the first place for the satisfaction of the growing needs of the USSR in the west in connection with the defensive war imposed upon the soviet union, as well as for agricultural needs in the soviet far east."

These declarations were made Monday to the Japanese ambassador, Yoshitsugu Tatekawa, by the soviet foreign commissar, Vyacheslav Molotov, and also in Tokio.

Protest by Jap Envoy.

A Russian statement said the Japanesse ambassador had declared shipment by the United States to Vladivostok of goods purchased by the soviet union, such as oil and gasoline, "is creating an extremely delicate and difficult situation for Japan because these goods have to pass in the proximity of Japanese territory."

The statement follows:

"The official soviet news agency announces that on Aug. 25 the Japanese ambassador in Moscow, Lieut. Gen. Tatekawa, made a statement to the soviet commissar for foreign affairs, Comrade Molotov, to the effect that shipment by the United States to Vladivostok of goods purchased by the soviet union, such as oil and gasoline, is creating an extremely delicate and difficult situation for Japan because these goods have to pass in the proximity of Japanese territory.

Asked to Tell Routes.

"In view of this fact the Japanese government requested the soviet government to elucidate the question of routes and method of transport of said shipments.

"Comrade Molotov declared to the Japanese ambassador that since a similar statement had been made by the Japanese minister for foreign affairs, Mr. Toyoda [Vice Admiral Toyoda], to the soviet ambassador in Japan, Mr. Smetanin, the soviet government entrusted its ambassador in Tokio to inform the minister for foreign affairs as follows:

"The soviet government sees no ground for anxiety on the part of Japan in the fact that goods purchased by the soviet union in the United States, such as the oil and gasoline which you have mentioned, will be shipped to the soviet union by usual trade routes, including far eastern soviet ports.

"Likewise the soviet government sees no reason on its own account for anxiety in the fact that Japan imports for her needs food from other states.

Any Hindrance "Unfriendly."

"The soviet government deems it necessary in this connection to state that it could not help regarding any attempt to hinder normal trade relations between the soviet union and the United States via far eastern soviet ports otherwise than as an unfriendly act to the USRR.

"At the same time soviet government confirms that goods purchased by the soviet union in the United States are destined in the first place for the satisfaction of the growing needs of the USRR in the west in connection with the defensive war imposed upon the soviet union, as well as for agricultural needs in the soviet far east."

IRAN SAYS FOES CHECKED; NAZIS WIN 2 RED CITIES

Highly important developments were reported today from two theaters of the war in Europe and Asia.

1. The Iranian army announced that it was resisting British and Russian invaders of the kingdom and that the advance had been checked at several points. Some quarters in London described the resistance as futile and expressed the hope that Iran would make a quick settlement with the invaders.

2. Germans announced the capture of Dnepropetrovsk, big soviet industrial city in South Ukraine, and Luga, Russian railway city 90 miles south of Leningrad.

3. The Russians reported massive battles raging from the Baltic to the Black sea.

FIND SKIDMORE NIECES WORK ON SHERIFF'S STAFF

Gaming Fixer's Kin Aid O'Brien Chief.

BY JAMES DOHERTY.

Sheriff Thomas J. O'Brien, who last week forced Lester Laird, chief of the county highway police, to resign after THE TRIBUNE had photographed Laird as he dined with William R. Skidmore, last night was revealed as the sponsor and employer of two of Skidmore's nieces.

Skidmore, it will be recalled, has long been known as the graft collector in Chicago's gambling racket, and is now appealing a conviction in the federal court of cheating on a huge income collected from bookies.

When Laird resigned he said that he was acting to "save the sheriff from embarrassment." Laird admitted he was indiscreet in dining in public with Skidmore.

Hold Confidential Jobs.

County pay roll records disclosed that Skidmore's nieces [unless they resigned last night] hold confidential positions in the office of the county police chief from which occasional orders are issued to raid some of the gambling houses alleged to be under Skidmore's protection. They were in a position to know every order which came from the chief.

One of the gambling fixer's nieces, Mrs. Helen Brunner, 3821 Monticello avenue, wife of L. A. Brunner Jr., is listed as secretary to the sheriff's police chief. The other niece, Mrs. Dorothy Cobb, on the rolls as living at 3707 North Oakley avenue, has been an extra employé at $6 per day and served as an assistant secretary to Laird. Neither of the young women was on duty yesterday.

The two women are the daughters of Orrie Alexander, 4020 Patterson avenue, who besides being a brother-in-law of Skidmore was Skidmore's chief bookkeeper. Alexander was indicted on March 29, 1940, with Skidmore and William R. Johnson, the gambling king. All were charged with conspiracy to enable Johnson to evade paying the government more than a million dollars in income tax.

Johnson Gets 5 Years.

Later the government dismissed the indictment against Alexander and Skidmore in that case, but Johnson was convicted and sentenced to five years. Skidmore was tried on another indictment accusing him of cheating the government out of $353,194, and was convicted and sentenced to 30 months imprisonment in the penitentiary.

In the two trials there was testimony to the effect that Skidmore collected graft and protection money from city and county gambling houses. He was reputed to be the fixer who kept the police from closing the gambling houses and the "man who paid off."

Sheriff O'Brien, who has sole responsibility for all employés of the county highway police department—none is under civil service—was not available for an interview yesterday. He has been in his office only a few minutes at a time since the "embarrassment" of last week when THE TRIBUNE printed the photograph of Laird and Skidmore dining in the International room of the Drake hotel.

The sheriff's embarrassment was heightened by the fact that there had

HALT RAIL SABOTAGE OR DIE, WATCHMEN IN FRANCE ARE ORDERED

VICHY, France, Aug. 26 (AP).—German and French authorities, seeking to stem a tide of disorders in occupied France, today decreed new death penalties for failure to halt railway sabotage.

French civilian watchmen conscripted to guard railways around Paris will pay with their lives for any sabotage in their sectors.

Tomorrow a special French summary court authorized to sentence to death all communists and anarchists in the occupied zone will begin its hearings. It was created by the Vichy government four days ago.

The Vichy régime also fell into step with the German program of "Aryanizing" Jewish business by empowering Jewish Commissioner Xavier Vallat to name Aryan administrators for Jewish establishments thruout France.

Chicago Faces 2c Increase in Retail Milk Price Sept. 1

Chicago and suburban consumers are facing an increase of from 1 to 2 cents a quart in price of milk and may get notice of the jump by Sept. 1. Executives in the milk industry attribute this gloomy prospect to operations of the lend-lease law, which requires vast quantities of condensed milk and cheese for the benefit of Great Britain.

The department of agriculture announced yesterday that a referendum would be taken immediately among producers in the Chicago milk shed to determine whether changes in the market price fixing regulations that will raise wholesale prices sharply shall be adopted. Ballots have been mailed to 17,000 farm producers.

Approval Virtually Certain.

This is a mere formality. Farm organizations promoted the new system of price fixing, which will bring producers an estimated $435,000 a month here. Yesterday afternoon the Pure Milk association's directors voted the membership of 10,000 for the new rate and a few more cooperatives are expected to do the same today.

If they do Secretary of Agriculture Claude Wickard will have the necessary two-thirds majority of farm producers and can invoke the new schedule in a few days. Milk dealers generally have opposed the change, but are powerless under the regulations.

Estimates place the increase in the wholesale price of fluid milk at 56 cents a hundred pounds [46.5 quarts] or more. It was indicated that with this sharp upping of costs dealers would have to add nearly 1½ cents a quart to retail prices, just to break even. The current one quart delivered price is 14 cents and the standard store price 11½ cents a quart.

Cream Prices Included.

Class II milk [marketed at retail as cream] also will have a price increase. This has been estimated at 5½ to 6 cents for coffee cream and 10 cents or more a quart for whipping cream. Milk sold as a whole fluid is class I.

Farmers now are paid under a system based on a formula of prices paid for milk used to make butter and cheese. The new arrangement would substitute condensery milk prices as the base, and farmers would get 70 cents above the condensery level for 10 months in the year and 50 cents more in May and June, when the production is flush.

"It is the condenseries that are boosting prices," said Paul A. Potter, executive secretary of the Associated Milk Dealers of Chicago. "The lend-lease administrators have demanded that they operate at capacity. At present the condenseries are paying $2.10 a hundred for milk and the Chicago dealers are paying a blended [average] price of $2.14 [the July figure].

Escape Rigid Inspection.

"Since the milk at condenseries does not have to meet rigid inspection, as in the retail markets, many farmers are selling to these factories and cutting down on supplies sent here. There is no assurance that condensery price will not go higher.

"We can't predict it, but it would not be surprising if the local market would be paying $3 a hundred for bottling milk in October or November.

"The department of agriculture has let the milk industry know that condensery business will be big for years even if the war ends—they say that European nations have slaughtered their dairy herds and will need replacements of supply for a long period."

"We haven't had an opportunity to study the government announcement," said C. L. Dressel, president of Borden-Wieland, "but we can say now that as soon as an increase in farm prices is put into effect, we will be compelled to increase our customer prices immediately.

"The amount of the increase will depend upon how much the higher farm prices will added to our cost."

SENATOR SLAMS WAR PLOTTERS' 'COWARDLY' PLAN

Senator Pat McCarran [D., Nev.] yesterday warned the American people not to be fooled by the "cowardly strategy" of administration leaders who, he said, are trying to drag the United States into war. The senator voiced this warning in Chicago during a stopover on his way west.

"There is a bunch of Washington advisers to the President, led by Harry Hopkins, Harold Ickes, and their fellow travelers, who hope to take us into war," McCarran said. "Their strategy is a cowardly one. They do not dare submit the issue directly to congress or the people because they know the great majority are against war.

"Instead, their strategy is to stage a condition that will provoke an attack—probably on the American navy in the far east—and thus stir up war hysteria."

Cites Churchill Disclosure.

McCarran said administration war strategy further was indicated by Prime Minister Churchill of Great Britain when he reported last Sunday on his recent conference at sea with President Roosevelt. The significant disclosure in that speech, McCarran said, was Churchill's statement that the United States is trying in diplomatic negotiations to solve the problem of the Pacific created by Japan's desire for territorial expansion.

"Our state department has already by its statements and acts repeatedly provoked Japan," the senator said. "It is no tribute to our government, but rather to Japanese restraint, that Japan has not already declared war on us."

The eight point agreement concluded at the Roosevelt-Churchill meeting was a "red herring" to conceal the joint war plans that were apparently discussed, McCarran said.

Opposed to Russian Aid.

The senator asserted he strongly opposed sending military equipment to Russia because the communists "have spent millions of dollars and used many agents in an effort to tear down our democratic government."

"I am in favor of spending billions of dollars for national defense," McCarran continued, "but I regret that much of the billions being spent by our government is not for our defense. We are stripping our own defenses to send equipment to the nations of Europe. To any one who thinks that this country can or should go to war at this time I ask, 'With what would we fight?'

"I think we can stay out of this war if the American people will express themselves. I am convinced that even more than 80 per cent of the country is opposed to war. The people must voice their protests against the administration's war policy by writing their congressmen and holding public meetings."

Belgian Masonic Lodges Dissolved by Germans

BERLIN, Aug. 26 (AP).—The German military commander in Belgium decreed today immediate dissolution of all Free Mason lodges and institutions, as well as similar organizations and their affiliates. The commentary, Dienst Aus Deutschland, said the purpose of the decree was to "guarantee the maintenance of order." At the beginning of the German occupation Free Mason lodges were closed and further activity forbidden.

FIGHT NEW GAG ON LINDBERGH IN OKLAHOMA

3 Cities Join Free Speech Demand.

Oklahoma City, Okla., Aug. 26 [Special].—Three leading Oklahoma cities tonight repudiated the suppression of free speech evidenced in this capital city earlier in the day by its refusal to let Charles A. Lindbergh speak in the municipal auditorium here Friday night.

Herbert K. Hyde.

Soon after the city council of Oklahoma City had taken what critics termed "the disgraceful action," citizens of Tulsa, Enid, and Bartlesville extended invitations to Lindbergh to make his address in their cities.

The promptness with which the offers were made indicated the eagerness of numerous Oklahomans to prevent their state, or at least other cities, from being classed with Oklahoma City as holding the view, expressed here today, that "the time for freedom of speech is past."

Others Have Banned Him.

In several other cities outside of Oklahoma in recent months official bans have been placed on Lindbergh speeches in public auditoriums. Among them were Atlanta, Ga., Miami, Fla., and Philadelphia, Pa. Larry McPhail, head of the Brooklyn Dodgers, also refused to let America First use his baseball park for an anti-war rally.

Officials of the America First committee, which had sponsored the scheduled address here, expressed their appreciation of the invitations received from other Oklahoma towns today but asserted that the speech would be made in Oklahoma City unless it was impossible to find another hall.

Immediately following the council's action, Herbert K. Hyde, chairman of the Oklahoma City chapter of America First, said that Lindbergh would make his speech here Friday night "even if we have to use a street corner or a pasture."

Council "Stampeded."

"The council was stampeded into breaking the American principle of freedom of speech by a bunch of excited and misdirected American Legion members," declared Hyde.

He pointed out that use of the 2 million dollar auditorium, constructed with PWA funds three years ago, was granted to Security Administrator Paul V. McNutt, supporter of President Roosevelt's war views, to make a speech recently on New Deal interventionist plans.

Hyde also recalled that Senator Claude Pepper [D., Fla.], firebrand spokesman for the administration war group, was received curteously here a month and a half ago.

Similar war views are now being broadcast by Oklahoma's senator, Josh Lee, in a tour of the state.

Legion Posts Protest.

About 250 persons attended the council meeting, most of them to oppose the request to let city property be used by Lindbergh. Among those protesting against the proposed speech were representatives of two American Legion posts, Nos. 13 and 35; Harmony chapter, No. 3, of the American War Mothers; the Women's Ambulance and Transport Corps of Oklahoma, and a unit of the Knights of Pythias. E. J. Jeffery, America First committeeman, charged that two of the protesting group were members of the communist party.

By unanimous vote the council decided to cancel an advance booking of the speech.

Street Corner Available.

"We are not denying the right of free speech by refusing to rent a public building for a speech by Lindbergh," asserted A. P. Van Meter, a member of the council.

"He can go out on the street corner and talk until he gets tired and goes home. We just don't want him in our public buildings."

J. C. Pybas, Legion post commander, declared that "the time for freedom of speech is past; we have cast our lot with Britain and there is no turning back."

In New York, John T. Flynn, chairman of the New York chapter of America First, said Washington apparently was "too busy in its great crusade to open the public halls in Germany and Russia to free speech to bother about it in America."

Small Business Men's Problems to Congress

First hand information on the problems of middle western small business men will be given directly to members of congress by The Tribune.

Until further notice The Tribune, at its own expense, will forward by registered mail to members of congress each letter received by The Small Business Man's Department, recently inaugurated by The Tribune. These letters tell graphically of the urgency and diversity of the problems with which the small business man is faced under the rearmament program. The receipts signed by the member of congress or his secretary acknowledging delivery of the letter will be returned by The Tribune to the individual or firm from whom the letter was received.

The plan will serve a dual purpose. It will furnish members of congress with information on small business problems. It also will give congressmen an opportunity to help constituents whose business enterprises are in jeopardy because of lack of material or inability to qualify for government contracts.

IRAN CLAIMS ITS DEFENSE CHECKS INVADING FOES

BULLETIN.

New York, Aug. 27 [Wednesday] (AP).—Soviet Russian troops have occupied Tabriz, second city of Iran; Ardabil, 120 miles to the east, near the Caspian sea, and Shahpus, about 80 miles west of Tabriz, the British Broadcasting corporation said today. It said the source of the report was a message from Moscow. The BBC broadcast was heard by NBC.

LONDON, Aug. 27 [Wednesday] (AP).—The Iranian [Persian] high command, in a communique picked up and relayed by Berlin, reported early today that the kingdom's defenders "at several points are putting up resistance and have succeeded in holding" the British-Russian advance engulfing the country.

In spite of the report of stiff resistance received by way of Berlin, some London quarters persisted in the belief that Britain and Russia will be able to effect a quick settlement with Iran. They based their opinion on earlier dispatches from Teheran which stated that the Iranian government was continuing conversations with British and Russian representatives. Iran, they believe, may still be brought to see the futility of opposing the invaders.

The earlier dispatches said Iran had ordered 16 German owners of small businesses to leave the country within two weeks.

British Seize Oil Resources.

The Teheran communique did not say where the points of Iranian resistance were, but the British said imperial forces, on the second day of the invasion, were in possession last night of the country's vast western oil reservoir.

Several towns have been bombed, the communique said, with considerable damage to residential areas, but it claimed no military targets were hit.

"The population of all parts of the country is determined to defend the fatherland," the pronouncement concluded, "and many men are reporting to recruiting offices."

British accounts of the swift drive into Iran said air borne imperial troops descended from the skies and seized control of vital communication heads, making possible the quick seizure of oil centers.

Great Refinery Seized.

In hand, said British military reports, and secure from any possible attempt at sabotage, were:

The southern end of the pipeline stretching from the Masjid-I-Sulaiman oil field and its great refinery at Abadan, at the head of the Persian gulf. This refinery, one of the world's three largest, has a normal daily production of from 200,000 to 300,000 barrels, enough to supply the whole of the British navy. The occupation was accomplished by Indian troops striking northward beyond Bandar Shapur, Persian gulf port.

Another pipeline, 400 miles to the north, at Naft-I-Shah, was seized by British and Indian armored units and infantry who crossed the Iraq frontier from the west at Khanaqin and occupied the Iranian town of Qasir-I-Shirin.

[The "I" in such Iranian names as Nafti-I-Shah means "in" or "of." Nafti-I-Shah means "Petroleum of Kings."]

Modern Roads Captured.

Moreover, aside from commanding the sole national railway at Bandar Shapur, the western and southern terminals of Iran's only two modern highways were in British hands.

At Abadan "some fighting" was acknowledged, but the British said Iranian resistance generally was very slight.

The relatively enormous allied air forces, including large numbers of British aerial transports, had little opposition, the British said. Three Iranian fighter planes were reported strafed before they could get off the ground.

Supporting British and Russian claims that the exercise of extraordinary axis influence in Iran had forced the invasion, an official statement announced that British forces seizing Bandar Shapur, the Persian gulf harbor, captured four German merchant ships, two of them beached and damaged, along with three slightly damaged Italian vessels. Iran, said a British spokesman, had ignored British protests that harboring the ships was a violation of international law.

Developments in the British-Russian Invasion of Iran

(Story in adjoining column.)

Principal actions yesterday in the new theater of the war in Iran (Persia), based on British, Russian, and Iranian reports.

NAZIS AND IRAN PARLEY ON 'PERIL' OF U.S. AID TO REDS

BERLIN, Aug. 26 (AP).—The German spokesman disclosed today that negotiations were under way with Iran on the British-Russian invasion and the potential danger of British-American aid to Russia thru the new war zone.

Informed sources said the Germans had expected the British move and had made preparations. There were no hints, however, on what Germany might do.

In reference to British reports that the British were taking food into Iran because the Germans had deprived Iran of food commodities, a spokesman said that "not a kernel of grain was taken out."

Axis Blow Forecast.

ROME, Aug. 26 (AP).—Virginio Gayda, Fascist editor, today forecast a new move by the German and Italian armies, but did not say where it would be.

TURKS FEAR SMASH INTO IRAN MAY STIR PUSH BY GERMAN ARMY

ANKARA, Turkey, Aug. 25 [Delayed]—(AP).—Turkey found herself surrounded by battling world powers today thru the British-Russian invasion of Iran [Persia], her neighbor, and many observers in this neutral capital said they expected an active German reaction.

Whether Germany might attempt to spoil the allied plans by a headlong drive thru Turkey from her Aegean and Black sea bases or reopen the African campaign as a threat to Egypt and Suez was a subject of speculation in foreign military circles.

Officially, Turkey appeared to take the situation philosophically.

Turks "Feel Sorrow" for Iran.

ISTANBUL, Turkey, Aug. 26 (AP).—The official Turkish radio in a broadcast from Ankara today said the British-Russian invasion of Iran was neither "just nor right" because "Iran wanted only to keep neutrality." It concluded, "All Turks feel sorrow for Iran."

NEW ZEALAND AID TO U. S. PLEDGED BY PETER FRASER

Washington, D. C., Aug. 26 [Special].—New Zealand will "coöperate fully" with the United States and Great Britain if the war spreads to the Pacific, Peter Fraser, Laborite prime minister of that British dominion said today.

Fraser, before and after meetings with President Roosevelt, Secretary of State Cordell Hull, and Under Secretary of State Sumner Welles, indorsed Prime Minister Winston Churchill's recent pledge of full British aid to the United States if this country got into war with Japan.

Fraser expressed a desire to talk to Senator Burton K. Wheeler, leader of the noninterventionists. He said he had followed Mr. Wheeler's work and gained a great respect for the senator's liberal views.

CANADA DECIDES TROOPS ARE SICK OF DOING NOTHING

BY WADE WERNER.

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 26 (AP).—The news that Canadian troops in England have booed their visiting prime minister has made many Canadians at home decide with a sense of shock that their troops abroad are sick and tired of doing nothing and are discontented with the dominion's failure to introduce conscription for overseas service.

Last Saturday, Canadian Press correspondents, the only ones accredited to the Canadian forces in England, reported that mixed cheers, boos, and handclapping greeted Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King when he arrived at a sports stadium where 10,000 Canadian troops were assembled for a field day and inspection. Then, the dispatch said, there was loud and derisive booing when Mackenzie King praised the men for their "strength and appearance and spirit."

It was a shock here for Canadians to realize that the discontent heretofore noticed in individual letters from England was so widespread and outspoken that their prime minister could be booed by a large gathering of dominion troops in the presence of the commander in chief of Canadian forces overseas, Lieut. Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton.

Sends Dispatch to Canada.

When the Associated Press asked for more definite explanation of why the troops booed their premier, the Canadian Press staff correspondent with the forces in England sent this dispatch to Canada:

"Somewhere in England, Aug. 24—The sporadic booing which at times was more voluminous than handclapping and cheering during the appearance of Canadian Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King yesterday at a sports meet of Canadian troops was written off generally today as a soldierlike lark.

"Of many officers commenting on the incident only one was heard to describe the soldiers as 'naughty.' He accused them further of staging 'a poor show of discipline.'

"Sunday newspapers made no mention of the incident and during last night's regular BBC [British Broadcasting company] news broadcast a recording of King's address ran only a few seconds during which only a few sentences were heard.

Calls Booing—Army Privilege.

"In military quarters there were indications that there would be no repercussions, since one captain explained:

"'You can tell an officer to forget politics in the army but you can't tell that to a soldier . . . These chaps are over here fighting for democracy and the right to boo is a democratic principle. There's nothing in army regulations to prevent soldiers from booing civilians . . .'

"Another officer, asked if he had learned from the men the reason for their conduct, replied: 'Booing is contagious.'

"Days before the prime minister's visit threats were heard that he would be given a 'warm reception.' From the men who made these threats came suggestions that they held him personally responsible for lack of conscription in Canada and failure of the Canadian army to be given a place alongside Australia in the eastern campaign."

In England for Nearly Two Years.

These revelations brought home the fact that the war has been on a long time, that many Canadian soldiers have been in England for nearly two years without doing any fighting, and that many an eager volunteer looking forward to an early chance to get into action against the Germans must find it hard to keep up his enthusiasm on long months of routine drill far from home.

Some Canadians believed, also, that the men now abroad took this way of voicing their irritation at the present Canadian system of raising armies.

All the men now in Britain, numbering some 100,000, are volunteers. But about 100,000 more who have passed thru the one month or four month compisory training course at home cannot be used to reinforce or to relieve the overseas army, or to do any duty outside Canada unless they volunteer.

No one accuses the prime minister of telling the men it is going to be easy; he has repeatedly urged Canadians to realize that the road to victory may be a long one and a hard one.

Reviews More Troops.

Indeed, today, reviewing more Canadian soldiers in an English town, he took direct cognizance of the soldiers' discontent with their inactivity by telling them it had been left to them to play an essential part in the defense of the United Kingdom, which, he said, the British government considers "the most important theater of operations in the world."

"We realize," he said, "what a difficult thing it is to find the moment of action postponed. We know how hard it is to wait and wait and wait for that moment to come."

The soldiers gave him three vigorous cheers, the dispatch from "somewhere in England" reported.

PLANS FOR YOUNG AMERICA FIRST GROUPS OUTLINED

Representatives of seven suburban chapters of the America First committee made plans yesterday in Winnetka for the organization of "Young Americans for America First" units in their communities. Members of the new groups, which will be formed this week, will be of high school and college age.

Units will be organized in Glencoe, Wilmette, Winnetka, Evanston, Highland Park, Lake Forest, and Park Ridge. The seven groups will be incorporated into one large organization—the North Shore Chapters of Young Americans for America First. Meetings will be held in the headquarters of the Winnetka chapter at 545 Lincoln avenue.

Speakers at yesterday's meeting included M. R. Page Hufty, director of organization of the national America First committee, and Jean McMurry, chairman of the junior chapter of Park Ridge which will join the new group.

BRITONS TOLD TO SIGN UP WITH GROCER OR LOSE ONION RATION

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 26.—Those who want their onion ration—two pounds weight per capita per year—were told today they must register with green grocers next week, otherwise they will be deprived of at least part of the ration.

Meanwhile, a reporter for this evening's Star reveals that 5 tons of green onions, worth 160 pounds [about $800] are going rotten in a nursery in the outskirts of London because a departmental order prohibits pulling them up now. The grower explained that, owing to the shortage of labor and weather conditions, neither thinning nor weeding is possible, with the result that mildew is beyond control and within a fortnight the whole crop will be ruined.

The local agricultural committee sent experts who advised that the crop should be pulled up for sale now, but the national marketing board ruled otherwise.

SELECT GUESTS AT EMBASSY BID KENT FAREWELL

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 26.—A formal reception in the British embassy tonight brought to an end the two day visit of his royal highness, the duke of Kent, to the national capital.

The reception climaxed a busy day which included a visit to the Glenn L. Martin aviation plant at Baltimore, a sight seeing trip thru Washington and a cocktail party at the National Press club.

Included in the day's routine were two speeches, both of which the duke read. He told workers at the plane plant that Britain appreciates what they are doing to help win the war. He told reporters at the Press club that the faster American aid reaches Britain the quicker Hitler will be beaten.

Makes No Plea for Men.

The 39 year old duke avoided any statement which might be interpreted as a bid for American manpower.

The reception at the British embassy was held shortly before the duke left for Canada to conclude his visit of defense establishments and arms production plants. More than a hundred diplomats, officials, army and navy officers and a smattering of lesser lights were invited to the embassy.

Among those who regretfully declined invitations were Secretary of State Cordell Hull, Under Secretary of State Sumner Welles, Lease Lend Administrator Harry Hopkins, Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson, Under Secretary of Navy James Forrestall, Assistant Secretary of State Adolphe Berle, and Gen. George C. Marshall, chief of staff of the army.

Diplomats at Party.

Those attending included the ambassadors and ministers of Britain's allies. The ambassadors of Russia, Belgium and Poland preceded the ministers of Norway, Czecho-Slovakia, Jugo-Slavia, Greece, Netherlands and Luxembourg. The British diplomatic colony was present in force.

Pointedly ignored when the invitations were sent was Gaston Henry-Haye, the French ambassador. In his place the embassy invited the representative of "Free France" in the capital, a Monsieur Pleven.

Army and navy men were predominent among the invited Americans, but there was a representation of state department officials. The American guests included:

Confident of Victory.

At the press club cocktail party, the duke was presented to club members. As those present sipped cocktails, it was announced the duke would make a few informal remarks. The duke then read a four hundred word statement in which he said that the morale of the British people is excellent.

"They mean to win the war—but it can only be done by hard work and grim determination," he said. "We are confident of victory."

At the Baltimore airplane plant, the duke was cheered by thousands of workers who took time off to hear him.

"Every hour of work you put in," he told them, "every plane you turn out is saving the lives of men, women and children and bringing victory that much nearer."

U. S. TO DISPATCH MISSION TO CHINA TO PUSH WAR AID

Group Also Will Study Military Problems.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 26.—President Roosevelt today announced the United States will send a military mission to China for the purpose of facilitating the extension of lend-lease aid to that nation and studying the military situation in China.

Gen. John Magruder.

The mission's work, Mr. Roosevelt said, will be like that of the mission he plans to send shortly to Russia, except that China will receive aid from the lend-lease act while Russia will not.

Asked About Difference.

Asked why the lend-lease act operated to aid China and did not operate to aid Russia, Mr. Roosevelt said curtly it just doesn't.

The announcement of the dispatch of the military mission was made after the President conferred with Dr. Hu Shih, the Chinese ambassador. The mission is to be headed by Brig. Gen. John Magruder, who has twice served as military attaché in China and will therefore be on familiar ground.

Function Set Forth.

In the formal announcement Mr. Roosevelt said:

"The function of the mission will be to study, in collaboration with Chinese and other authorities, the military situation in China, the need of the Chinese government for materiel and materials; to formulate recommendations regarding types and quantities of items needed; to assist in procurement in this country and in delivery in China of such materiel and materials; to instruct in the use and maintenance of articles thus provided, and to give advice and suggestions of appropriate character toward making lend-lease assistance to China as effective as possible in the interest of the United States, of China, and of the world effort in resistance to movements of conquest by force."

JARECKI DELAYS HIS DECISION ON BALLOT RECOUNT

County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki yesterday deferred until Sept. 3 his decision on a petition for a city-wide recount of ballots cast in the Municipal election last November. Former Judges Edward B. Casey and Samuel Heller, Republicans, were next in line in the election returns after the 12 winning Democratic judges.

James P. Connery, election board clerk assigned to the task, reported yesterday that he found 164 disreputable ballots in the sample recount of 25 precincts out of 3,648 in the city. Heller, who is more interested in the recount results than Casey, asked Judge Jarecki whether it would be possible to have a handwriting expert examine these 164 ballots. He said these evidently were marked by several persons.

Judge Jarecki said he favored a methodical investigation. He instructed Connery to examine the oaths of election officials and affidavits of voters in the 25 precincts. Judges Leroy Hackett and Joseph J. Drucker received the least votes among the 12 Democrats.

SIX BOARDS ERR IN GIVING DRAFT NUMBERS TO 847

The complicated instructions for assigning order numbers to the 21 year old draftees who registered July 1 proved too much for six of the 151 Chicago draft boards, state selective service headquarters announced yesterday. As a result 847 registrants will get new numbers.

14 NEW PARALYSIS CASES REPORTED THRUOUT ILLINOIS

Fourteen new cases of infantile paralysis in Illinois were reported to the state health department yesterday. Dr. Roland C. Cross, state health director, said the new cases raise the state's total for the year to 133, more than double the number reported up to this date last year. Eight of the new cases were reported in Cook county, two in Madison county and one each in Du Page, Henderson, McHenry and La Salle counties. The new Cook county cases raise the total for the year in the metropolitan area to 69.

THINK PRIORITIES DO NOT AFFECT YOU? JUST WAIT!

Rude Awakening in Store for the Unconcerned.

BY CHARLES LEAVELLE.

The average citizen who has been unconcerned by the priorities of the national armament program is about to get a rude shock.

He has read that the very existence of thousands of small businesses and industries is threatened and he has seen the lengthening lists of metals and articles that are being rationed under the priorities. But he has considered as remote the possibility that he himself will feel the pinch. Nothing could be more erroneous.

Housewives Are Unconcerned.

A survey taken among Chicago housewives discloses that the majority of them are unconcerned over the rationing system. Several remarked that altho silk has come under full governmental priority, there still are plenty of silk stockings available at little or no price advance.

But the time is fast approaching when present stocks in many lines will be exhausted. When that time comes, literally scores of articles that have come to be regarded as necessities will be scarce or unavailable. And the housewife will be the first affected.

No aluminum kitchen utensils have been manufactured for many months. Galvanized iron and tin are on the priorities list. So is stainless steel, from which cutlery and other utensils are made. Manufacturers state that there may be a return to the cast iron skillet and pot if the administration's emergency proclamation stretches over a long period.

Vacuum Cleaner Situation.

Makers of vacuum cleaners and parts have been affected by the priorities. Not only may these machines become hard to get, there may be long delays in getting replacement parts for repairs.

Gas stoves, ironers, washers, and lighting equipment stocks are being depleted much more rapidly than they are being replenished. There is expected to be a dearth of certain types of furniture because the factories can no longer get some of the machinery they need.

Even mousetrap production is threatened. Steel wire is unavailable, according to the Illinois Manufacturers association. Electrical refrigerators and parts are in the same class with vacuum cleaners.

This is true, too, of musical instruments. If a string snaps on your piano, you may wait a long time for another one. There may be long delays in having your electric phonograph or radio repaired. By this time next year entire lines of radios may be off the market.

In addition to these, shortages are expected in tires, cotton ducks, and twills, hand tools, linens, cork, household paints and varnishes, and even pins and needles.

And there will be a great simplification of design in many lines. Silverware manufacturers have led off by cutting their offerings to a few simple designs. They hope this will stave off curtailment because of the shortage of nickel silver. Clothing manufacturers plan to drop many of the frills.

So will automobile makers, whose output has been ordered cut by 50 per cent next year. And another thing—if your car is getting along in years, you may have difficulty in getting replacement parts for it.

One of the most serious and pressing shortages just now is that of galvanized iron sheets and steel, needed by heating contractors installing warm air furnaces in new homes. Many of them have been blocked on contracts signed months ago.

Delays in Occupation.

Some fear that many new homes will not be ready for winter occupancy unless the need is supplied.

Several manufacturers believe the nation-wide collection of scrap aluminum will be followed by collections of scrapiron and steel, old rubber, and waste paper. Before the so-called emergency is ended, they assert, many common materials probably will be reclaimed as vigorously here as they are in Germany and England.

Many nonarmament industries probably will be forced to close under the priorities system, these authorities fear.

Divorced

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Betty Jaynes and Douglas McPhail.

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 26 [Special].—A telephone call to the courtroom by her estranged husband, Douglas S. McPhail, film actor, today failed to stop his actress wife, Betty Jaynes, from obtaining a divorce decree on the ground of cruelty. She testified that McPhail stayed away from home without explanations. Judge Goodwin J. Knight granted her custody of their child, Joan Lorraine, 19 months old, and approved a property settlement whereby she will receive 25 per cent of McPhail's $500 a week income. The McPhails were married in June, 1938, and separated last June.

FRENCH INCREASE SEA TRADE WITH AFRICA COLONIES

Portugal and Morocco to Swap Goods.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VICHY, France, Aug. 26.—Trade between Europe and North Africa is increasing despite the war. It is estimated that 200,000 tons of goods are reaching Marseilles each month from North and West African possessions of France.

Today the Vichy government announced a clearing agreement on goods between Portugal and Morocco. The arrangement was negotiated in Lisbon, Portugal.

According to its terms, and by British assent, Morocco will ship directly to Portugal 18,000,000 escudos [nominally about $1,318,200] worth of phosphates. In return Portugal will ship 9,000,000 escudos [about $659,100] worth of cotton goods and 9,000,000 escudos worth of wood to Morocco.

Navicerts Cover Deal.

This deal is covered, so far as shipment is concerned, by navicerts [certificates required for passage of goods thru the British blockade].

Presumably phosphates, which usually are required as an agricultural fertilizer element, are needed in Portugal, but it is not stated whether goods sent from Morocco to Portugal are subject to reëxport.

It was stated here that negotiations are continuing in Lisbon between the French and Portuguese for extending the exchanges to other goods between Portugal and Morocco.

It is presumed that shipment will be made in Portuguese ships between Casablanca, Morocco, and Lisbon.

Even Tankers Get Thru.

Morocco in recent months has been sending a large amount of products to France thru Marseilles. Even gasoline tankers from St. Louis, French West Africa, are getting thru Gibraltar to Marseilles.

The large amount of shipping arriving regularly in Marseilles from North Africa indicates that either the British are not interfering with traffic in the western Mediterranean or else French cargoes are being convoyed.

SALESMAN INDICTED FOR SENDING ABROAD FACTS ON U. S. ARMY

New York, Aug. 26 (AP).—Arrest and indictment of Kurt Frederick Ludwig, 38 year old American born son of German parents, on charges of sending abroad information concerning the strength of the United States army, was announced today by United States Attorney Mathias F. Correa.

Kurt Ludwig.

Ludwig was accused of unlawfully using the mails to send matter banned by the espionage act of 1917. Specifically, it was alleged that he sent out information on the disposition, numerical strength, and equipment of the army.

Correa said Ludwig was taken in custody Saturday by federal bureau of investigation agents near Seattle, Wash. Ludwig, a salesman who received his education in Germany, has a wife living in Germany. He resided on Fresh Pond road in Queens, New York City.

Edwin Smith's NLRB Term Ends; Status Left in Doubt

Washington, D. C., Aug. 26 (AP).—The term of Edwin S. Smith, last of the original members of the National Labor Relations board, reached its final day today with no indication that he would be reappointed by President Roosevelt. Smith, preparing to vacate his office, told reporters he had received "no information one way or the other" concerning the possibility of a reappointment or the selection of a successor. The AFL has opposed Smith's reappointment, while the CIO has urged it. He was appointed in 1934.

AID-FUND MISUSE CHARGES FALSE, SAYS ROOSEVELT

Splurge Story Just Dirty Untruth, He Asserts.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 26.—President Roosevelt today characterized charges of misuse of lend-lease funds as distorted half truths and dirty falsehoods being spread to sabotage the program to defeat Hitlerism.

Mr. Roosevelt took cognizance of the stories of widespread abuse of lend-lease funds circulating in the capital as his administration is preparing to ask congress for a second lend-lease appropriation.

Estimates of the size of the new appropriations range from 5 to 10 billion dollars. The first lend-lease appropriation, which has been largely spent or allocated since last March, was for 7 billion dollars.

How F. D. R. Views It.

Mr. Roosevelt declared an organized campaign of rumors, distortions, half truths, and falsehoods has been launched with the definite purpose of sabotaging the program of aid to the opponents of the axis powers.

He asserted he considered it fair to say that all stories charging misuse of lend-lease funds are vicious rumors, distortions of fact, or falsehoods. To emphasize his point, Mr. Roosevelt branded such stories plain, dirty falsehoods.

The President's denial of misue of lend-lease funds came when he was asked to comment on a story which appeared in a Washington paper that British officials had run up huge bills in Washington restaurants which were paid for out of lend-lease funds.

Story Obtained by Tribune.

The story was obtained by THE TRIBUNE and appeared in the Times Herald in Washington. The story said it had been reported in reliable congressional circles that British officials had run up a bill of more than $30,000 in an ultra-fashionable Washington restaurant.

This story originated from responsible members of congress, who have been studying lend-lease expenditures. The same Tribune story said the British had used lend-lease funds to purchase air conditioning units for their headquarters in a Washington hotel. This information came from responsible naval officers.

The Tribune story was reprinted in the congressional record today. It was introduced into the record by Representative Paul W. Shafer [R., Mich.].

Mr. Roosevelt said he was very certain no such bills were charged up in Washington restaurants and the newspaper column which made the charge was a very good example of what he was talking about in alleging attempts are being made to sabotage the lend-lease program.

The story did not appear in a so-called newspaper column but in a regular news story. Mr. Roosevelt evidently was confused by the fact that a newspaper column in the Times Herald carried the story that the British had used lend-lease funds to pay for sherry glasses, wine glasses, port glasses, and brandy glasses.

The other story, denied by the President, appeared in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE and in a news magazine. It stated that British firms are doing business as usual in shipping steel fabricated products to the Argentine in competition with American firms which must send their steel to England.

Calls It a Half Truth.

The President characterized this story as a half truth which is just as dangerous as a deliberate falsehood.

The British did have some contracts for steel products in the Argentine which dated from some time back. British firms did deliver materials, which were part steel, to fill these contracts.

Under no interpretation, he insisted, could these shipments be considered American steel. The contracts were a holdover from previous negotiations and had to be fulfilled under terms of an Anglo-Argentine agreement.

Mr. Roosevelt asked that he not be quoted as denying the stories. He said that such stories are not worthy of denial. They are just plain, dirty falsehoods, he repeated.

BEWARE OF PLOT TO BREAK UP AXIS, NAZIS WARN JAPS

TOKIO, Aug. 27 [Wednesday] (AP).—The Japanese government weighed its position in the warring world anew today in the light of current developments. It pondered the international situation with close attention following a warning from the German embassy to the Japanese people to beware of a British attempt to split the Berlin-Rome-Tokio bloc.

Count Ladislaws von Mirbach-Geldern, press attaché of the German embassy, said that Prime Minister Churchill's references to Japan in his broadcast Sunday were part of a British strategy to divide the axis nations.

"We should take care," he said, "not to play into the hands of the British plot, and thus be divided and ruled."

FIVE ARRESTED ON UNLICENSED DENTIST CHARGE

Five men, charged by the state department of registration and education with having practiced dentistry without licenses, were arrested yesterday. Warrants for the arrest of a faith healer, a beauty culturist, two dentists and two chiropractors were turned over by the department to deputy sheriffs.

Those under arrest are Albert E. Winner and Anthony Peterson, both of 127 North Dearborn street; A. L. Young of the Excel Dental laboratory, 32 West Washington street; Otto Butz, 64 West Randolph street, and Harry Franklin, 3336 Evergreen avenue.

Investigations on which the charges were based were made by the state department. The state's attorney's office had examined the evidence and recommended the issuance of the warrants by the County court.

Seized by FBI on Charge of Impersonating Agent

Edward W. Teske, 22 years old, 3656 Monticello avenue, was arrested by agents of the federal bureau of investigation yesterday. He was accused of impersonating an FBI agent. Four complainants charged that, because of his alleged position, they had given him $968 to finance collection of $625,000 which he said was due him for an invention. He was held in bonds of $2,000 by United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker. A hearing was set for Thursday.

ICKES' OFFICE JOLTED BY GAS SHORTAGE QUIZ

seek repeal of an ordinance restricting sale of gasoline at night and on Sundays when the council meets next Tuesday. Allen pointed out that neighboring communities refused to limit sales, and added: "Atlanta is being made the goat. I see no reason for people merely to have to drive just outside of Atlanta to get gasoline."

Call Shortage a War Plot.

In Washington meanwhile three senators charged that the purported shortage of gasoline was just an attempt to drum up the war spirit. They challenged the administration to prove there was a real scarcity.

"The so-called gasoline shortage is a 100 per cent occasion for a performance to create a war consciousness," declared Senator Gerald P. Nye [R., N. D.]. He was joined in his accusations by Senators D. Worth Clark [D., Idaho] and John A. Danaher [R., Conn.].

"There have been so many conflicting statements from various government agencies that it is impossible for an observer to ascertain the facts," said Nye. "Administration officials must come before congress and present facts and figures demonstrating whether this shortage actually exists."

Decide to Go Ahead.

After approving the resolution today the senate committee decided to proceed with the inquiry this week. A subcommittee appointed for this purpose consists of: Senators Maloney, chairman; George L. Radcliffe [D., Md.], W. Lee O'Daniel [D., Tex.], Harold H. Burton [R., O.], and W. Warren Barbour [R., N. J.].

Most of the hearings will be open, Maloney said, but there may be some closed hearings if President Roosevelt insists that armament secrets may be exposed in the testimony.

The committee's decision to go ahead with the inquiry at once amounts to a short cut which will insure several days of hearings before the senate convenes again and formally approves the investigation. After the senate gives its approval Vice President Wallace automatically has the power to appoint the five man investigating committee. He can appoint the same five senators or he can replace any one or all of them.

Inquiry Called For.

Some doubt was expressed in capitol corridors that Wallace would appoint members who might be too vigorous in conducting the gasoline probe. His committee, as soon as it is named, will take over the inquiry from the Maloney committee. However, had the senators decided to wait for action by Wallace, he would have been able to tie up the inquiry simply by neglecting to appoint any one.

The resolution calls for "a full and complete investigation with respect to the shortages of gasoline, fuel oil and other petroleum products in the various states, the methods being employed for the purpose of curtailing deliveries of such products for ordinary consumer use, and the most effective means that may be employed for insuring an adequate supply of such products for national defense purposes without undue hardship to business enterprises and consumers generally."

Leon Henderson, price control administrator, announced that the government would take action within the next two days to stabilize gasoline prices in Atlantic seaboard states. Henderson said some dealers were "wilfully profiteering at the expense of motorists" because of the shortage scare stimulated by Ickes.

Ickes Away on Vacation.

Ickes left for a west coast vacation after inquiries began to arise about the need for gasless Sundays and shutting down of gas stations overnight. His two chief assistants, Dempsey and Davies, have been bearing the brunt of the storm of protests flooding the oil coördinator's department and the department of the interior. A 500 gallon gasoline tank was discovered on Ickes' estate after his departure.

Henderson said no advance in prices to gasoline dealers had been made by major oil companies which had "adhered faithfully to an agreement with this office not to raise prices without prior consultation."

"But the dealers have independently increased their margin of profit in many instances by retail prices," Henderson said.

It was possible, he added, that a ceiling on gas prices might be placed but that it was hoped to work out some less drastic program.

WAR PROSPERITY FALSE, HOSPITAL HEADS WARNED

Dr. G. Harvey Agnew of Toronto, former president of the American Hospital association, warned hospital administrators at their ninth annual institute yesterday at the University of Chicago that present war prosperity is temporary and false, and that they cannot count on it to offset rising costs of operation and new construction.

"If history repeats itself, these costs will be maintained or perhaps go even higher in the years following the war," said Dr. Agnew, who is now secretary of the department of hospital service of the Canadian Medical association.

"Increased taxes and decreased profits of investments are making it less likely that philanthropy will be able to keep pace with the rising cost of providing hospital care. We must face the fact that it is going to become steadily more difficult for us to obtain the financial support which our hospitals must have if they are to continue their work."

ICKES VACATIONS IN MOUNTAINS; U. S. FOOTING BILL

Portland, Ore., Aug. 26 [Special].—The United States government is providing without cost to the guests a nifty mountain cabin in Olympic national park for the vacation of Secretary of the Interior Harold Ickes and his wife. They have accommodations similar to those which cost ordinary tourists $10 a day in that Washington state locality.

The cottage is at Lake Crescent, part of an area set aside as a national park during Ickes' tenure as head of the interior department. Horses for trail trips, swimming outfits and other paraphernalia required by vacationists are available at the government's expense.

GERMANS SEIZE DNEPROPETROVSK IN SOUTH UKRAINE

Capture Luga, 90 Miles from Leningrad.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
HELSINGFORS, Finland, Aug. 26.—The Tallinn (Estonia) radio, which has been silent for three days, tonight broadcast a German program. The city is believed to have been captured by the Germans.

(Map on page 9.)

BERLIN, Aug. 26 (AP).—The Germans tonight announced the capture of the great industrial city of Dnepropetrovsk, last Russian foothold west of the Dnieper river in southern Ukraine, and the railway city of Luga, 90 miles south of Leningrad.

The high command said troops of Field Marshal Ewald von Kleist took Dnepropetrovsk after heavy fighting, but it did not disclose whether the huge hydroelectric power dam below the city was still standing. Eleventh largest city of the soviet union, Dnepropetrovsk has a population of 500,000.

Red Retreat Cut Off.

The Germans said the capture of Dnepropetrovsk gave them and their allies possession of all of the southern Ukraine except beleaguered Odessa. DNB, official German news agency, reported the capture of a series of bridgeheads on the Dnieper by German and Hungarian troops, cutting off the retreat of Red army remnants.

"All attempts of the soviets to hold up the German attacks by throwing forward masses of infantry collapsed in concentrated fire of German and Hungarian trops," the news agency said.

It added that several companies of Russians trying to reach the west bank of the Dnieper were "completely wiped out" and that even on the east bank of the river "for miles there was the scene of destruction, with thousands of dead Russians lying along the bank of the wreckage and upturned boats floating on the stream."

German planes were striking beyong Dnepropetrovsk at Russian troops described as retreating on the east bank of the Dnieper. Heavy bombs were said to be killing many troops and leaving smashed guns and trucks along the road.

Claims 83,596 Prisoners.

"Speedy units of Von Kleist's panzer [armored] army after heavy fighting yesterday stormed and took the bridgehead of Dnepropetrovsk and the town itself," the German communique said.

"Thus the enemy lost his last base on the west bank of the Dnieper below Kiev.

"Since the advance in the Dnieper bend after the battle of Uman [Aug. 9] Von Kleist's panzer army has brought in a total of 83,596 prisoners.

"Four hundred and sixty-five artillery pieces, 199 tanks, and innumerable other war material have been taken as booty."

The fall of Luga on the northern front was announced by DNB. It said the town's 20,000 inhabitants defended it valiantly against German troops who broke thru 112 defense bunkers and cleared away 2,900 mines to reach it.

From the Odessa area, under German and Rumanian siege since Aug. 19, the only report of activity was the aerial bombing of an 8,000 ton soviet troopship off the big Black sea port.

Finns Report Gains.

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Aug. 26 (AP).—The Finnish army struck at several points along a 100 mile front tonight, army reports said, in simultaneous attacks timed to coincide with the German push at Leningrad from Novgorod. Advances were made in the area of Viipuri [Viborg], the Karelian capital.

Between Lake Ladoga and Lake Onega, Finnish forces captured a large area east of Suojaervi. Farther north a new wedge was driven toward the Murmansk railway.

Wedding Revealed

[Acme Photo.]
MRS. ALLEN SAYLER.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 26 (AP).—Senator and Mrs. Burton K. Wheeler of Montana announced today the marriage of their daughter, Frances, to Allen Sayler of Washington, an employé of the Federal Communications commission. The ceremony took place at a friend's home in Maryland Aug. 15. The senator and his wife, who were then vacationing in New England, learned of it on their return to Washington a few days ago, Mrs. Wheeler said.

I'D LIKE TO SEE U. S. IN THE WAR —BEAVERBROOK

But It's Up to People, Says British Aid.

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
LONDON, Aug. 26.—Just back from America, Minister of Supply Lord Beaverbrook today said he "would like to see" America "in the war with us now," but added that the decision to go to war is the business of the citizens of the United States.

Asked at a press conference, "When do you think the United States will come into the war?" he answered: "That is for the United States to decide." Pressed for his own attitude, he said:

"I would like to see them in, but I couple that statement with the assurance that I recognize it is nobody's business other than that of the citizens of the United States. I am not going to be hypocritical. I belong to those who would like to see the United States taking part in the war in a greater degree and a higher measure."

No Limit to Demands.

Altho praising American production and supplies being sent to England, he declared:

"There is no limit to the demands we shall make and the answer to the question as to when a satisfactory peace will be reached is 'never' from our point of view."

He praised both American airplanes and tanks. He said the American planes are "just as fine as any product in this country or any other country," said America's new light tanks are "fine," and reported they are reaching Britain "in considerable numbers." He said there is no need for tank modernization in the United States.

Asserting he feels "no pessimism about increasing United States production," he said this has moved Britain to reduce its American imports, particularly iron and steel. Because of the growth of the American program, he said, Britain might limit pig iron imports and receive more finished products instead.

Output Short of Expectations.

Altho he said Britain last week reached a peak in tank production and that its output of guns and explosives is "entirely pleasing for the moment," he said, however, that Britain's production is not up to his expectations after two years of war.

"We are now in the unhappy state of having more troops than weapons," he said.

Even as he was speaking, two strikes broke out in Scotland. In one plant many employés stopped work on the charge that unskilled men were doing skilled work, to the detriment of trade unionists, while in another plant 1,000 woman machine operators quit in protest against the dismissal of two male union officials.

TORPEDO PLANE HITS A BRITISH CRUISER: ROME

ROME, Aug. 26 (AP).—The Italian high command today announced that an Italian torpedo-carrying plane had damaged a British cruiser of the Dido class [5,450 tons] off the Libyan coast, near Sollum, Egypt. German dive bombers, protected by Italian fighters, were said to have blasted defense works at Tobruk, Libya.

British Raid Bardia, Tripoli.

CAIRO, Egypt, Aug. 26 (AP).—The royal air force middle east command today reported that South African planes yesterday bombed enemy dumps in the neighborhood of Bardia, Libya, after the RAF had started fires in Tripoli, Libya, on Sunday night.

[In London the admiralty reported yesterday that torpedo-carrying seaplanes attacked "military objectives north and south of Tempio on the island of Sardinia, starting large fires."]

TROOPS IMPROVE BUT CHIEFS FIND MUCH TO BETTER

Illinois Division Hears of Its Mistakes.

BY CLAY GOWRAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
Second army field headquarters, Prescott Ark, Aug. 26.—The 75,000 soldiers of the 2d army currently engaged in war maneuvers in this southwestern Arkansas area are making progress in their training, but they still have a long way to go. In fact, they have just begun their work.

This was the opinion voiced tonight by Maj. Gen. Robert C. Richardson Jr., commander of the 7th army corps, who with Lieut. Gen. Ben Lear, the army commander, is directing the Arkansas war games. Gen. Richardson addressed an audience of 300 officers at a critique which ended the third mock battle of the maneuver period.

Finds Aggressiveness Lacking.

Taking the speaker's stand in turn, Gen. Lear declared that he has noticed a lack of aggressiveness in the maneuvers to date.

"I've concluded from my observations that there is a lack of aggressiveness in the advance guard units which have participated in the problems of the last ten days," Gen. Lear said. "Too much time is lost. Commanders of such leading elements must feel out the enemy, determine his strength, location and flanks, and get that information back to higher commanders immediately."

Gen. Richardson, the principal speaker at the critique, devoted much of his discussion to the night withdrawal made by the 27th [New York], 33d [Illinois], and 35th [Missouri, Kansas, and Arkansas] divisions last night in the face of a simulated force many times the strength of the three divisions. The withdrawals necessitated the crossing of Terre Rouge creek, a swift stream southwest of Prescott.

"I would summarize the withdrawal as a very creditable one," Gen. Richardson said. "It is quite a feat to take a military population the size of the city of Charleston, S. C., and move it 18 miles, and across a river, during the black hours of the night.

Find Several Faults.

Col. Paul J. McDonnell, chief umpire of the war games, said that altho daylight operations preceding the withdrawal were excellent, the night movement was not so well done.

"There were numerous traffic jams, and misunderstandings concerning the use of lights," he said.

"Also, during inspections, I found many commanders ranging from corporals on up who knew what they were supposed to do, but not why," Col. McDonnell continued. "In such cases, confusion resulted if a change in the situation came."

SUBWAYS CAVE IN AS RAIN DELUGE FLOODS NEW YORK

New York, Aug. 26 (AP).—Streets, sidewalks, two subways, and part of a railroad line caved in tonight and the city suffered its worst transportation tieup in history during a violent rainstorm that lasted several hours. Within an hour and a half, sheets of rain, driven by a 50 mile an hour wind, inundated the Metropolitan area with 2.13 inches of water.

The transportation tieup marooned thousands of persons in automobiles and on subway and railroad trains. A pencil peddler was killed by a bus during the storm. An automobile fell into each of the two subway cave-ins in Brooklyn. Fire headquarters disclosed that 179 alarms were sounded between 6 and 8 p. m.

HUGE BATTLES RAGE ON ENTIRE FRONT—MOSCOW

101 Nazi Planes Smashed in Leningrad Fight.

MOSCOW, Aug. 27 [Wednesday]—(AP).—Massive battles of men and machines raged on unchecked from the Baltic to the Black sea today. In tremendous air battles before Leningrad the Russians reported 101 Nazi planes destroyed in the sky and on airdromes in two days.

Below the almost continuous fighting for mastery of the air above the soviet union's second city, Russian military dispatches said, German motorcyclists and infantry charging toward the Baltic port were being mowed down by soviet machine gunners in forest canopied redoubts.

18 Planes Lost, Reds Say.

In air clashes on Monday alone the soviet information bureau communique listed 93 German planes destroyed along the entire front and 63 the day before. It gave the Red air force losses for Monday as only 18.

The fact that most of the German planes were downed in the Leningrad area indicated that the Germans now have launched an all-out aerial offensive to try to soften up the city for Germans driving up from the south and southwest.

The early morning communique gave no details, saying only that the Red army was heavily engaged along the whole front.

Loss of Novgorod, fortress city 100 miles south of Leningrad, was acknowledged, and the Germans were described as striving to close in on Leningrad itself.

Cites Work of Machine Gunners.

But Red Star, newspaper of the Red army, cited the work of the soviet machine gun crews in contesting the advance even when tanks were thrown in.

First, it said, the Germans laid down a heavy preparatory artillery barrage, but the Russians laid low and met the following German infantry with a deadly fire as they advanced in close ranks.

Then tanks and motorcyclists were sent forward in the woods to mop up the machine gun nests, but they, too, were routed or slain, Red Star reported.

The communique praised the populace of Leningrad which it said was "rising as a steel wall in defense of its native city—the cradle of the proletarian revolution."

Learn How to Wreck Tanks.

In preparation for the pledged all-out, street by street defense of the city, thousands are learning how to disable tanks with hand grenades and gasoline bombs, while others are polishing their marksmanship with rifle and machine gun.

Shop windows are barricaded with sandbags and wooden beams. The "people's army" already is on the march, including detachments of girls in overalls and berets.

Outside the city, hidden in the northern forests and fields, are heavily camouflaged anti-aircraft batteries which throw up a thick curtain of fire all around.

In the Ukraine, on the southern front, the Red Star said, the German Ninth tank division lost half its men and equipment in one battle and that the German 16th division lost 400 cars and trucks in another single encounter.

The Rumanian First guards division was routed after the defeat last week of four Rumanian infantry divisions, the army paper said.

CABINET REJECTS AUSTRALIA LABOR DEMAND IT QUIT

CANBERRA, Australia, Aug. 26 (AP).—The cabinet of Prime Minister R. G. Menzies tonight rejected a Labor party demand that it resign. An official statement to that effect was issued after a five hour cabinet meeting, which followed a Labor caucus' rejection of Menzies' bid for Labor to join in a national government.

The Laborites demanded instead the cabinet's resignation to make way for a Labor government.

Menzies made his offer of a national government, in which Labor would have equal representation with government parties, last week. The government parties have only one more seat in the lower house of parliament than the labor opposition.

BRITAIN NAMES NEW COMMANDER FOR EAST AFRICA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 26.—The war office tonight announced creation of a new East African military command, including the territories between the southern border of the Sudan and the northern border of southern Rhodesia. This command, which will operate directly under the war office, was created "in view of the virtual termination of operations in East Africa and to enable the commander in chief in the middle east [Lieut. Gen. Claude Auchinleck] to devote his whole attention to more active theaters."

Lieut. Gen. Sir William Platt.

Lieut. Gen. Sir William Platt, commander of Sudan, was named to direct the new command and Lieut. Gen. Sir Alan G. Cunningham, commander of British East Africa, was transferred to an undisclosed command in the middle east.

Altho there was no indication that the changes would be followed by any immediate extension of military operations in North Africa, news dispatches have been calling attention to the growing danger of a German infiltration in North Africa. These reports say the Germans "have a complete general staff, at least in embryo," in "Vichy North Africa." It is reported that "Tunisia is the real critical point in North Africa."

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 26 (AP).—An explosion of a gasoline motor started a fire last night which destroyed the Constantino Meat Packing plant. Barney Constantino, plant owner, estimated the loss at $22,000.

RALLY TO BATTLE WAR PACKING AT VFW CONVENTION

Grace Leads Action for Vets' Referendum.

BY THOMAS MORROW.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 26.—Two resolutions voted tonight by the Illinois delegation promised fireworks tomorrow in the national convention of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

William J. Grace.

The Illinois contingent in caucus resolved that the question of war or peace is a matter for a referendum vote of the whole membership and not to be decided by VFW politicians who are here as delegates. Illinois members also voted to carry to the convention floor the fight in behalf of Earl Southard, suspended state commander.

The resolution, approved after the Illinois group had heard William J. Grace, past state commander, charge that the convention is a "war packed" meeting, provided that all members in good standing should be permitted at post meetings to vote on the grave issue of intervention.

Grace Confident of Vote.

"Not one speaker who represents the 80 per cent of Americans who want to stay clear of European squabbles has been allowed to reach the speakers' platform," Grace declared. "And, I am sure, if the question of war or peace is placed before the membership of this organization that the vote will be overwhelmingly for strong defense and against taking part in the endless armed arguments of Europe."

The Illinois delegation also voted without hesitation to demand that Southard be cleared and seated as a delegate to the convention. The Illinois commander, wounded 19 times during the last war, was charged with disloyalty to the United States by two members of his Chicago post because he spoke out against administration war policies.

Commander in Chief Joseph C. Menendez of New Orleans suspended Southard and called on a court martial court of 11 past state commanders to decide the issue.

Verdict Still Withheld.

The court, meeting in Chicago, reached a secret verdict and passed it along to Menendez for verification and to be made public. He has not revealed the findings of the court.

It was said that if Menendez could hold up the courtmartial verdict until Friday, Southard, a strong nonintervention ist, would be silenced and a war-minded Illinois delegate could be found to speak for the state. Grace planned to carry the fight to the convention floor tomorrow by calling for a report of the credentials committee and demanding the seating of Southard.

'Wait and See,' Says Southard.

"If that verdict calls for a public reprimand I will not take it," Southard said. "I will not stand for that man [Menendez] questioning my Americanism."

Asked what he would do if the reprimand was given by Menendez, Southard said: "Wait and see."

"I am here to be vindicated by the men whose dues were misspent in the court martial persecution of me," Southard continued. "When the fighting men in our organization know the truth there will be no question of their action.

"The commander in chief is preaching unity. Unity with whom—with the 80 per cent of American people who want to stay out of war—or unity with the communists and their allies who want to destroy our country, people, and institutions by getting into war?"

Singer's Views Assailed.

Grace today called attention of Illinois delegates to a resolution denouncing the war views of Max Singer of Boston, senior vice commander, who, under normal VFW customs, will replace Menendez as national commander. This resolution was passed by the 5th district of Illinois and sent out to the convention.

It spoke out against the interventionist attitude of Singer and stated that "unless the present senior vice commander of the national organization changes his attitude on the present war situation he is unworthy of support to succeed to the office of commander in chief."

Meanwhile Grace and his contingent watched with interest for a report of the resolutions committee which is expected to call for indorsement of President Roosevelt's policies.

The Grace camp planned to speak against this resolution.

Sparse Group Hears La Guardia.

During the morning session a crowd which half filled Mastbaum theater listened disconsolately while Mayor Fiorello La Guardia of New York city said there could be no peace with Hitler.

After being spoken at all morning the veterans gave a sigh of relief and went out to parade. Between 40,000 and 50,000 trudged 15 blocks. It was estimated between 200,000 and 300,000 persons saw the parade.

Results of the ritual degree team contest were announced as follows: First place, $300 cash and J. I. Billman trophy, Wolverine post, No. 171, Detroit, Mich.; second place, $200, F. W. Galbraith post, No. 828, Davenport, Ia.; third place, $100, Lansdale post, No. 32, Lansdale, Pa., and fourth place, Jackson county council, Kansas City, Mo.

DENIES GERMAN INFILTRATION IN WEST AFRICA

DAKAR, French West Africa, Aug. 26 (AP).—The governor general of West French Africa today issued a denial that there was any German infiltration into Senegal territory.

[Senegal is one of the eight governmental divisions of French West Africa, of which another is Dakar and dependencies.]

"No Germans" in West Africa.

VICHY, France, Aug. 26 (AP).—An official French statement, prompted by foreign radio charges that the Germans are taking over Dakar, French West African naval base, said today: "There is not a German in all French West Africa, not even an armistice commission."

The statement said Germans flew to Dakar immediately after the armistice to take out Germans who had been interned as enemy aliens. Afterward, it added, the commission made inspection trips, then departed, and no other Germans have arrived.

FIND SKIDMORE NIECES WORK ON SHERIFF'S STAFF

been considerable publicity all last week over Laird's calls on gambling houses inside the city limits of Chicago. There had been political embarrassments after this invasion because for 40 years or more the sheriff had been bound by a gentlemen's agreement—or some such pact—to ignore city gambling. It was remarked that he could do as he wanted about gambling in the rest of the county, but custom forbade him from snooping in the city.

Laird last night denied knowing that his secretaries were relatives of Skidmore. He said they were hired by Sheriff O'Brien, who sent them to him to be put to work. He said he didn't ask any questions about their backers or their political connections.

Mrs. Brunner was drawing $200 per month. Her employment began in January, 1940. Mrs. Cobb was first hired last spring and was carried on an extra pay roll at $6 per day.

Listed Address Is Wrong.

Investigation revealed that Mrs. Cobb does not live at the address listed for her, which is in the 45th ward. The fact that either or both of the two young women were on the county pay roll was unknown to the Democratic ward leader, State Representative Charles Weber, he said last night.

Ald. H. L. Brody, Democratic leader of the 39th ward, in which Mrs. Brunner lives, said he didn't know her, and didn't know that any one from that address was working in the sheriff's office or that any one from O'Brien's police department lived in his ward. Both Brody and Weber said their precinct leaders had reported that the confidential secretaries in the county police department were not party workers or known as Democratic voters.

Early this month, under orders from State's Attorney Courtney, given in the presence of Bertram J. Cahn, president of the Chicago Crime commission, Sheriff O'Brien closed 42 large gambling halls in the county. Courtney and Cahn told of putting the sheriff under the necessity of acting against the places that operated day and night without interference for many months—and doing something about the thousands of slot machines then operated in the country towns territory.

Approval, Then Disapproval.

When it was reported by THE TRIBUNE that Laird had crossed the city lines and was interviewing, by proxy, the owners of many urban gambling rooms, Sheriff O'Brien first said he approved, then said he disapproved.

The picture of Laird and Skidmore eating melons had pained O'Brien, newspapermen were told. His pain was increased that night when representatives of the state liquor control commission, with a squad of state police, invaded his territory and raided the Club Elgin, a taxi dance joint 150 feet away from O'Brien's Willow Springs police station.

Soon after the Laird incident the sheriff's feelings were ruffled when one of O'Brien's part time deputies, Edward Parchem of Blue Island, was charged with accepting a bribe. At the same time the sheriff was advised that the man he had appointed acting police chief to succeed Laird, Sergt. John J. Healy, had been a witness for Skidmore when Skidmore was tried by the government last spring as an income tax cheat. Healy had admitted going to Skidmore's office many times with Laird and having gone miles out of his way to arrest a bookie who had given the government information about Skidmore.

Assistant Sheriff John Lee said last night he didn't know how Sheriff O'Brien came to hire Skidmore's nieces. It was just "more of the bad luck that has been following old Honest Tom." Lee said the sheriff was out "enforcing the law" and late last night came word that the sheriff had led a raid on a gambling room at 48th court and Roosevelt road in Cicero.

William Lewis and Edward Nilles, both 15 years old, who escaped Monday from the Illinois State Training School for Boys near St. Charles, were recaptured yesterday by police near Elgin.

TWO WHO FLED JOLIET JAIL GIVE UP TO POLICEMAN

Two of the four prisoners who escaped Monday from the Will county jail at Joliet by removing a block of stone from the wall surrendered last night to State Highway Policeman Carl Relli in his home at 717 South Claremont avenue. The two were George Mathes, 22 years old, who was charged with robbery, and Victor Rossi, 21, charged with rape.

They told Relli that they and another prisoner, Charles Flamini, 21, charged with robbery, were forced into the escape by the ringleader, James La Rue, 31, under threat of death if they gave an alarm. They said La Rue, who was held for Florida authorities on a charge of escaping from a convict road gang in 1933, left them in Joliet. They separated from Flamini in Chicago Heights. Mathes said he had been a friend of Policeman Relli for many years.

In Joliet police held four men—James Flamini, brother of Charles, Joseph Tocko, Emileo Panico, and Paul Pieri—who were alleged to have harbored Mathes, Rossi, and Charles Flamini in Pieri's home near Crete Monday night.

Mr. Deady Is Still Alive; He Wants No Tombstone

Mark Deady doesn't know who deposited the 300 pound oblong stone on his lawn yesterday morning. A railroad worker, Mr. Deady called to his wife, Rose, and five grown children to behold the object as he was leaving for his job. The tombstone, lettered "FATHER—C. Rehm—1843-1887," was taken to the Gresham police station to await a claimant. Mr. Deady doesn't want it.

Democrats Balk at Radio Plea; Voter Answers Amlie Letter

BY THORNTON SMITH.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 26 (Special).—The state Democratic committee was unwilling today to join the Republicans in a nonpartisan request to radio stations in the 1st district to broadcast reminders of the special congressional election Friday, F. L. Gullickson, West Salem, Republican state chairman, revealed.

This was taken to mean that supporters of Thomas R. Amlie, Democratic candidate, prefer a light vote and are hoping that over confidence of those who oppose American intervention in the European war will keep many from the polls. The 1st district is normally Republican, and the Democratic candidate is conceded a chance only if Republicans stay at home.

Amlie is running on a platform of all out support to the President's war policy. He is opposed by Lawrence H. Smith, Racine war veteran, who is pledged to fight America's entrance into the war for any reason except defense in case of an attack.

Radio Practice Followed.

The suggestion that both parties make a joint request over local radios to help bring out the vote was made by Republican Chairman Gullickson to Thomas R. King, chairman of the state central committee. It was based on the radio practice of political impartiality which considers it partisan to grant such a request to a single party.

If both parties make the request the question of partisanship is eliminated and the reminder of the important election is regarded as a civic service in which the radios are glad to participate.

The Democratic chairman did not make a direct refusal, Chairman Gullickson said, but said the proposal would have to have the approval of Candidate Amlie. Chairman King said he would communicate with Amlie and telegraph the Republican chairman whether he approved. Dr. Gullickson said he had not received the telegram today.

A similar request was made of the Democratic state chairman by the Smith headquarters at Racine and a similar answer given. Failure to receive assent later at Racine headquarters was taken as a refusal of the Amlie forces to agree to the joint request.

War Is the Issue.

"War is the paramount issue between the two candidates. Smith shared in the fighting of last war and has a son in the army now. He is unwilling to see the United States drawn into a European war.

Amlie, a former Progressive, has broken with the La Follette Progressive leaders who are fighting entry into the war and has pledged complete support to the President's war program.

The 1st district contains five counties nearest to the Illinois line. While its citizens have not been polled on the war question they are similar in characteristics to those of the 2d and 5th districts which have expressed themselves as being 80 per cent against war.

With this attitude among the people toward the war, politicians say the only hope of a Democratic success lies in anti-war voters feeling their vote won't be needed.

MICHIGAN PEACH BLOSSOM QUEEN VISITS CHICAGO

Miss Jean Muske of South Haven, Mich., 21 years old, a blonde, blue-eyed beauty who reigned as Michigan's Peach Blossom queen, arrived here yesterday with a court of six ladies-in-waiting. They represented the Benton Harbor Civic Fruit market, the largest growing and canning market in Michigan.

The girls established headquarters in Hotel Sherman and spent the day in touring the city and appearing on radio programs.

The ladies-in-waiting are Leanette Fay of St. Joseph, Betty Lou Benning, Benton Harbor; Phyllis Crawford, Niles; Anna Marie Ely, Dowagiac; Azalene Hodder, Stevensville, and Genevieve Linhart, Union Pier.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Burlington, Wis., Aug. 26.—Glenn W. Birkett, a farmer, today wrote a striking reply to a letter he had received from Thomas R. Amlie, Democratic candidate for congress in the special 1st district election Friday. Amlie is pledged to support President Roosevelt's war policy.

Birkett's letter said:

"You wrote to me as a voter, a laboring man, a farmer, and a veteran. As you suggested, I used five minutes to read the message.

"Then I studied the message to find out what you stood for. I gathered finally that you are 100 per cent pro-Roosevelt. I gathered that you will vote exactly as he directs.

A Review of Policy.

"Inasmuch as you are 100 per cent for Roosevelt, implying an assumption of perfection in one man never before advanced in this nation, you must approve of Roosevelt's policies of:

"1. Scarcity—That is because he alleged that one-third of the population was ill fed, ill clothed, and ill housed, that the government should pay for the destruction of food, the destruction of fiber for clothing, and the prevention of home building.

"2. His smashing attack on the disabled veterans in 1933 in the interest of alleged economy. And this he did just before embarking upon the greatest and most wasteful spending in all history. Men who have served the United States in the same regions in which Roosevelt apparently intends to send their sons, and who were disabled in those regions, were denied what was morally and legally theirs. Then you must approve of the destruction of the morale of our present army by your approval of the mistreatment of the boys who had served in the last war.

Encouragement of Radicals.

"3. His encouragement, past and present, of radicals—of the communist dominated strikes which impair national defense; and it follows then that you must approve of sending our armed forces and our boys into vicious battle, inadequately equipped, and inadequately armed. You must be giving advance approval of the butchery of our armed forces and our boys which will occur a few months from now because of the past and present strikes. Incidentally, I have five sons to your four, and three of mine are 21, 20, and 18. Two of them have recognized their obligation to the United States by taking CMTC training. They will be in the artillery and aviation.

"4. You must approve of the President's inflationary policies of increasing government paper simultaneously with decreasing things which paper can buy. You must approve of the curtailment of consumers' goods simultaneously with the increase in paper money, and thus working for inflation from both ends.

Favoritism in Service.

"5. You must approve of the nepotism in the President's family. His sons, without qualifications, bask in the brilliant uniforms of officers, while my sons must take the dirt.

"It is costing the people of the 1st district not less than 20,000 tax dollars to hold this election. If the state lacked a senator, the governor could appoint him, because a senator represents the state, but a representative under the constitution directly represents the people; he must be elected by the people. A representative in no sense is to be a "yes" man, a rubber stamp.

"My theory of a representative is that he represents the people—not the executive. I do not want the dictatorships of Germany, of Italy, of Japan, or of Russia to come to the United States because of the supineness of the lower house of congress.

A Peril to the Republic.

"When elected representatives admittedly are blindly obeying the executive, constitutional democracy is gone. Even the form of our republic will thereafter remain but a short time.

"A rubber stamp could be purchased by the first district and sent by registered mail to the chief executive for about $1.25. If we of the 1st district want a rubber stamp why are we spending at least $20,000 to elect a rubber stamp?

"Because I do not want a rubber stamp, or a person who takes his orders from the President, or from any group, I am voting on Friday for Lawrence Smith."

Birkett was one of the seven who sought the Republican nomination for congress. Smith was the winner in the Republican primary.

CALDWELL UNION BOOKS JUGGLED TO HIDE JOYRIDES

Cover Up Airplane Bills Paid by Treasury.

How Max Caldwell, former bootlegger and ousted head of local 1248 of the Retail Clerks' International Protective association, used falsified accounts to cover up some of the huge airplane travel bills paid by the treasury was disclosed yesterday by William B. Crawford and Gordon Nash, assistant state's attorneys.

The juggled bookkeeping, the prosecutors said, was in connection with rides taken by Caldwell and his family while not on union business and between April and November of 1939. It has already been revealed that in 1940 and 1941 Caldwell and his associates ran up a bill of $3,706 with one plane line and that the union treasury has never been reimbursed.

Call for Air Line Records.

In their investigation Crawford and Nash yesterday obtained subpenas for the records of the American Airlines on travel charged to Joseph Bergl and the Bergl-Chevrolet Auto Sales company in Cicero; also for records in the Western State Bank of Cicero for records they may have of checks issued by the union treasury to Bergl for a total of $847 in 1939.

"We have found," said Crawford, "that in 1939 Caldwell, his wife, his brother Michael Pollack, and a Mrs. Wills took airplane trips that were charged to Bergl's firm. At that time Bergl could get the usual discount of 15 per cent on such trips, a privilege granted the clerks' local later.

Listed as Auto Expense.

"Bergl rendered Caldwell bills for this travel and the union paid. But Caldwell, in his meager reports to the international headquarters in Lafayette, Ind., listed the bills as for auto expense. This, in our opinion, is clearly embezzlement.

Crawford said the "Mrs. Wills" of the plane rides was not further identified. Caldwell's wife is a daughter of Charles F. Wills, who was recently forced out as a member of the executive committee of the Chicago Federation of Labor.

Attorney Francis Heisler, representing a group of clerks who have sued Caldwell for an accounting of union funds, estimated at $910,000, said he would file a notice of a lien today against Mrs. Caldwell's equities in two houses in Chicago, a residence, and an apartment building. If a judgment is issued in the clerks' favor, he said, this property would be available for levy.

WOMAN HOLDUP VICTIM SCREAMS; BANDITS CAUGHT

The screams let out by Mrs. Eva Hlodd, 40 years old, yesterday afternoon when three men held her up in her delicatessen at 3009 North Halsted street cost her a blow on the head with a pistol butt but resulted in the capture of two of the robbers.

As the men ran from the store after taking $10 from Mrs. Hlodd, her appeals for help were heard by Herbert Bartholomay, 25 years old, 656 Oakdale avenue. He dropped his bag of golf clubs and seized one of the trio, who said he was Laurence Isenbluth, 23 years old, 1326 South Central Park avenue. Named as a helper by him, and arrested later, was James Switzer, 23 years old, 1251 South Kedzie avenue.

THE GOVERNMENT TAKES A PLANT.

The secretary of the navy has the Federal Shipbuilding and Dry Dock company of Kearny, N. J., in his lap. The management of the company, a subsidiary of the United States Steel corporation, is willing that he should have it and the striking employés have thrown it over to him. The company officers said they couldn't do anything with the situation, and so the government was given another opportunity to take over a private enterprise in which the naval ship building program had been stuck up by demands to which the company refused to submit.

The controversy, as the management explained it to Mr. Roosevelt and to Secretary Knox, rose out of what is known as the "maintenance of membership." Wages, hours, and working conditions were not in dispute. The strikers belonging to the Industrial Union of Marine and Shipbuilding Workers demanded that the company agree to discharge from employment any employé who failed to pay his dues to the union or maintain his membership in good standing.

The management held to its point that the maintenance of the union was a responsibility of the union and on that question the plant was closed. And upon that question it now goes under government management. The company says that if the government wants to buy the stock it can have it, or it can purchase the physical property at an agreed price or one fixed by arbitration. Meanwhile the private managers will assume no responsibility, altho willing to give any assistance they can in keeping the works going.

Here is the open road to the socialization of industry. A union made an arbitrary demand on a plant filling defense orders. A division of the mediation board to which the issue was submitted upheld the demand. The company did not surrender to the board or to the union. It did surrender to the government. How easy. The government has the plant. This thing can be repeated in any enterprise. Conditions can be created which lead to expropriation.

The workers, however, may find that the collectivists who first lay hands on the plant later will lay hands on them. The dictum is: You can't strike against the government. It exempts itself from the rules it puts on private enterprise.

When it is too late the workers may discover that they have stuck out their necks for the yoke. That is what happens under dictatorship.

IT AIN'T SO.

Ever since Sheriff O'Brien was stuck up in a bookie joint which he couldn't find and which didn't exist, life could be expected to have no more surprises in store for him. He never again could be bewildered or embarrassed. He had already lived to the full. But again they are doing things to the sheriff which shouldn't be done to him.

Was it nice for the heads of those two old county families, the Lairds and the Skidmores, to get together at a dinner party and have their pictures taken by The Tribune? Was this the time for Mr. O'Brien's then chief of police and the convicted boss of the bookies to be found talking about Aunt Peg and Uncle Ted and the time the boys found $20 out in the old junkyard?

Mr. Laird had just ceased collecting the street numbers of places in Chicago where no booking is done. That sort of finding is supposed to be done by the Chicago law enforcement officers. Mr. Laird and his officers are supposed to do it in the county outside Chicago.

Mr. O'Brien will tell you that this was a thoughtless dinner party. Everything happens to the sheriff. He's haunted.

QUEER WORK ON THE BURMA ROAD.

The encyclopedia says that Burma is "a British province in Asia constituting the western portion of Indo-China." It also says that "executive authority is exercised by a governor appointed by the king and assisted by a council not exceeding 10 in number." The present governor is Sir Reginald Dorman-Smith.

Nearly 5,000 new American trucks are about to start operating over the Burma road carrying American lend-lease war material for China. American trucking experts are in charge of that stream of supplies from the United States to one of the battlefronts where democracy is supposed to be fighting for its existence.

The Japanese bomb the road and the Chinese repair it, but, according to American truckmen who are trying their best to keep the war supplies going forward, the bombing doesn't do anything like the damage that the ad valorem tax imposed by the Burmese government does to slow up the traffic.

The tax is 1 per cent. We are giving the goods to China and British Burma is taking a slice of them. "I am no politician," said one of the Americans. "I am just a truckman, but with Burma sitting on a powder keg herself I see no reason why she should make money at the expense of a potential ally. I told the governor of Burma so. The tax has got to go and, believe you me, it's going."

It isn't only the tax that hurts, it's the delay in getting the goods thru the tax collectors. Weeks are wasted by this process. The government in London, when protests were made against these practices, said that it was without authority to interfere peremptorily, that Burma was self-governing and a judge of its own affairs. However, the British consented to make "urgent" official representations, altho still maintaining that all the ministry could do would be to make known its views. If the tax is removed, the credit will go to the newspapers which exposed the situation and by doing so forced the British government to act.

Probably if it made them known as affirmatively as it made its views known in Persia, the Burmese would cease to give aid and comfort to Japan.

MR. ROOSEVELT AND ROYALTY.

The White House in Mr. Roosevelt's tenancy, if it be tenancy and not possession, has received more royal personages than any palace of monarchial Europe, probably not excepting Buckingham palace. The home of republican Presidents, nearly all of them formerly of simple and unostentatious living, is up in the purple and its present occupant never misses a chance to be host to a princess, a princeling, a kinglet, a duke, a king, or queen. The appearance in some of the royalist eastern newspapers of such a column as appears, for instance, in the London Times—"Court and Personal"— may be awaited.

Every one of the royal personages who visits the White House for lunch, tea, dinner, over night, or the week-end seeks to get something out of the host, and there is no indication that Mr. Roosevelt has refused anything. Half his kingdom is to be had for the asking. These are strange doings and carryings on in a republic with the ideals and principles to which the United States was dedicated. Mr. Roosevelt's enjoyment in his royalist rôle is self-evident and the consequences of it to his country are not slight.

Courtesy does not require the procedure he adopts. It would not offend international comity if the President of the United States restricted himself to formal and infrequent meetings with persons who are in no way accredited to the government of the United States. The fact that Mr. Roosevelt desires to do more reveals that he is susceptible to influences alien to true American life. Such things went to Mr. Wilson's head when he went abroad. They increased the imperiousness of his will and the Cæsarism of his conduct. Mr. Wilson on his return was more edictal in his pronouncements than the potentates with whom he had exchanged the glad hand. Mr. Roosevelt was much given that way himself before he became infatuated with the surviving trappings of the old European régime.

Shall we await the time when in the "Court and Personal" column we shall read: "The following were received in audience on Friday morning and kissed hands upon their appointments: Sir Earl Browder as social security director; Sir Leon Henderson as chairman of the royal reserve board; Sir Alben Barkley as governor general of West Africa; Sir Harold Ickes as commander-in-chief of the Galapagos"?

THE LEGION RESOLUTION.

The resolution on war adopted at the state convention of the American Legion at Springfield the other day is fairly satisfactory. The Legion counseled against provocative words and acts by officials of the administration which would plunge the country into foreign war without the consultation of congress. The resolution recalled the promises of Mr. Roosevelt, the candidate, not to send Americans to fight overseas. Then it went on to commend the President for these expressions, to pray that he will stand by them, and to approve the present effort to strengthen the country's defenses.

There is no doubt that the rank and file of Legionnaires would have preferred a more forthright declaration, which would frankly have recognized and denounced the efforts of the administration to embroil the country in war, but the resolution as adopted says pretty much the same thing in politer form. A collection of Democrats, renegade Republicans, and war shouters had hoped to get the Legion to declare itself for support of the administration wherever it might lead the country, but efforts in this direction were abandoned when it became apparent that no such doctrine would be accepted.

The resolution says that the Legion will support the administration's policy as long as the administration keeps its promises to the American people. That is a position which all Americans can indorse.

IRONY ON IRAN.

The fifty-second ordinary general meeting of the Imperial Bank of Iran was held in London on July 16. In the course of his remarks, Col. Sir A. Henry McMahon, the chairman, said:

"Iran is happily at peace with all the world and if the will of her statesmanlike ruler and the desire of her industrious people can prevail, she will remain so. Her foreign policy is still centered on good neighborly relations with the countries on her borders. The preservation of her own integrity is obviously essential to the material and moral development in which she has steadily progressed in the last 20 years."

There was, however, a little information of value in the chairman's report. Sir Henry spoke of "the energetic pursuit of railway construction in Iran eastward to Khorasan, northwestward to Azerbaijan and southeastward toward the Baluchistan frontier." Unfortunately he did not say how far the work had progressed.

FREEDOM OF RELIGION.

[From the New York Daily News.]

We believe it was this column that first pointed out that the Roosevelt-Churchill "eight points" had omitted freedom of religion, one of the original "four freedoms," as a feature of the Utopia we're to impose on the world by war. President Roosevelt thereupon obligingly added freedom of religion to the eight points.

Of course, this is a unilateral amendment. Mr. Churchill wasn't consulted, and neither was Pal Joey. But we think that Mr. Churchill would readily consent if Mr. Roosevelt should consult him now by trans-Atlantic telephone. And we also think that if Mr. Roosevelt should ask Pal Joey if it was O. K. by him to add freedom of religion to the eight points Joey would hastily answer, "Sure, sure!"

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. Reg. U.S. Pat. Office.

BRINGING THEM BACK ALIVE.

Did you ever hear of the gyrascutus? There's an animal the Brookfield zoo ought to have. It jumped right out of the big dictionary and nearly bit the Linemaster on the nose, thus:

"An imaginary, huge, four-legged beast with legs on one side longer than on the other, enabling it to walk around steep hillsides. [U. S.]"

* * *

Some folklorists believe that the gyrascutus is closely related to the whangdoodle, which has become associated with the "where the woodbine twineth" saying. Other eminent savants maintain, however, that the whangdoodle is a long-winded, platitudinous political orator, or a preacher with similar gifts for communicating boredom. This animal is also in the dictionary. In these contentious times it is often on the air—and in the hair.

* * *

Many contributors have been amplifying the woodbine saying, thus: "Where the woodbine twineth, the lion roareth, and the whangdoodle mourneth for her first-born." The added nonsense can be traced; it comes from a burlesque sermon on Cole's "Fun Doctor." [See "A Desk-Book of Idioms and Idiomatic Phrases," by Vizetelly and De Bekker.]

* * *

The fabulous animals of ancient and medieval lore have been immortalized in heraldry. This menagerie includes the phoenix, dragon, griffon, salamander and wyvern. But stranger creatures than these are galumphing around in the backwoods of American humor and folklore. Twenty years ago the Linemaster discovered in the Rocky mountains a curious and indefinable creature of high nuisance value called the wampus cat. The thing turned up in Hollywood later in the form of a pretty girl who was just crazy to get into the movies.

Scotch Version of It.

Dear Linemaster: I fear the search for the origin o' the phrase "Gone where the woodbine twineth" wull lead ye back further than ye think. In oor family archives is a medieval Scots manuscript o' m' revered ancestor, Tavish M'Tavish o' Invertavish, a bard at the court o' King Alexander III., whose reign is dated 1241-'85. King Sandy had a yen, tae quote Tavish, tae make the warld safe for—[something or ither, I canna just translate the ward]—an' sent muckle o' his country's treasure tae Scandinavia tae assist the Norwegians exterminate the Swedes. M' ancestor grew rather restive at the idea o' sic a pile o' clean cash being poured intae a bluidy rat hole an' penned a lengthy screed, the final stanza of which ran:

Where are the guid fat gowden plunks
We sent across the sea?
Gane where the woodbine twineth
In vast vacuity.

M'Tavish.

First Woman Reporter?

Giving the "20 and 8" faces of The Tribune's woman editors and reporters [Aug. 21] the "once over" moves one to remember 'way back when a woman on a daily newspaper staff was a rara avis. The New York World started the fad with Nellie Bly. Probably the first in Chicago was allowed to work with men on the old Record, but she had to be called by a masculine name, "Teddy" Bean, and prove she was a good fellow, which she was, night and day, no assignment barred. Police reporters in "them thar days" often covered society stuff. Arthur W. O'Neill.

A WAR-WEARY WISH.

I would when He created me
That God had let me be a tree.

A tree with branches outstretched far
As if to touch the farthest star,
And when the breezes wander by,
Within my leaves they'd gently sigh.
And when the sun with cruel glare
Would beat the traveler to despair,
I'd beckon him to stop and rest
His weary head against my breast;
Or from the tempest's wild alarms
I'd shelter him within my arms.

I would when God created me
That He had let me be a tree!

A Joke on the Demolition Brigade.

Well, sir, "they" can tear down the Ashland block if they like and put a bus terminal there, but the old Ashland block will still stand. This may seem like a paradox, so I will hasten to explain:

The present building had a predecessor, also called the Ashland block—a six story structure of gray stone. It was dismantled and transported piecemeal to the southeast corner of 12th street and Michigan avenue, where it was reërected. It is now in use as the general offices of the Illinois Central railroad. Jerry Oldtimer.

WAR, COOTIES, AND TYPHUS FEVER.

FEW of us knew much about typhus fever until the World war. At that time delousing stations were established to protect the members of the American expeditionary force from "cooties"—which might harbor the infection.

But the disease is an ancient one. The plague of Athens was typhus, and it is boldly described by the historian Thucydides. It was brought to that city by the Peloponnesian army. Physicians of the day were ignorant of its ravages and many succumbed because they were the first to come into contact with it. Concluding his account, the chronicler wrote: "No human art was of any avail, and as to supplications in temples, inquiries of oracles, and the like, they were utterly useless, and at last men were overpowered by the calamity."

Curiously enough, the center of Greek culture had been duly forewarned. Word had come that an epidemic had started in Ethiopia, had spread to Egypt, and thence over the greater part of the Persian empire. It came at a time when Athens was remarkably free from ordinary disorders, and those who were in perfect health were seized abruptly and, as a rule, with fatal results.

Historically, the malady has been associated with famine—a drop in cleanliness, with poor living conditions. From the 16th century until our own time it was sown over Europe, decade after decade, by marching soldiers and followed like a pall the armies of Gustavus Adolphus in his 30 years war. At one time it was called "hospital" or "jayl" fever, because crowded conditions allowed contaminated vermin to attack those who were well.

The sterilization of clothing, practiced religiously during the world conflict, enabled our troops to avoid the affliction. While we are in no danger at the present time, nevertheless the disease is a constant menace and sanitation of the highest order is the remedy.

A recent report from Washington, by J. L. Thompson Jr., calls attention to the necessity for watchfulness on the part of public health authorities. The individual household, then, is the key to safety. We can banish rats and—with sufficient bathing and clean clothing—we can rid ourselves completely of lice.

The District of Columbia patient referred to was a 45 year old man who ran a typical course—chilly feelings, headache, backache, and pains in the extremities. His temperature rose promptly, with the highest point at 103.8 F. The usual rash appeared on the abdomen and chest [hence the name, "spotted fever"].

During the second week the manifestations abated gradually, the fever dropped slowly, and the patient was discharged in good condition five weeks after admission to the hospital. In this particular case, sulfathiazole was given, altho no curative effect is claimed. Treatment consisted in meeting symptoms as they appeared, keeping the victim as comfortable as possible, and maintaining nutrition.

One reason why we must be on the alert against this ailment is because infected insects can inoculate the organisms far and wide—if given the opportunity. Furthermore, there is no specific serum or vaccine and those who are working in rat infested areas should observe scrupulous hygiene. Garments must be renovated frequently in order to destroy vermin.

EYE SYMPTOM.

W. C. writes: What can be done for tired eyes? I must use them daily for close work.

REPLY.

Make certain that there are no errors of refraction. Proper glasses will assist. More often than not the eyes reflect the general health. Better nutrition and more rest may be needed.

POSSIBLY.

W. G. J. writes: Would the daily use of an infra-red lamp help sinus trouble?

REPLY.

It may. The procedufe is recommended frequently.

BATHING AFTER OPERATION.

A. K. writes: How soon after an abdominal operation may a person start taking tub baths?

REPLY.

As soon as strength will permit, if the wound has healed firmly.

OPERATION.

Mrs. J. L. writes: What is the usual procedure in diaphragmatic rupture?

REPLY.

Surgical repair. The entire diaphragm must be intact, so that no portion of the abdominal contents can bulge thru.

ACCEPTABLE.

S. W. O. writes: Are hay fever victims subject to the draft?

REPLY.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

WHY DAKAR IS UNIQUE.

Minneapolis, Minn., Aug. 24.—Why don't you tell the people the truth about Dakar, West Africa, and why Great Britain is so anxious for us to take that particular port?

Of course propaganda is that Germany will seize Dakar, and from there menace us with flights of aeroplanes via South America. If that were true, they could do the same thing from Conakry, or further south from the French Ivory Coast just as easily as from Dakar, if it were only a question of air bases.

Normally all ship traffic to the far east flows thru the Mediterranean. It saves weeks of sailing time. But with the Mediterranean unsafe it is necessary to use the longer, more costly route, which forces all traffic right past the front door of Dakar, so to speak, where any nation controlling that point could readily raid commerce at will.

Why Dakar? Because it is the only point north of Nigeria, on the bulge of West Africa, that has a harbor and docks. At Bathurst, British Gambia, they anchor the ships at sea and put the passengers and cargo overboard into surf boats to be rowed ashore. The same holds true in Liberia and all other points of call southward, including Freetown, Sierra Leone, and Accra, seat of the British government for the Gold Coast.

Because the surf is so strong all along the west coast of Africa it is impossible to establish satisfactory man-made harbors at any other points along the coast for hundreds of miles. So, Great Britain wants us to take Dakar, at a tremendous cost in life and materials, so she may have a valuable ship base and absolute safety for her commerce sailing to and from the far east. N. L. R.

ADJECTIVES FROM ARKANSAS.

Little Rock, Ark., Aug. 24.—If the hyphenated, royalty worshiping, senile, parasitic, sycophantic, alien minded, tea sipping, genuflecting, un-American, communistic politicians, society drones, doughwaggers [dowagers], Hollywood freaks, Soviet Union Now advocates, propaganda parrots, comrades, jingoists, internationalists, and other subversive elements succeed in rendering The Tribune mute, how about coming down here and establishing a daily newspaper? We could use an enterprising journal that would show more concern over municipal, state, and national problems, and less about the struggles between communism and British imperialism on the one side, and Nazism and Fascism on the other side.

You are too modest when you call The Tribune "The World's Greatest Newspaper." It is also "America's Greatest Newspaper." Svend Petersen.

AGREES WITH US FOR ONCE.

Chicago, Aug. 25.—Many times of late I have been prompted to write you on how strongly I disagree with some of your domestic and international policies and the manner in which you phrase your stories and headlines to convey the impressions that best suit your purpose. Some day, perhaps, I'll get around to fighting with you on that point.

For the present, however, I'd like to tell you that your editorial reply to the letter from Mr. Anonymous was the most impressive, straightforward answer to a challenge that I have ever seen in the columns of any newspaper.

Seems t' Me.

HE SAW A BLIND MAN.

Chicago, Aug. 23.—I was walking up the avenue this morning, feeling lower than a worm with his shoes off. I was literally down to my last cent—[It bought this postal card.] I owe a hotel bill; I can't seem to get a job; Alec Templeton hasn't answered my plea for an audition, and I haven't eaten since noon yesterday. I was about ready to start bawling in front of the public library when I looked up and saw a man. He was well dressed and looked as if he had some one to love him and enough to eat. He was using a cane—a white cane with a red band. The man was blind.

Suddenly I felt ashamed and very little. Maybe I was down on my luck—but I can see. The soft blue of the sky, the diamond studded green of Lake Michigan, the sparrows hopping on the lawn, other people. I began to feel better. I pulled up the corners of my mouth and smiled at every one I met. I'm going out now and hock my second pair of shoes with a whistle on my lips. Joe.

WHEN TRUTH IS GOLDEN.

Chicago, Aug. 25.—Apparently there will be less furor about British armies moving into poor little independent Iran than there was about German armies moving into poor little independent Denmark. As an American still able to think straight [I hope] I fail to see any difference between the Germans marching into Denmark because they thought England would get there first and the British moving into Iran because they feared Germany might get there first!

Is truth only golden when it pours from the mouth of an Englishman?

Dr. T. P. Thompson.

A TOWNSENDITE CHALLENGE.

Forrest, Ill., Aug. 21.—I should like to know your excuse for calling Townsendism an exploiter of poverty and old age.

What are you doing to relieve poverty and old age? There are millions of aged poor who need help and the Townsend movement is making great effort to pass legislation which will help them.

At the present time I think you are considerable of a knocker. World's Greatest Newspaper—"Bah!"

Blanche M.

EVEN A DEVIL GROWS PIOUS.

Chicago, Aug. 24.—It is odd that the commander of the Leningrad defense says it is a "holy" duty to defend the city. Apparently in times of dire peril even a communist loses his hold on Marx and seeks something higher. We had expected a "commie" to use the word "scientific" instead of "holy." C. P.

CUFFS OFF THE TROUSERS.

Hinsdale, Ill., Aug. 24.—They want to shorten woman's dress for economic reasons. Why not cut cuffs off man's pants. A nuisance at all seasons. Reservoirs of dust and germs, so make them a malfeasance! St.

FROM A FRIEND OF TENNES.

Chicago, Aug. 23.—For over 25 years the writer was a friend of the late M. J. Tennes and wishes, if possible, to give the public a different picture of his life than that which newspapers have seen fit to print. Mr. Tennes was not only a God fearing, just, quiet, and charitable man, but he was also a home loving man. He perhaps did more for the poor, the down and out, the struggling newsboy, the charitable schools and those who taught in them than any man that I knew in public life. What he had he spread with a lavish hand, and those who were most in need shared in this generosity. When that day comes for all men to be judged he will not be found wanting.

Arnold Shircliffe.

WHAT ABOUT WEEDS HERE?

Chicago, Aug. 24. — In Woonsocket, S. D., they notify all renters and landlords to cut all weeds on highways bordering their property by Sept. 1 or "the same will be mowed by the township and the costs charged up against the land."

Why couldn't this be done in Chicago and Cook county, Illinois?

R. O. Dick Helwig.

DESERTED SHACK.

Chicago, Aug. 20.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Two years ago the neighborhood boys built an old shabby shack next door to us. I have complained about this but get no results. Since then some one broke into the shack and now the boys don't go near it any more. The only ones that make use of it now are the rats and young hoodlums at night. It's an eyesore to the neighborhood. Could you do something to have it removed? A. T.

"Shake Hands with the Dragon" is a Fascinating Study of the Chinese in America.

BOOKS

Chard Powers Smith Turns Out a Rousing Novel in His Period Piece, "Ladies Day."

Engaging Study Pictures Life of Chinese in U. S.

"Shake Hands with the Dragon," by Carl Glick. [Whittlesey House, $2.75.] Published Monday.

We have had more than one popular book about the Chinese, but most of them have been either about the Chinese of China or, like "The Importance of Living," written by the Chinese. Carl Glick, in "Shake Hands with the Dragon," introduces us to the Chinese in America, and for 322 extremely engaging pages tells us how engaging they are.

Like Carl Crow, whose "Four Hundred Million Customers" opened Americans' eyes anew and delightfully to China and the Chinese, Carl Glick finds them subtle but ceaseless in their sense of humor, wholly admirable in their ways of doing business, and charming and sensible in their ways of life.

Mr. Glick met Chinese Americans first, he says, when he was working as athletic director in a settlement in New York. He says that even now, after nine years of mutual friendship, he doesn't yet know them, but he is sure that "they have become my favorite people."

Before the book is closed the reader will probably reach the same conclusion because Mr. Glick makes his friends so irresistible. The book is as full of amusing incidents as it is of fascinating facts.

He tells of the intricate system of "family" life which provides so skillfully for the aged and the unfortunate that there are almost never any Chinese on relief. The translation of the name "family club," Kung Saw, is "I am with you all pulling together." The way Chinese business is self-perpetuating, and how business rivalries are done away with by, for instance, every restaurant keeper owning shares in all of his rival restaurants, he describes.

The joy of the Chinese in good food [he says Chinese food is the best in the world, but chop suey and chow mein are never eaten by the Chinese themselves], their pleasure in poetry, both in writing it and flavoring their daily life with it; their gayety, their devoted family life, the real way the tongs work, all are explained by a man who found them—and makes them—fascinating. A Behind-the-Scenes Account Is Given of British Coast Defense

"Fishermen at War," by Leo Walmsley. [Doubleday-Doran, $2.50.]

Leo Walmsley, English novelist and World war flyer, covers much more in his book than the title indicates. He takes his readers behind the scenes of Britain's coast defense—mine sweeping, patroling, ordinary fishing, and the royal air force. The author visited mine sweeping bases, saw mines destroyed by rifle fire from sweepers, and picked up many thrilling stories of heroism among British fishermen. A. C.

Fall of France Told from Two Points of View

"A Thousand Shall Fall," by Hans Habe. [Harcourt-Brace, $3.] Published last Thursday.
"A Woman Is Witness," by Ernst Lothar. [Doubleday-Doran, $2.50.]

BY JOHN THOMPSON.

France's collapse and defeat have been explained, described, and analyzed by military strategists, economists, newspaper men, and eyewitnesses, but never better than in "A Thousand Shall Fall." The author, Hans Habe, a brilliant young European journalist and novelist, member of an old Hungarian family, left his home in Switzerland at the outbreak of the war. He enlisted in the 21st infantry of Foreign Volunteers for France, serving with distinction as a common soldier, until his capture by the Germans.

It is from the viewpoint of a foot-slogging infantryman that Habe tells the story of France's defeat. As a personal chronicle of adventure it is dramatic and compelling. As a contribution to the military and political literature of our times it is significant.

Habe writes of the rout of a French army which, he says, seldom saw the Germans and only once, in his own experience, actually engaged them in a minor rearguard action.

Shabby clothing, poor food, inferior equipment, insufficient artillery, no trucks, and, with few exceptions, incompetent officers—these, Habe says, further undermined the low morale of troops impregnated with defeatism, buffeted by a barrage of rumors. And, he writes, the crowning blows came from generals who deliberately gave up strategic positions, and wearied their troops in needless marching, to make it easier for the Nazi conquerors.

In the last chapters Habe writes of his life in and his escape from a German prison camp. With a price on his head for his anti-Nazi writings, this man, whom the Nazis once tried to murder in Vienna, became the prison commandant of the camp under an assumed name, twitting the dreaded gestapo until his ultimate escape into unoccupied France. He is now in this country, having been granted a special emergency visa.

"A Woman Is Witness" also tells of the degeneration of France, from the time of the Czecho-Slovakian crisis until the capture of Paris. It is the diary of a Viennese anti-Nazi exile in Paris, who fell in love with a married French journalist. Ernst Lothar, who transcribed it, enlarged on the original diary, turning the contents into a novel, around the basic theme of the love of a young woman for a married man. He lost his life fighting and, for her own ideals, she was executed by the Nazis. Her diary is excellent reading, both from the point of view of the novel, as well as that of the death throes of Paris.

Amusing Novel Etches Bygone Era in America

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

For the background of a long, eventful, and emotion filled tale of the 1880s and '90s Chard Powers Smith has chosen a small city in New York state. For its hero he uses one of the generation of ruthless and strong minded men who piled fortunes up as casually as children make houses of mud, and often of as unsavory material. Its heroine is the daughter of the town's most respected citizen and able, for that reason, to go into the then wildly radical business of collecting money for and running a social settlement.

"Ladies Day" is primarily a period piece—a good rousing novel, with lots of population and plot, but a period piece first of all, and possessing the added amusement that period pieces inevitably have.

Good historical novels, as I see it, can be written in either of two ways. They can be—and the larger share of them are—from their own period's point of view, their events and the psychology of their characters unusual only when they differ from the norm of the time. Others—and "Ladies Day" is one of these—are as carefully, as meticulously itemized in facts, thoughts, actions, every bustle is as definitely tied on, every thought as honestly dug out of the mind of the period, but the point of view is today's, not the point of view of the period in which the novel is placed, and the resulting tale has the charm of gentle caricature.

Chard Powers Smith has as accurately reflected the emotions as he has the mechanical inventions of the period, but, looking at them thru the eyes of today, those emotions are quaint museum pieces, and they give "Ladies Day" a good deal of humor that isn't at all inherent in its situations. For instance, the grandiosely written letter of proposal which the young heroine receives and which stirs her deeply is, to our ears, one of the funniest epistles in literature.

"Ladies Day" is a big gusty tale of a gusty period when, according to some of the characters, women started taking over the business of American life.

2 Books Begin New Series on U. S. Folkways

"Desert Country," by Edwin Corle. [Duell, Sloan & Pearce, $3.]
"Piñon Country," by Haniel Long. [Duell, Sloan & Pearce, $3.]

BY WILL DAVIDSON.

American culture is a vital, earth bred culture growing sturdily from roots planted deep in every corner of the country. One of the most ambitious and promising attempts to picture the origins of this protean culture is the American Folkways series, edited by Erskine Caldwell. The series is based on the sound premise that American culture is regional and environmental, and these two books get it off to a fast start.

"Desert Country" sets the pattern, and a high standard of excellence. From Mexico to upper Nevada and Utah, from the Mojave desert to the Grand Canyon region, stretches the oldest, most colorful, and most exciting country in America. Its legends range from romantic to hilarious; its people from the pathetic, forgotten Qatahika Indians to modern mining geniuses. America started there, and there it still grows. Writing with good humor, with sympathy, and with scholarly but very entertaining thoroness, Edwin Corle spins the yarns and chronicles the adventures of the people who discovered, inhabited, and developed this arid, entrancing region.

Next door to the desert country is the "Piñon Country," extending eastward into New Mexico. It too is a rugged country, of canyons and dwarfed trees, of widely different races that have all fitted together in an unwritten but essential and strong code of democracy. Again we are introduced to legends and legendary characters. They range from Coronado, thru Billy the Kid, to the very modern Sheriff Martin who caught a criminal in Carlsbad caverns when the fugitive came yowling to the surface with a plea for a jail sentence so he'd know where he was.

Promised for the near future are books on the regions of the Ozarks, the high Missouri, the dust bowl, and the Blue Ridge. It's an exciting promise.

Novel Chronicles Story of German Refugees in Paris

"The Coward Heart," by Anna Reiner. [Knopf, $2.50.]

This novel is one of the better ones of the recent scores about Germany's refugees. Written by a woman who, because she still has relatives in Germany, has adopted a pseudonym, it relates the story of Nadia Schumacher. Day after day in Paris she awaits the release of her husband Peter from a Nazi concentration camp. Her life becomes intertwined with those of the people she meets at the tiny Café du Dome and elsewhere.

When, after many months, Peter is freed and comes to Paris, Nadia notes the gradual change in him. He is moodier, more violent, more sensitive, less honest. This series of changes is climaxed by the revelation that since his release Peter has been an agent of the gestapo and has sent back to Germany—and to their deaths—former comrades, notably Martin Schmidt, Nadia's confidante and friend. Altho she is expecting his baby, Nadia's love for Peter vanishes finally, but she does help him flee Paris when he is suspected of the murder of a fellow gestapo spy. Then she returns to sit at the café table and hope that her child will live in a happier world. H. K.

Story of a Family

"The Venables," by Kathleen Norris. [Doubleday-Doran, $2.50]. Published last Friday.

Almost the same period and something of the same point of view is chosen by Kathleen Norris for "The Venables," the story of Willie Venable and her six children in San Francisco 15 years or so before and a year or two after the great earthquake.

Willie, as the book opens, abed with her ninth child in 16 years, has still another child to bear before she is left a widow with six survivors of her hostages to fate and very little else. Like other ladies of her period, Willie is utterly incapable of managing her almost nonexistent finances, and the story of six little Venables and how they lived has something of the charm of the famous old "Five Little Peppers and How They Grew." They enjoyed poverty as a good many people enjoy poor health, and the readers enjoy it with them.

Tale of Adolescence

"Bird of the Wilderness," by Vincent Sheean. [Random House, $2.50.] Published last Thursday.

Vincent Sheean, author of the memorable "Personal History," has written a novel in "Bird of the Wilderness" which has the appealing quality of autobiography, altho it is frankly fiction.

Its hero is a 17 year old dreamer in a small town in Illinois, half Welsh, half German. The period is 1917-1918. The country is watching anxiously the encroachment of the war, and Parkerton, more deeply than most towns, is shaken by the overseas events, for among its leading citizens is a large group of Germans, Bill's uncle among them, whose sympathies are all with the fatherland. The ardor of young Bill's revolt is conviction heightened by his adolescence.

The understanding of the adolescent mind gives "Bird of the Wilderness" its most appealing charm. Told with utter simplicity and reality is the story of the English teacher's interest in her gifted but groping young pupil, only four years her junior, and their growing intimacy as the little town watches and disapproves. It is pure idyll, not until practically its inevitable end, acknowledged as love by either of them.

As a picture of the growing up of a sensitive boy, as a record of life in a small midwestern town, as a chronicle of two vividly nervous years in our national history, "Bird of the Wilderness" is much more memorable than it is as a novel.

Gardening for All

"Plants in the Home," by Frank K. Balthis. [Macmillan, $2.50.]

Frank K. Balthis, horticulturist at the Garfield Park conservatory in Chicago, has written an excellent book about how to cultivate plants in the home which has won the $1,000 Macmillan garden book competition. It is written so simply that any one can follow its instructions, and they are so well founded on experience, as well as scientific knowledge, that practically any home could bloom under hands trained by its pages. There is an old saying that some people have "green hands," meaning that for them anything will grow. Mr. Balthis says there's nothing at all inspirational or mythical about the growing of plants and the "green hands" are anybody's hands that know what they're doing.

International Intrigue.

"The Corpse That Knew Everybody," by Cedric Worth. [Dutton, $2.]

Slowly the closet door swung open in a fashionable New York home. Out tumbled the body of a man, his back bound to a plank. Just about every one in the room knew him, but none had a good word for him. Their host had dealt with him in business. The beautiful German countess knew him from her past and her terrorized present. The professor pretended he had never seen the face before. It was a shock to the young soldier, who had seen the man briefly the night before, in the tunnels under Park avenue, and it was a shock to many others. Cedric Worth has written an exciting and deft novel around international Nazi intrigue in New York.

Solution Well Hidden.

"Follow This Fair Corpse," by Laurence Dwight Smith. [Mystery House, $2.]

Five crack mystery story writers, with their agents, gather at the country home of their publisher to discuss plans for writing five thrillers, each with the same first chapter. But a couple of real murders complicate things, and it takes the combined sleuthing of Inspector Creighton and Dr. Richard Whalen to unravel the situation. The solution is pretty sure to evade you, and there's a lot of shop talk about writers, publishers, and agents which probably will amuse.

"A DEBT IS PAID"

By Olga L. Rosmanith

[Copyright; 1941; By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

INSTALMENT XXXIX.
TWO CLEWS.

Mrs. Payson produced the handkerchief and took the check in exchange. This in her possession, she got up and wanted to leave at once. Kathleen knew why. If she hurried she could catch the bus to Willowdale, arriving there before 3 o'clock to cash the check, which was drawn on the Willowdale branch of the Chase National bank. Kathleen personally saw her out of the front door.

"Now, Mrs. Payson, I hope this is the last trouble I am going to have with you."

"I hope so, too, Miss Murray. I'm not bad like you think. I could have made trouble for you at the trial, but I thought to myself, one paying for this business is all I want. I never meant to do this till I got desperate. But it's your fault the hotel emptied—and I've got a right to live, too."

Kathleen shut the door behind her without answering. She went straight to the telephone, called up the bank, and stopped payment of the check. Then she looked with a strange emotion at her little cherry-colored handkerchief. Last time she had seen it, life had been as glowing in color as the little thing itself. Now the handkerchief was soiled with dried mud as if a dirty boot had stepped on it on the floor of the car. Symbolic of what had happened to the clean bright color of her life.

Kathleen said—"Susan, do you want me to forgive you for saying what you did about Mr. Lang?"

"Yes, Miss Kathleen, and I'm very sorry about it—really I am."

"All right. Then don't let Mrs. Payson get in when she comes back. Today or any day."

"Are you expecting her then?"

"Yes. And I'm expecting her to come in a great rage clamoring about her rights. Would you be afraid to give her a message?"

"Not me, Miss Kathleen. I'd be glad to settle her."

Kathleen smiled. "I hope you won't have to for your sake. Tell her that if she has a complaint to make, to please make it in writing, and my lawyer will deal with it."

Susan nodded sagely. "That would have been the wisest thing in the first place. Now that's good sense."

But Mrs. Payson did not come back. Violently disappointed by her reception at the bank she yet retained the shrewdness to realize the position she was in. She returned to her empty and now down-at-heel hotel to consider her next move. There must be a way to get even with that girl for being secure and comfortable without work or anxiety, and at the same time part her from some of her money. What had Jeanie done with all the tips people had given her? She had never seemed to spend any. Mrs. Payson spent the remainder of the day shaking out Jeanie's books, opening drawers and boxes, examining closets. She found a sealed fat envelope marked "Hugo" in Jeanie's round modern script and had the inspiration not to open it.

That girl held her head up because Hugo had admitted nothing and there had been no direct evidence against him. There would be some in this envelope, and, if she did not open it, no one could accuse her of putting it there. The trial had taught her that science served the police, and they would know if she steamed the letter open, looked in it, and closed it. She could hardly bear not to, but her hate gave her self-control. She locked it in the untidy roll-top desk in her office. She chuckled to herself a little madly thinking of Kathleen's pride. This was as good as holding a gun on her.

If that girl thought there was evidence that would strip Hugo of his mystery, maybe she would pay more than a thousand dollars. That handkerchief didn't mean anything. Hugo had often driven the station wagon and picked up any friend he liked in it. But this—this. She sat before the desk after she had rolled it down, staring at its ugly yellow cover. What was in that letter? What could be in it? But she might ruin everything if she opened it. She got up and went away from the temptation.

However, there might be something more to find. She went at her search with renewed energy and continued into the night.

Kathleen was now finding that waiting was a greater trial to endurance than exhausting difficult action. Bill Greer was busy and could not come to see her. Thru Toby he sent word that he thought it would be all right to call at Lakes End if he came thru the back entrance after dark, and he would come with Toby after the show late the following night. Kathleen took a boat up the lake that day and swam in one of the clear willow hung back-waters. Swimming calmed her nerves, but her wild impatience returned as soon as she got back to the house.

She almost wished Mrs. Payson would come and create a little disturbance to break the leaden-footed monotony. Who could settle to work or book while waiting for one thing only? Time to pass on.

But even pain-filled time must pass. Kathleen shut the veranda windows and drew all the curtains close when the darkness fell, and at last Bill Greer and Toby came up the steps Hugo had gone down the night of the murder, and more welcome than she could have dreamed, the detective was sitting on her yellow sofa, shedding the ashes of the fine cigars he smoked on the crystal tray on the coffee table.

"I can't give you any news yet, Miss Murray. Maybe next week. I've got to go away for a few days."

"Not any?" she asked in intense disappointment. "Not a little bit?" Not really any?"

Bill Greer gave her his slow, amused smile.

"I have some pieces, but they don't fit yet. I never show any one a piece that doesn't fit. Of course, there's the letter from Higby's wife, but I never thought of Higby anyhow. It seemed to me he'd got tired of the place and strangers had just walked in and used it."

"And was it so?"

"Almost. Mrs. Higby wrote and thanked me for my admiration for her husband's work. She said the story I saw was published posthumously. He's been dead nearly two years."

"So that's that."

"O, do tell me about it."

"He won't," Toby interrupted. "He saw something on the stage. But he won't tell what it was. Have I been plaguing him!"

"Won't you tell, Mr. Greer?" Kathleen pleaded.

But he shook his head with good-humored obstinacy. "No. I don't want to raise your hopes. What I saw was very strange and uncommon and if it does not uncover a very suspicious situation it will be a million to one coincidence."

"But that's too tantalizing. I can't bear it if you don't tell me. Let's see—you sat up front, according to Toby, with a pair of powerful field glasses disguised as opera glasses and you saw something on the stage. Well, at least tell me in what scene you noticed it."

"Very well, I will. And you can do some guessing while I'm gone. I noticed it first in the second scene of the first act. It was difficult to believe my own eyes, but I verified it by continous observation—and it's there all right, it's there."

Kathleen groaned. "What can it be? I can't think. You're around them all the time, Toby. You know everything they say and do. You know every object on the stage in every scene. Can't you make a guess at it?"

"I've stayed awake nights trying to figure it out. Guess there's some things you can't figure unless you know how."

"That's right," said Greer, briskly for him. "That's why you hire an expert. If you want some one to walk up a step-ladder with a lamp balanced on his nose you send for a trained seal. That's why you sent for me."

"Right again. And we have the half of a half of a clew for you."

She produced Jeanie's account of her savings in the tobacco box, explaining where it came from. Greer studied it carefully.

"It's a whole clew. Confirming that she had a secret affair with some one."

ALFRED·A·KNOPF

A SERIES OF ADVERTISEMENTS

About the new novel by the author of SAM

NO. 1 The Trace Family

A FAMILY, unlike a geometric figure, is more than the sum of its parts. You know a family when you have one, and you recognize one when you see one, but that's about all that can be said by way of description. A group of people, related by blood and living together, do not necessarily make a family; sometimes they make anything but.

What is a family?

The word evades definition, but you can say at least that it is unrelated to place and time; it has to do with a spiritual and emotional community.

To John Selby that must be so because the family he has created, the Trace family, has a cohesion and a generosity and a self-regard that makes any person who reads of it feel as though he were coming home to warmth and good food and understood eccentricity and tolerance, to the people with whom he belongs.

There were many Traces of different ages and natures and opinions. Some were more generous than others and some were more intelligent and some were more ambitious or practical or talented or energetic. Members of the family went away to be married, to go into business, to study and sometimes to die. They came back home to visit or to stay.

When Neel became involved in a love affair, when Ann delivered the ultimatum that she was leaving home, when Father Trace led them all to the brink of disaster, the family was proof against it.

Wherever the members of the family were, there was always a family. Whatever the antagonisms were, there was always mutual respect and affection.

The Traces were and are human beings and together they make up a family, familiar and tremendously exciting; a mystic thing that each one of us knows and no one of us can define.

DETOUR 500 FEET! SIGN A SHOCK ON A MONTANA ROAD

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cooke, Mont. [By Mail].—"Detour 500 feet."

The sign startles automobile and bus travelers en route here from Red Lodge, the nearest railroad station, 64 miles northeast. It's no ordinary detour.

You've been traveling up and up, and still up some more, on a ledge blasted from a precipitous mountainside. The ledge is really wide enough for a safe right of way, but to a tourist from the Mississippi valley it seems awfully narrow, with its wall of rock on one side and its drop of at least 1,000 feet on the other.

The road bends and turns in the course of the ascent, following the vertical creases and ridges of the mountainside. The tourist stops at a walled in parking space to peer over the side. Almost directly below, a stream is wiggling its way thru rocks, splashing white in the sunlight.

Climb Is Resumed.

The horizon is still upward. Peaks show rocky heads and shoulders where the forest is thinned by altitude. Great cracks are filled with snow. You breathe deeply of air as satisfying as cold water to a thirsty throat, and then resume the climb.

Up and up, the engine labors to stay in high gear. You approach another of those curves where to continue straight would mean a plunge of 1,000 feet. And there on the curve is this sign reading: "Detour 500 feet."

The road ahead bends some more and you discover the meaning of the sign. A big bank of snow has slid down the mountain. There's room for you to bypass it.

Two Miles Above Sea Level.

In a few minutes you are on a rolling plateau. An elevation marker reads 10,940 feet. At Red Lodge it was 5,650 feet. You have risen more than a mile in a short drive. You are more than two miles above sea level.

The sun is warm. The breeze is chilly. Ice water is running from banks of snow. There are small, crystal clear ponds. Trout fishermen are casting in streams feeding from these lakes. Tiny wild flowers of many varieties carpet rocky hillsides.

After several miles the road gradually descends. With each turn there is a new panorama of mountains, irregular patches of white ornamenting gray, and red and purple peaks above green forests. Small clouds are white in a blue sky.

With loss of altitude, the highway penetrates dense woods. You enter a wide place in the road, with gas stations, lunch stands, and tourist cabins. That's Cooke, population 45 in the long, subzero winters. It's the northeastern gateway to Yellowstone National park.

Boy First to Catch Blue Marlin North of Hatteras

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Ocean City, Md., Aug. 26 [Special].—Harry Tellam Jr.—age, 13 years; weight, 90 pounds—of Baltimore has done what other deep sea anglers have been trying to do for years. He landed the first blue marlin ever caught north of Cape Hatteras. The fish weighed 350 pounds, was 11 feet 3 inches long, and had a tail spread of 47 inches. It took 2 hours and 25 minutes to bring it in.

A Mecca for the Devout

What can you tell me about the Natural Bridge in the Shenandoah valley? —R. V. M.

This rock formation, standing 215 feet high near Lexington, Va., is regarded as one of the world's foremost natural wonders. In the early days the Indians revered it as the work of the Great Spirit. John Marshall referred to it as "God's greatest miracle in stone." Thomas Jefferson once owned it. Nowadays colored lights at night give the stone arch an added appeal as a tourist attraction.

When is the Grape and Wine festival to be held at Lodi, Cal.?—S. G.
Sept. 12, 13, and 14.

How many miles of railway are there in North America? —B. H.
About 292,000. About 99 per cent of this mileage is of uniform standard gauge, thus permitting the uninterrupted movement of trains thruout the United States, Canada, and Mexico, and from one country to another.

What is the history of Fort Niagara, near Niagara Falls? —E. W.
It was built by the French in 1726 to prevent the English from gaining control of that gateway to the west. The English captured it in 1759, and turned it over to the United States after the Revolutionary war.

Down in Mexico this summer we, like all other tourists, encountered the jumping bean. What makes it jump? —F. T. T.
The bean is the fruit of a shrub called Sebastiana pavoniana by the scientists, but mincapatl by the Mexican Indians. The larva of the butterfly of the Tortricidae family makes its home inside, eating the contents and covering the inner surface with a web. When the sun warms the bean, the larva stretches itself. Its head and feet come into violent contact with the walls, and this agitation turns an otherwise commonplace article of commerce into an animated being.

The late Hamlin Garland used to write about the scenic beauty of Wisconsin's "coulee country." Where is it? —P. J. McC.
It borders the Mississippi river in the vicinity of La Crosse.

Is it still possible to cruise from New York to California? C. C. M.
Yes. At least one company—the American President Lines—is sending its ships on the 5,500 mile route by way of Havana and the Panama canal.

How long will the lodges and camps on Isle Royale, in Lake Superior, remain open this season? How can I get there by Great Lakes steamer? G. C.
Until Sept. 15. One of the Georgian Bay Line's ships leaves Chicago for a cruise to the island each Monday.

A friend of mine was one of the camera fans whom Ivan Dmitri, color photographer, took to Jasper National park, in the Canadian Rockies, this summer. He has told me so much about the expedition that I would like to take it if it is ever offered again. Will there be a similar trip next summer? D. J. McK.
If present plans are carried out the Dmitri expedition to Jasper will be repeated next July.

TRAVEL SPENDING HITS NEW HIGH IN 6 MONTH PERIOD

Armament Expenditures Largely Responsible.

More tourist dollars found their way into circulation in the first six months of this year than in any similar period in the history of America's travel industry. This was indicated in a survey recently completed by the American Automobile association.

The increase in the mass movement of persons going places and seeing things by railroad, airplane, bus, steamer, and private automobile was attributed to the step-up in industry and employment resulting largely from expenditures for armaments.

Restrictions a Factor.

Whether or not the upswing continues, the statement added, will depend mainly on the extent to which "emergency" restrictions come into operation. This will be especially true of travel by auto.

"Travel and recreation are vital from the standpoint of the health and morale of the people, and should be encouraged, rather than discouraged, at a time like this," said Thomas P. Henry, president of the association. "They are important elements in the economy of many areas, not only in this country, but in Canada and Mexico as well."

Reports from the AAA motor clubs showed that routings in the first half of 1941 were about 20 per cent above those for the first half of 1940; that trips to the national parks, monuments, and historical shrines ran about 16 per cent ahead, and that railroad, steamship, air, and bus lines had corresponding gains.

Recreational Trips Increase.

"Recreational trips have been somewhat shorter than in previous years," the statement said, "but the number has been much greater, with an unprecedented outpouring from metropolitan and defense production areas to nearby beaches and resorts on holidays and week-ends. Hotels in resort areas report unusually heavy patronage, with advance reservations running late into the summer.

"Canada and Mexico have been the objectives of many thousands of American vacationists, particularly those who are accustomed to going abroad in normal times and are now forced to satisfy their travel yearnings with the 'old world' color to be found in the western hemisphere."

THE DUDE RANCH, ONCE WEST'S PHENOMENON, INVADES EAST, SOUTH

New York, Aug. 26 [Special].—Dude ranches, once strictly western phenomena, are rapidly invading the east and south.

Even swanky Long Island now has its "ranch life." One of the novelties of the season is a place, not far from New York, which provides burros instead of horses for mounts. It's not so far to fall when a dude is riding a burro.

In the Great Smoky mountains there is a hillbilly ranch where a complete southern mountaineer atmosphere is maintained. The guests live in log cabins, smoke corncob pipes, and grow beards.

Another variation from the original idea is a seagoing dude ranch in Chesapeake bay. There the guests—both men and women—board an old time lumber schooner, dress like sailors, scrub decks, do the steering, and otherwise enjoy the free and easy life of the sea.

TELL AUTOISTS: GO AHEAD WITH VACATION PLANS

Washington, D. C., Aug. 26 [Special].—With the statement that ample notice undoubtedly will precede any drastic rationing of gasoline, the American Automobile association has advised motorists to continue necessary use of their cars, including vacation travel, but, in the interest of motor fuel conservation, to eliminate useless driving.

The statement was made in response to inquiries from affiliated motor clubs and individuals, following the government's action in closing retail gasoline outlets at night in the Atlantic seaboard states.

"Recreational trips, necessary to maintain civilian morale in times like the present, are recognized by federal petroleum authorities as justified use of the automobile," the association said. "There is no attempt to discourage such trips. Motorists can and should proceed with vacation plans, with full assurance that reasonable quantities of gasoline will be available for some time to come."

25,000 Will Watch Race to the Top of Pike's Peak

Colorado Springs, Colo., Aug. 26 [Special].—More than 25,000 persons are expected to watch the 24th annual Labor day auto race to the top of Pike's peak. Awards totaling $25,000 will be given.

VISITORS TO SEE INDIAN POW-WOW IN ILLINOIS PARK

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 26 (AP).—Labor day week-end visitors to Black Hawk State park, near Rock Island, will see a powwow by descendants of the Indians who lived in the park area more than a century ago.

Arrangements have been made for 50 members of the Sauk and Fox tribes from the Tama, Ia., reservation to appear there from Saturday to Monday.

The Indians will live in wick-i-ups, cook their food over campfires, and perform tribal dances in much the same manner their forefathers did at their native festival grounds.

HOLD SCHWEPPE RITES TOMORROW IN LAKE FOREST

Blame Illness for Suicide of Financier.

Funeral services for Charles H. Schweppe, widely known investment banker and civic leader, will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow in the Church of the Holy Spirit in Lake Forest. Mr. Schweppe was found dead in bed of a gunshot wound in his home at 405 North Mayflower road, Lake Forest, yesterday.

A coroner's jury of Lake Forest neighbors found that Mr. Schweppe ended his life while in ill health. He was 60 years old, was president of the Lee Higginson corporation, investment bankers, and a director of Marshall Field & Co., and Fairbanks, Morse & Co.

His death was discovered by a maid, Miss Jennie Orr, when she went to awaken him about 7 a. m. She summoned Dr. Theodore Proxmire, who found that the banker had been shot in the forehead with a .32 caliber revolver he had kept for several years.

Find Unaddressed Note.

On the dresser was an unaddressed note, which read:

"I've been awake all night. It is terrible."

Dr. John L. Taylor, Lake county coroner, conducted the inquest. Dr. Joseph Capps, Mr. Schweppe's personal physician and intimate friend, testified that Mr. Schweppe had complained Monday of insomnia and nervousness. His condition had not been regarded as serious, however.

Mr. Schweppe was perhaps best known for his work as president of St. Luke's hospital, a post he had held for 16 years. Associates said he devoted as much time to the hospital as to his own business.

He was a trustee of the Shedd Aquarium society, which operates the Shedd aquarium, the gift of the late John G. Shedd, who was the father of Mr. Schweppe's wife, the late Mrs. Laura Schweppe. Mr. Schweppe was also vice president of the Old People's home and a trustee of the Home for the Friendless, the Chicago Zoölogical society, Ferry Hall, and the Chicago Boys' club.

Member of 20 Clubs.

Since 1938 he had headed the state board of public welfare commissioners. He was a member of 20 clubs.

Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. A. Watson Armour III., and a son, John Shedd Schweppe, a junior in the Northwestern university medical school. Mrs. Schweppe died on April 20, 1937, leaving most of her 5 million dollar estate to the son and daughter.

OBITUARIES

Frank Joyner.

Frank Joyner, a former school teacher and banker in southern Illinois, died yesterday in his home at 2541 Devon avenue. He was born in Stonefort, Saline county, 76 years ago, and after teaching school in Marion and Herrin, Williamson county, Ill., became president of the First National Bank of Carbondale, in Jackson county, and later of the First National Bank of East St. Louis. He came to Chicago 20 years ago as an insurance executive, retiring 10 years ago. Mr. Joyner at one time lectured on banking at the University of Chicago. Surviving are his widow, Lou C., and two daughters, Miss Grace and Miss Ruth Joyner.

The Rev. Christopher C. Boyle.

The Rev. Christopher C. Boyle, pastor of St. George's Catholic church, Tinley Park, died yesterday. He was 48 years old. Most of his priesthood had been spent in the Chicago district. He went to St. George's church three years ago from St. James' church, Maywood. Surviving are a sister, Mrs. Emil A. Rach, and a brother, Daniel J. Boyle. Mass will be said at St. George's church at 10 a. m. tomorrow, with the funeral mass at 10 a. m. Friday at Our Lady of Peace church, 79th street and Jeffery avenue.

Charles S. Cadmus.

Charles S. Cadmus, 92 years old, who once worked with Thomas E. Edison in the development of motion picture films, died yesterday in Hinsdale sanitarium. He was a native of Newark, N. J. GEN. ALEXANDER OF WORLD WAR'S 77TH DIES AT 77

New York, Aug. 26 [Special].—Plans have been made for the burial Thursday of Maj. Gen. Robert Alexander, 77 years old, in Arlington cemetery. The retired officer, once an Indian fighter and wartime commander of the 77th [New York] division which included the famed "Lost Battalion," died last night at the United States Veterans' hospital here.

Gen. Alexander was one of the few latter day army generals who rose from the ranks in the old regular army. He was a veteran of the Sioux campaigns of 1890, the Spanish-American war, the Philippine insurrection, the Pershing expedition to Mexico, and the World war.

His so-called "Lost Battalion" was cut off from other American troops when it advanced in the Argonne offensive of 1918 and was not supported by allied forces. For four days—until the next advance caught up with them—six companies fought the enemy on all sides, losing 512 of 670 men.

ALICE THOMPSON ESTATE PLACED AT $453,660 NET

A state inheritance tax return for $29,368 filed yesterday with Jay B. Morse, clerk of Lake county, at Waukegan, placed the net estate of Mrs. Alice Poole Thompson, widow of Attorney Leverett Thompson, at $453,660. The return, filed by Mrs. Thompson's daughter, Mrs. Laura Magnuson, wife of Dr. Paul B. Magnuson of Pond Gate Farm, Dundee, said that the gross estate amounted to $568,081 and that debts and expenses of administration were $114,401. An item of $89,626 for estimated federal estate tax was included in the expenses. Mrs. Magnuson is executrix and sole beneficiary under her mother's will. Mrs. Thompson died Oct. 26, 1940, in her home at 788 Woodlawn road, Lake Forest. She was 66 years old.

WOMAN KILLED, 4 INJURED WHEN AUTO HITS TRUCK

Boy, 4, Hit by Car of Neighbor, Dies.

A woman was killed and four members of her family were injured last night when the automobile in which they were driving crashed into a truck at Skokie highway and Glenview road. The dead woman was Mrs. Martha Kostock, 45 years old, 4450 Gunnison street, wife of Arthur A. Kostock, 48, a city fireman, who was driving the car.

Kostock's sister-in-law, Mrs. Anna Golk, 50, of 5023 Kolmar avenue, and his niece, Miss June Gruenke, 14, of 1924 Nelson street, were injured seriously, and Mrs. Golk's daughter, Lillian, 27, and Kostock's grandson, Teddy Uskall, 2, of 4742 Lowell avenue, suffered lesser injuries. The truck driver, Ted Vogg, 22, of Indianapolis, Ind., was also injured.

1 Killed, 2 Injured.

One man was killed and two were injured yesterday when the automobile in which they were riding was forced off the road by a truck on alternate route 66, 12 miles northwest of Joliet. The dead man was Harry Berk, 2813 Division street. The injured, who were taken to St. Joseph's hospital in Joliet, were William Tomquist, 1323 Melrose street, and Ivor Carbeck, 4423 Magnolia avenue.

James Slimak, 4, of 2240 West 50th street, was fatally injured when he was struck by an automobile driven by a neighbor, Mrs. Lillian Kadjer, 32, of 2211 West 50th street. She told the police the boy ran in front of her car as she passed his home. She was not held. The boy died soon after the accident.

Killed While On Vacation.

Mrs. Ruth Kehoe, 47, of 7514 Perry avenue, was killed when she was hit by an automobile at Husted, Colo., where she was vacationing.

Ignacio de Algarra, 55, Cuban consul in Chicago, and his wife, Mercedes, 47, were injured seriously when they were struck by an automobile as they alighted from a bus at Lake View and Wrightwood avenues. They were taken to Columbus Memorial hospital.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday, 564 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these, 419 were killed in Chicago, where 16,135 were injured in the same period.

POLICE TO MAKE DRIVE ON LIGHT JUMPING DRIVERS

Ald. George D. Kells [28th], chairman of the city council traffic committee, and Leslie J. Sorenson, city traffic engineer, will confer today with Commissioner Allman on plans for a police drive to enforce regulations against motorists who jump traffic lights before they change.

"We tried a campaign of education and it was not sufficient," Ald. Kells said. "Commissioner Allman has agreed to begin making arrests Sept. 15. I consider light jumping the city's major traffic hazard."

Ald. Kells also requested citizens to notify his committee of any weeds, bushes, or hedges coming to their notice which constitute visual obstructions at street intersections or conceal traffic lights or stop signs. The Greater Chicago Safety council Monday called upon Chicagoans to remove all such obstructions which might lead to collisions.

Firemen Fight Blaze in Milwaukee Ave. Building

Firemen early today fought to bring under control a blaze which swept a two story building at 2744-56 Milwaukee avenue. The first floor was occupied by stores and the second by a beauty school. A large crowd gathered to watch the fire, for which a 5-11 alarm was sounded.

Children of Barrington to Give Their Own Horse Show Sunday

BY JUDITH CASS.

A HORSE show the children of Barrington will have on Sunday afternoon is unique in one respect. It won't be for the benefit of anything. The 50 cents admission charge will go toward the expenses of ribbons and prizes, and the proud families that will be paying that charge will certainly have more than their money's worth of pleasure and entertainment.

The show will be held at the Round Barn Riding club on Orville Caesar's property at 1 o'clock. Mr. Caesar put the barn aside for the use of his neighbor's children a few years ago, and from being merely a place to keep a child's horse it has grown into a regular club with 73 members from 5 to 15 years old, all of whom will be riding on Sunday. The Round Barn has a full time riding instructor, Willie Kolkmeyer.

Mr. Kolkmeyer, Miss Virginia Cardwell, and Thomas Greenwood will act as judges. Aside from the walk, trot, and canter classes there will be one for pairs, to consist of brothers and sister, but no jumping classes.

Parents to Have Picnics While Children Ride.

The Harold B. Smiths' boys, Harold Jr. and David; the Andrew Dallsteams' Andy and Dorothy; the William D. Van Hornes' Peter and Luigi; the Randolph Paysons' Betsy; the Richmond Kenyons' boys, Hugh and Bobby; the Warren McCrackens' girls, Peggy and Anne, and the Hyde Gillettes' Marie are some of the children who will be competing for blue rubbons. Their parents will be having luncheon parties at home, or picnics at the riding ring, around which they will be able to park and watch from their cars.

Members of summer colonies across the lake will be attending the annual Holland-Castle Park horse show today in Castle Park, Mich., a few miles south of Holland. There will be a special buffet luncheon and a dance tonight on a platform on the edge of the lake. Mrs. Alfred D. Plamondon is a member of the horse show committee, of which Carter P. Brown of Castle Park and Tryon, N. C., is chairman.

Some young Chicagoans on the junior committee are Miss Mary Goletz, Philip Frye, and Miss Sally Ryan. W. Brock Fuller of Milwaukee is to be one of the judges. Among the Chicagoans exhibiting will be Mrs. Louis F. Swift Jr., who took Range Rattler to Castle Park in search of blue ribbons.

Wedding Invitations Out for Nancy Jane Brown.

Invitations are out for the wedding on Sept. 6 of Miss Nancy Jane Brown, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mark Anthony Brown, and Arthur Edmund Cruttenden. The ceremony will take place at 8:30 o'clock in the Browns' home in Wilmette. Mrs. William I. Landwer [Betty Brown] will serve her sister as matron of honor, and Miss Barbara Bayard and Mrs. Marshall Miller will be bridesmaids. Mr. Cruttenden will have his cousin, Walter Cruttenden, as best man and Charles Soule and William Spinney as ushers.

Handsomely engraved invitations have been received from Mr. and Mrs. James Bernard Mullen to the marriage reception of their daughter, Modrea Hoyne, and William Hamilton Mitchell Jr. on Sept. 5 at 8:30 o'clock in the evening at the Onwentsia club. Miss Mullen and Mr. Mitchell will be married a half hour earlier in a quiet ceremony at the Mullen home in Lake Forest, with only the families present.

The Quincy Wrights' daughter, Miss Rosalind Wright, is another of several young women who have decided against having formal debut parties this year. She will not be left out of the debut whirl, however, for so many of her friends are coming out this year, and then, too, there will be many parties for the younger members of University of Chicago families planned by the Colony club in which she will be taking part. Miss Wright will depart about Sept. 30 for her second year at Bryn Mawr college.

Outing and Grab-Bag Party Given Orphans by Catholic Circle

Four hundred fifty orphans from St. Hedwig's Industrial school had the time of their lives yesterday at an outing held for them by the Catholic Circle, men's organization, in Riverview park.

The Catholic circle, composed of more than 100 men, provided nine buses to take the orphans to and from the park. On their return to the school, they were given a grab-bag party with free dolls, airplanes, sewing kits and various toys.

In charge of the outing were the Rev. Francis S. Rush, superintendent of the school; Sister Mary Helen of the Felician order, superior, and John Nering, president of the Catholic circle.

Cuff Notes.

Thornton Wilder, who has had a class at the University of Chicago during the summer semester, leaves Chicago tomorrow and is flying on the Clipper to London. His new play is unfinished but he is taking the manuscript with him. . . . Philip Merivale was in town yesterday on his way from Cape Cod to Hollywood where he will make a new picture, an aviation picture tentatively called Black Angel, the name having been changed to that from Tilted War. . . . Fortuno Gallo, newly appointed manager of the Chicago Opera company for next season, picked up his private telephone in his office yesterday and found he was on a crossed line with a man talking about insurance. "This is no insurance company," said Gallo, "but we certainly could use money. Send it along." . . . Vincent Bendix's temple of Jehol, about which random inquiry was made in this space, recently was dismantled after being a New York World's Fair exhibit, and its 25,000 carved parts, all properly marked and stored, are in a Flushing, Long Island, N. Y., warehouse. "Where the temple will go from here is highly problematical," says Donald Boothby, architect who erected and dismantled the temple at A Century of Progress and at the New York World's Fair. "With world affairs as they are, I fear a cultural edifice like the temple is destined to collect storage dust for some time to come." . . . Bulldozers are recognized in the telephone directory professionally. Charles Grant calls attention to page 133 in the classified where "Bulldozers" are in the "BUI-BUM sector. . . . Did you hear what one Russian said to another as the two finished dinner? Soviet.

CONCERT IN GRANT PARK.

To swing in the wind-swung trees,
Like waves along the breeze.

And ever the music fills the air
With sounds that enthrall the heart,
While the skyline broods in the distance there

Test of a Saying.

A belated circus story comes to our sunburned ears. P. G. Glenkey reports the man who wandered thru the menagerie at the circus recently in Grant park. He stopped at the camels, stooped down to pick up a straw and placed it squarely on a camel's back. Then, as nothing happened, he went off mumbling, "Wrong straw."

Publicist.

A man with an office in the Furniture Mart recently got into a little misunderstanding with his employés, and altho his shop is union, they started to picket. The employer, with an eye to advertising, had signs made up reading, "Marsh Industrial Designs corporation, builders of the finest designs from coast to coast, is unfair to organized labor."

Deep Purple Gets Fashion's Nod for Fall

BY REA SEEGER.

Color promotions whether they are cleverly planned to whet your appetite for something new or just happen, invariably forecast a new wave of fashion. Numerous promotions quietly launched these early fall weeks rate special interest, as the shades are unusually opulent and glowing. Romantic shades, strange tawny golds, rich deep mahogany, green, russet, and Victorian rose, citron, magenta, iridescent sapphire, turquoise green and blue, canary yellows, and subtle blonde colors . . . all these are featured not only in woolens, fine and soft, but in lush velvets, velveteens, and heavy street silks.

One of the most flattering new shades is a deep purple, a very young purple infinitely flattering and easy to wear. It will provide the same flawless background for costume accessories as either black, brown or dark green. You'll find this shade in smart daytime dresses cut like slim coats, in two piece models with decoratively trimmed jackets, in extremely sophisticated winter coats with smoke gray for accents, or with silky lustrous minks or inky black Persian lamb. Virtually every woman can wear this purple.

With this purple you may wear clear yellows, jade greens, soft baby blues, and French pink, almost a flesh tint; also the dramatic contrast of cerise or magenta. Chamois yellow is another telling accent in gloves, bag or hat. Furs, the exciting new blonde shades are exceptional contrasts for this purple, and the dark gleaming brown pelts of mink, kolinsky, caracul, sables, and sable dyed furs also become handsome highlights for this imperial color.

U. of Chicago Orchestra to Give Concert Tonight

The University of Chicago symphony orchestra and choir, with the Swedish Choral club, will give its third annual summer concert this evening at 7:30 o'clock in the Rockefeller Memorial chapel on the campus. Mack Evans, choir director, and Charles Buckley, assistant conductor of the orchestra, will conduct. Soloists will be Ardis Moliter, Eleanor Limbach, Robert Topping, and James McEnery. Joseph Golan, 11 year old violinist, will play with the orchestra.

TWO PURPOSES

In a speech at Cleveland last Nov. 2, three days before his re-election, President Roosevelt said:

"There is nothing secret about our foreign policy. . . . I have stated it many times before, not only in words, but in action. I now restate it.

"The first purpose of our foreign policy is to keep our country out of war. At the same time we seek to keep foreign conceptions of government out of the United States.

"The second purpose of this policy is to keep war as far away as possible from the shores of the entire western hemisphere."

Donations Continue to Be Received for Camp and Ice Funds

As the season draws to a close donations continue to come in for the Camp Algonquin Fund which helps to provide vacations for underprivileged children and needy mothers at the United Charities camp on the Fox river. Fifty-seven dollars was received yesterday, bringing the fund to a total of $1,098.88.

The donors were:

B. E. W.	$20.00
Anonymous	20.00
O. E. Wilke	10.00
A. H. S.	3.00
A. Friend	2.00
Total	$57.00
Previously acknowledged	$1,041.88
Grand total	$1,098.88

One donor, A. H. S., gave $5 to the ice fund yesterday, bringing the total to $1,590.53.

Gifts to both funds are received by the Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., at Tribune Tower. They are gratefully acknowledged in these columns.

and Mrs. Franklin Parsons O'Brien to the debut tea for their daughter, Miss Shirley McCormick O'Brien, on Sept. 10 at the Glen View club. The hours of the party are from 5 until 8 o'clock.

Dr. and Mrs. Lincoln Bruce Donaldson have named their first child Gertrude Galloway Donaldson after her mother. The baby was born on Aug. 3 in the Chicago Lying-In hospital, where her father is a member of the staff. Her grandparents are Dr. and Mrs. Charles Edwin Galloway and Mrs. William L. Donaldson.

Miss Laura Sprague has joined her parents, Col. and Mrs. Albert A. Sprague, at their cottage at White Sulphur Springs for the remainder of the season. Mrs. John Liddell of Shanghai, who has been spending two months at the Greenbrier, in White Sulphur, has gone to New York on a little trip before returning to Chicago, where she will remain until conditions in the far east are more settled. Another arrival at the resort is Miss Eleanor Jerrems, who usually spends several weeks there in the late summer.

Mrs. Alfred T. Carton Now in Bretton Woods, N. H.

Mrs. Alfred T. Carton and her brother, Bradford Wells, are in Bretton Woods, N. H., where they were among the spectators at a young people's barn dance in Jefferson, N. H., last Friday. The ballroom was decorated like a huge farmyard with animals, archaic vehicles, and all the trimmings. Mr. Wells has been a member of the summer colony at Waumbek for many years.

The René Matheys, formerly of Paris, observed their 14th wedding anniversary with a picnic supper at the swimming pool of their Littleton, N. H., home. Mr. and Mrs. Lowell R. Burch, who were among the guests, just have returned to Chicago. Mrs. Robert W. Edge, the former Elizabeth Giessner, has a house this summer on Farr hill in Littleton. Mrs. Annie C. Drake is visiting Mrs. John G. M. Giessner.

From Springfield Center, N. Y., comes the news of the dedication of a new organ in the lovely little St. Mary's Episcopal church that stands in the center of the village. The organ was given to the church by John Borie Ryerson in memory of his mother, the late Mrs. Forsythe Sherfesee, who was formerly Mrs. Emily Borie Ryerson of Chicago and Springfield Center. In addition to special music by the choir the Rev. A. C. Howell read a tribute to Mrs. Sherfesee written especially by the Rev. Anson Phelps Stokes. Dr. Stokes and Dr. Howell both are old friends of the Ryerson family. Mrs. Sherfesee's first husband, Arthur Ryerson, lost his life in the sinking of the Titanic.

The North Shore group of the Chicago Mount Holyoke club will give a splash party and supper today at the Chicago Town and Tennis club for entering freshmen, undergraduates, and alumnae. Tennis and swimming will be followed by an exhibition match at 5 o'clock. After supper guests will see colored films of the college's 104th commencement exercises. Sponsoring the party are Mrs. Karl D. Vittum, president of the club; Mrs. Arthur W. Consoer, national president of the alumnae association; Miss Helen Monchow, trustee; Mrs. James Jackson Forstall, alumnae trustee, and Miss Florence Huth, registrar of the Northwestern university school of speech and alumnae councilor.

Your Daughter Has a Right to Know

It is every mother's duty to tell her daughter physical facts. How much better that she learn them from you, rather than from girls her own age. In feminine hygiene, facts may be distorted, or wholly untrue. Result, many brides use overstrong solutions of acids which can actually burn or scar delicate tissues. Today, there is no need to use such deadly solutions. Science has given us Zonite. Non-poisonous, non-caustic, yet kills germs, bacteria on contact. Actually destroys undesirable odors. Protects personal daintiness. Most important, safe for delicate tissues. Over 20,000,000 bottles already bought. Free Book Tells Intimate Facts. Give your daughter this frankly written booklet, "Feminine Hygiene Today," which you can get FREE, sent to you postpaid in plain wrapper. Most of the flavored gelatins are too sweet to make good vegetable salads, even when vinegar or lemon juice is added. But there's a packaged salad gelatin, sometimes called aspic, which is just the thing for a jellied vegetable base. It has the right amount of tartness and flavor for raw vegetables such as cabbage, celery, and carrots, or for cooked vegetables such as peas, carrots, green beans.

Jellied Vegetable Salad.
[Serves Six.]

1 package aspic gelatin
1 cup hot water
1 cup cold water or tomato juice
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
½ cup shredded and chopped cabbage
3 stalks celery, chopped
1 small onion, minced
½ green pepper, chopped
2 small carrots, grated
1 canned pimiento, chopped

Dissolve gelatin in hot water. Add cold water or tomato juice, with salt and Worcestershire sauce. Chill until gelatin begins to thicken. Add remaining ingredients and chill until firm. Serve on lettuce with boiled dressing or mayonnaise.

Shoulder lamb chops will cost you less than loin chops, but they're broiled in exactly the same way, just until thoroly browned on each side, by which time they'll have cooked thru. Use canned peach halves, or fresh ones cooked in sirup to accompany them. Brush the peach halves with butter and brown them under the broiler when you are cooking the chops on the second side.

Hot Potato Salad.
[Serves Four.]

4 medium potatoes
3 slices bacon
2 tablespoons minced onion
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon dry mustard
¾ teaspoon pepper
2 teaspoons sugar
¼ cup mild vinegar
¼ cup cream

Boil potatoes until tender. Skin and slice into the top of a double boiler, over hot water. Fry bacon until crisp. Crumble it into the potatoes. Add onion. Combine salt, mustard, pepper, sugar, vinegar, and cream. Heat and pour over hot potatoes. Mix gently and let stand, covered, for 15 minutes over the hot water, during which time flavors will blend.

Apple Dumplings.

2 cups flour
4 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
¼ cup butter, margarine, vegetable shortening, or lard
⅝ cup milk
4 large, tart apples, sliced
½ cup sugar
¼ teaspoon cinnamon
Melted butter

Sift flour, baking powder, and salt, and cut in shortening until mixture is in coarse lumps. Add milk and stir to a soft dough. Knead on a lightly floured board for 30 seconds, using gentle patting out and folding over motions. Roll dough into a rectangle about a fourth of an inch thick. Slice peeled apples over dough and sprinkle with sugar and cinnamon. Drip melted butter over the mixture. Roll up dough and slice into inch thick slices. Place in a buttered baking pan, with edges touching. Brush over with melted butter. Bake at 400 degrees for 20-25 minutes, and serve warm with cream.

By Evelyn Holmes

Aug. 27, 1941.

Universal day—A busy, active day for those who are in tune and alert.

September—Those in a 7 year this year should not attempt anything new this coming month. Their best plan will be to keep in the background and watch and wait. They should rest as much as possible, read, and study, but keep away from depressing news as they are in an impressionable period which makes them susceptible to the gloomy outlook. Analyze your own reactions and find out where you are going and how far you have come toward your goal. If you are asked to face some loss, do so with a philosophical resignation and don't let it discourage or worry you. If you find yourself in a mental fog, don't force matters. Socially this is a negative year. Get acquainted with yourself and be your own best company during this period.

Two Versions of Jumper

SMART AUTUMN PATTERNS.

One pattern makes a suspender frock for the small schoolgirl, while the other gives adult lines to the jumper and dresses it up for office, college classroom, and informal social activities.

Style No. 3100 is designed for sizes 6, 8, 10, 12, and 14. Size 8 requires 1½ yards of 54 inch material for jumper; 1⅝ yards of 35 inch for blouse.

Style No. 3090 is designed for sizes 12, 14, and 16, and 36, 38, and 40 inch bust measurements. Size 16 requires 2¼ yards of 54 inch material for jumper; 2¼ yards of 39 inch for blouse.

Each pattern costs 10 cents.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly. The summer pattern book costs 15 cents, 10 cents if ordered with a pattern.

Fatigue May Be Result of Poor Posture

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Copyright: 1941: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.

That tired out feeling often is due to incorrect posture. The muscles and organs of the body work much more easily in the right position. A balanced posture permits the blood to flow freely and refresh the tissues with nourishment.

The girl who slumps over her work makes it harder. Her caved-in chest doesn't give her room to breathe. She impedes circulation. Her bowed shoulders are twisting her poor body out of shape and straining her muscles unmercifully. It is no wonder that the day's end finds her completely exhausted.

Her sister, who sits correctly, lets her head rest where it belongs, balanced on her shoulders. She doesn't have the strain of holding up an outstretched neck. The end of her spine doesn't have to do work for which it never was intended. Because she uses her muscles correctly, there is no extra strain.

Driving a car can wear the driver out or be a pleasant relaxation. It depends on how she sits. If she sits straight and lets the road come to her, she will enjoy her drive. If she clutches the wheel and strains forward to get there before the car, naturally it will be tiring.

The head and neck and shoulders should be balanced on the body. It is a waste of energy to hold them up all day. If she assumes the right posture, the business woman will need only to do the task before her. She will avoid extra muscle strain.

Stage Notes

Rose Franken's successful comedy, "Claudia," will not only launch the forthcoming Chicago theatrical season and John Golden's local producing activities but also will be the initial offering of the Theater Guild and American Theater society. Subscribers will have a chance to see the play during the first two weeks of its run, which starts on Monday, Sept. 15, at the Selwyn theater.

Katharine Cornell will bring her distinguished revival of George Bernard Shaw's "The Doctor's Dilemma" to the Grand Opera house on Oct. 20 for a limited engagement. Aside from Miss Cornell the cast includes Colin Keith-Johnston, Bramwell Fletcher, Cecil Humphreys, Barry Jones, Whitford Kane, Ralph Forbes and Clarence Derwent.

Stepmothers, Win Children to Your Side

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

Copyright: 1941: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.

A stiff reform platform is a poor one for a step mother-to-be to adopt. If the children you are going to mother have been badly brought up by relatives, or if you think they have, don't begin your reign by starting their reformation at once.

The basic thing to do is to win their trust and their friendliness. This you can do quite soon, waiting patiently for that slowgrowing plant, love, to develop in time.

With a baby, the task is easy. With very little children it is fairly easy, provided you understand them enough to manage them gently and cheerfully, and have some fun and play instinct in you. But with the older children you have a more difficult proposition to tackle. On the other hand, they are old enough for you to talk to them, to explain, and to find much common ground of interest and companionship. As one stepmother puts it:

"A child who has reached the age of 9 or 10 is pretty well molded to a given pattern of ideas, habits, and behavior. I remember when I first took over, after our marriage, that the oldest daughter, who was 12, had the 'cruel stepmother' notion. She froze me, almost literally, out. She wouldn't melt."

"Finally I decided to do something about it, so I talked to the two girls as an older friend might. I told them I thought I would be a foolish person to be jealous of their mother; and that I thought it was foolish of them to resent my position as their father's wife. I told them I didn't want to take their mother's place in their hearts, that I only wanted to cherish them and raise them. I said, too, that I believed their mother would be glad to know that they had some one to love them and make a home for them. It worked like magic. The barrier dissolved then and there, and many happy years followed for all of us."

It takes doing, this job of being a stepmother. But that is true of all worthwhile undertakings.

THRU THE LOOKING GLASS

If you believe in the sound old adage that an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure it's unbelievably easy to care for a dry skin. Because the best way to treat skin dryness is to prevent it.

What most of us dry skinned sisters do is to wallow in the false sense of security that summer brings us. In warm weather the outward signs of dryness usually disappear, so we heave sighs of relief and forget that oiling is a process that should go on 12 months of the year.

There are special skin oils now, thank heaven. One of the best we've ever found isn't intended to take the place of your usual treatment preparations. It's a plus-preparation, and it does wonders.

Use a few drops nightly after your usual cleansing. Use a little more on the skin of your body; its regular use will probably ward off the itch next winter! It's light but rich oil, with a pleasant odor, and its emollient virtues are impressive.

Three Crocheted Flowers

BY ELLEN BRUCE.

Bright crocheted flowers are attributes necessary to fall clothing and these clever blooms allow a choice for each mood. All are easy crochet jobs and may be created from odds and ends in the scrap bag. As these floral motifs move from head to shoulder the type of material may change. Gay wools are suggestions for the boutonniere, while the lustrous threads are used for hats.

For instructions in crocheting the three types of flowers, No. 908, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1941: By Ely Culbertson.]

The best reasoning about a bridge hand often follows a negative rather than a positive course. It is not always possible, for instance, for a defender to determine the best line of defense at an early stage of play. Usually, however, he can discover by the simplest sort of reasoning a lead or play that cannot cost anything. If a play cannot be wrong, it must, per se, be right. Superficially, this may strike readers as so obviously true and elementary that it is not worth stating but, nevertheless, I commend it as a philosophy for the average and advanced player. Let us apply it to the following hand:

East-West vulnerable.

♠ 8 5 3
♥ 8 4 3 2
♦ A 9 5

WEST
♠ K 7 4 2
♥ Q J 10
♦ J 7
♣ A K Q 4

EAST
♠ J 10 9

♦ 10 8 6 3 2
♣ J 10 8 5 3

SOUTH
♠ A Q 6
♥ A K 9 7 6 5
♦ K Q 4
♣ 7

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	1 heart	Double
2 hearts	Pass	4 hearts	Pass
Pass	Pass

West's double was shaded but, at match-point duplicate, not to be criticized. West felt his hand worth some effort, and a double was the safest available. The final contract at all tables was either three or four hearts, and in all cases West selected the club king as the opening lead.

At every table but one, West's second play was the "normal" lead of the club queen. Where this was the defense, the declarers had an easy time of it. They ruffed the second lead, cashed the ace and king of hearts, crossed to dummy's diamond ace, and ruffed dummy's last club. The diamond king and queen then were cashed. They then exited with a trump. West was forced to one of two fatal returns, namely a club that could be ruffed in dummy while declarer discarded a spade, or a spade from the king into declarer's major tenace.

At only one table did West use the correct method of reasoning. Instead of continuing with clubs, this West stopped to think that it could not possibly be wrong to shift to the heart queen. Club tricks could not escape while West retained heart and spade controls, and while he also controled the diamond suit by being able to ruff the third round if necessary. On this absolutely sound reasoning, he shifted to the heart queen, and after that, declarer's strip-and-throw-in play evaporated. When West was thrown on lead with a third round of hearts, a club still was a safe exit card.

Wallflowers, Here's Advice to Help You

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Copyright: 1941: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.

We are giving a party for wallflowers today. We are inviting the girl or boy who feels all awkward hands and feet, the self-conscious adult who is tactless from embarassment, the retiring soul who doesn't have any fun. We hope to show them how to have a good time.

When you are introduced to a group of strangers, do you look upon them as prospective friends? Or do new people seem to you a group of critics, harsh judges, a hostile audience? Those who answer "yes" to the first question will consider the second quite absurd. Yet, to the self-conscious person, strangers do seem like enemies. Yet if he anticipated friendliness, he would be more friendly himself. He would inspire cordiality.

Therefore, before a party, he should try to learn all the interesting things he can about the prospective guests. If he can work up an eagerness to know them, half his battle is won.

When there is no chance to prepare this sort of party spirit, let him agonize thru introductions as best he can. Then he can retire to his corner. Once there, let him make mental notes about all the interesting or pleasing qualities of the other guests. Mr. Brown is a most amusing story teller. Miss Jones certainly is pretty. That young chap over there has a genial laugh.

Without saying a word, his thoughts will be conveyed to the other guests. Catching his look of interest and approval, they will be pleased. Soon smiles and friendly glances will come his way. He may even gain courage to express the compliments he has been thinking. Others won't be strangers to him very long.

GREEN HONORED BY REPUBLICANS OF NATIVE STATE

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

French Lick, Ind., Aug. 26.—Here in the hills of southern Indiana, a gathering of Republicans this afternoon talked over the ways of government with the informality of Hoosier farmers met at a four point fence corner. Gov. Dwight H. Green of Illinois motored thru a stormy night from Springfield to be present as guest of honor.

Gov. Green [top] and Ralph F. Gates.

It was a meeting of the Indiana Ex-Service Men's club. Green, a pilot in the World war, is a native of Ligonier, Ind. The chairman, Mark Rhoads, former state motor vehicle commissioner, and Green both protested that it was not the beginning of a Presidential boom, as had been reported in the Indiana press.

Defend Party System.

It was more of a conference on a threat to the two party system of government feared by Republicans as a result of the New Deal campaign to throttle criticism of President Roosevelt's war program. Green and Ralph F. Gates, new Indiana Republican state chairman, discussed this point. Dr. O. F. Hume, Kentucky national committeeman, was at the speakers' table at a luncheon for 150.

"I'm not a candidate for anything," said Green. "The big thing in my mind today is to be a good governor of Illinois, to make a record not only for myself but for my political party.

"Our type of government is on trial in this country. There is propaganda that for efficiency we need a centralization of power like the dictatorships of Europe. The public, made aware of government affairs by the increasing federal taxes, are watching their representatives in public office as never before. It behooves us office holders to conduct ourselves so as to strengthen confidence in the Republican form of government.

"The Republican party faces the responsibility of preserving the American way of government and the American way of life."

Seconded by Hoosier Leader.

Gates said that Green evidently had carried to Illinois, as an inheritance from Ligonier environment, a horse and buggy philosophy, of honesty in public office.

"Some say," the Hoosier leader continued, "that we are in the twilight of the two party system, that we should all get behind one man. If this is true, before darkness comes we'll give them the damnedest fight they ever had. It's the duty of the Republican party to preserve our system of government.

"The governor of Illinois and the senator from Illinois, Wayland Brooks," said Rhoads, "are both doing much to strengthen the position of our party as a bulwark against centralized power."

Green tomorrow is to speak at "Gov. Green day" at a national convention of the Kappa Sigma fraternity here. He was a member of this fraternity at Wabash college.

EX-FIRE CHIEF KILLS SELF IN NORTH CHICAGO

Fred Brean, 45 years old, fire chief of North Chicago from 1926 to 1935, ended his life yesterday by inhaling carbon monoxide gas from the exhaust of his car, parked in the closed garage at the rear of his home at 1620 Sheridan road, North Chicago. He had attached a rubber tube to the exhaust pipe and led it thru a window of the closed car. Brean, who had been a civilian member of the Great Lakes Naval Training station fire department since 1935, had been under the care of a physician for a stomach ailment for several months.

ALEXANDER'S 144 WINS MEDAL IN NATIONAL AMATEUR

BURKE SECOND WITH 145; WIND HAMPERS PLAY

Leaders Shoot 2d Round 77s.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Omaha, Neb., Aug. 26.—Everything is finer in the state of Carolina tonight—and we mean North Carolina. Stewart [Skip] Alexander, a 23 year old citizen of Durham, N. C., is responsible for whatever celebration the fairway folks down that way are holding. Today, the personable Skip, who came here not to win the medal, but to qualify, did both in the medal play test of the 45th National Amateur golf tournament by shooting 144, even par for the puzzling premises of the Omaha Field club.

Actually, Alexander, one of the stars of Duke university's golf team until his recent graduation, won the medal in yesterday's first 18. In that he finished with a 67, tying the national record for a single round in the Amateur and breaking the Field club's par by five strokes. Only one man in the field even approached Alexander's total. He was Johnny Burke, the Rhode Island Irishman who now registers from Chicago's Ridge Country club. Burke had a 68 in yesterday's first round.

Each Shoots a 77.

Today's second round, composed of a batch of the dizziest scoring efforts the Amateur has seen in years, saw both Alexander and Burke shoot 77s, five over par, so that you might say the issue was settled in the first round. Neither Skip nor Johnny had any occasion to blush about their 77s. Consider that such esteemed swingers as Ray Billows had an 83, Gus Moreland an 85, Tommy Sheehan an 83, Duff McCullough an 85, and Harry Todd an 81.

"How come such high scoring?" the question asked by newcomers to the galleries today, can be answered variously. For one item, a stout wind that sprang up in the morning and endured thru most of the day helped no shots. For another, the Field club, which underwent a sudden and serious freeze last Armistice day, from which it never quite recovered, is not at the peak of condition, despite the valiant efforts of the club to attain that point since last spring.

Only Two Break Par.

Only two men — Alexander and Burke—broke par in the two days of medal shooting. Three tied it yesterday, and today's best rounds were 73s submitted by Johnny Fischer of Cincinnati, the 1936 champion; Johnny Jacobs of Cedar Rapids, Ia., and Lyn Lardner of Milwaukee.

Dick Chapman of Marmaroneck, N. Y., the defending champion, was happy to get a 78 and a 150, as was Mario Gonzales of South America, one of his playing partners. The other member of the Chapman trio, Tommy Sheehan of Detroit, finished with an 83 for 160 and failed to qualify.

The qualifying limit proved to be 159, against last year's 155 at Winged Foot. Ten players who shot 159 teed off shortly after 6 o'clock in an extra

In the Wake of the News

BY ARCH WARD.

FROM time to time this department is asked for an analysis of what readers choose to call "the Cub situation." . . . In an effort to answer their queries as fully, honestly, and intelligently as possible we have asked three men who probably are in better position to appraise the present Cubs and the team's outlook than any other group. . . . They are Irving Vaughan and Edward Burns, popularly regarded as the best team of baseball writers in the major leagues, and James T. Gallagher, the Cubs' general manager. . . . Their comments:

Irving Vaughan: "Don't shed any tears now for the Cubs, because things will become worse before turning better. It's a long, rough road ahead. The Cub machine is rickety. It has been allowed to run without oil for more than a few years. The front office of a major league club is no place for novices. The club has overlooked the fact that players grow old. The league is filled with former Cubs who seem to be doing pretty well. What have the Cubs to show for what they gave away? The management did nothing to assure a possible supply of replacements until it was too late. President P. K. Wrigley accepted advice that a farm system for the development of prospects was unnecessary. It has proved incompetent counsel. Even if the Cubs were willing to spend freely, in the present market they can buy, in most cases, only second grade talent. The choice minor league players are fenced in on farms of other major league organizations. The Cubs now have a few farms or affiliates, but nobody to watch over them exclusively. The Dizzy Dean purchase didn't make for improvement. It was all right to make the deal, but when Dean showed he was thru he should have been charged off to bad luck and forgotten. Instead, he lingered on, doing nothing for big pay, which created a bad feeling among the other players. There's another factor that parallels the Dean case. Too many players have been retained long past their time merely because of fear to release them. They are nice fellows personally, so there is no use naming them. Some of them are around for the last season, you can be sure of that. But where will the replacements come from? The present Cubs are not hitters or fielders and their pitching is mythical. Yet last fall nobody thought of getting any one except a shortstop and where is he today? The late William Wrigley Jr., baffled by the problems of a baseball owner, repeatedly termed it a peculiar business. He hit it on the head."

Edward Burns: "This season has been one of considerable disillusionment for certain Cub executives, especially General Manager James T. Gallagher, now perspiring to the end of his first season as a baseball nabob after a seven year career as a baseball writer. Gallagher entered upon his new job last fall a regular little Polyanna, full of sweet dreams of miracles to come—and rapidly. Gallagher has awakened to certain facts about which he knew but wouldn't recognize in his earlier enthusiasm. It is said he no longer is a dream boy. He really awakened when he decided to dispense with the services of Billy Herman. Gallagher and Manager Wilson should have swept out all the old Cub clique forthwith, or they should have kept the clique intact and toadied to it by purchasing players the clique recommended as desirable companions, socially and professionally. The two Jims perhaps realize they shouldn't have choked up after their move on Herman. They didn't get around to Larry French and Augie Galan till Aug. 19. With an entirely new outfit much earlier they couldn't have been much worse than their present position in the league standings. The Cubs never will start improving in team spirit until they have found a place elsewhere for virtually every man who was on the last Cub pennant winner in 1938. Exceptions to the housecleaning recommendations would have to be made in the cases of Stan Hack and Phil Cavarretta. Mr. Gallagher has learned to suffer this year and so has Mr. Wilson, who thought he had been immunized by the Phillies. But they're both game, smart gents. There'll be further action in the Cub roster department between now and next opening day and many think a change in the ownership wouldn't be an insurmountable handicap."

Jim Gallagher: "Wilson and I inherited a club which had gone pretty much to seed. It usually takes years to rebuild such a team and I think we're lucky to have come up with youngsters like Stringer, Sturgeon, Gilbert, McCullough, Scheffing, and Erickson in our first year. These, with men like Vern Olsen, Bill Nicholson, and Jake Mooty, also youngsters, should form a pretty good nucleus for the future. Our failures this year can be traced largely to the succession of injuries which kept Hank Leiber from reaching his natural form, Claude Passeau's slow start and later injury, Olsen's recurring illness, Mooty's injured hand, which incapacitated him for more than six weeks, and the injury which halted Nicholson just when he seemed off for a sensational year. There have been numerous other injuries and slumps which hurt us, but these were the big factors, these and obvious facts that kids make a lot of mistakes which lose ball games. Since this time last year the following players have been removed from the Cubs' active list: Bryant, Dean, French, Bonura, Herman, Mattick, Rogell, Warstler, Gleeson, Galan, Hartnett, R. Collins, and Todd. In their places are Eaves, Erickson, Pressnell, Dahlgren, Stringer, Sturgeon, Hudson, Gilbert, B. Olsen, McCullough, George, and Scheffing. Whether this changing picture and the trend it indicates is helping the club, time alone can tell. Certainly the Cubs are playing a brighter, faster, more interesting game than in 1940, tho they are considerably back of the 1940 club's pace. We hope with experience this will be a stronger and better team, one which will take its place with the pennant contenders in the not too distant future."

Christman to Report for Army Duty on Sept. 4

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 26 (AP).—Paul Christman, University of Missouri football star, has been ordered to report for induction into the army at Jefferson barracks Sept. 4. A notice was sent last night by Draft Board Secretary James H. Hennessy to Christman in Evanston, Ill., where he is practicing with the college All-Stars for the game with the Chicago Bears Thursday night.

LESNEVICH WINS; CLEARS CLAIM TO DIVISION TITLE

Gus's Early Edge Stands Up Against Mauriello.

The rugged Russian from New Jersey won undisputed possession of the crown by the barest margin. He floored Mauriello in the second round, cut his face open in the fourth, and was way out in front when Tami came down the stretch like Whirlaway to nearly pull the decision out of the fire.

Wins on Early Edge.

The officials decided that Lesnevich's early edge, when he used a left hand like a battering ram, was enough to give him the verdict which clears up the confusion that has existed in the light heavyweight division since Billy Conn abdicated to try for heavyweight glory.

On the Associated Press score card, Mauriello had an edge of eight rounds to seven. Five of these he picked up in the last six.

The fight finally clarified the tangled situation in the light heavyweight division. The National Boxing association took Billy Conn's 175 pound crown away before Conn stepped down and awarded it to Anton Christoforidis, from whom Lesnevich won it several months ago. The New York state athletic commission didn't go along with this procedure, and recently said it would give the title to tonight's winner.

O, for Another Conn.

In spite of the bruising battle put up by both belters tonight, however, the customers, who contributed to a gross gate of $20,051, were left with the impression that Conn could chase both of them right out of the building.

Thru the first three minutes, Lesnevich tried to connect with his left. He finally found the range in the second round and 21 year old Tami went down. He remained on his knees until Referee Eddie Josephs reached the nine count.

Thru the first 10 rounds, Lesnevich went away out in front. He gashed Mauriello's eye in the fourth, and blood streamed down the Bronx youngster's face in every round until the ninth.

But in the 10th, Tami started to go. He switched his right hand attack to the body. Each time he fired the shot under the heart, Gus brought his guard down just a fraction, and Mauriello bounced shots off his head thru the opening. It almost worked.

BERWYN MOVES TO FINALS OF LEGION SERIES

Berwyn will idle tomorrow afternoon while St. Louis and Augusta, Ga., battle for the right to meet Berwyn tomorrow night. Should Berwyn win tomorrow's game the series will be over. If Berwyn loses the deciding game will be played Thursday night. Score:

All-Star Back Field Shines on Soldiers' Field

A WORD TO WISE ALL-STAR FANS: GET THERE EARLY

That's the urgent appeal made by park and city police to the 98,200 ticket holders who will come from 33 states and the District of Columbia tomorrow night to see the eighth annual All-Star football game in Soldiers' field between the Chicago Bears, professional champions, and the College All-Americans.

The opening ceremonies in the huge lake front stadium start at 8:15 p. m. Past experience has shown that any one leaving the loop later than 7:20 not only misses the colorful opening ceremonies but frequently misses the opening kickoff, as well.

Lots House 10,000 Cars.

Parking lots in the stadium vicinity, capable of housing more than 10,000 cars, will be available from early afternoon and adequate traffic direction and police protection will be provided thruout the afternoon and evening.

Arrangements for handling the record breaking All-Star crowd have been completed under the direction of Chief Roger T. Shanahan of the Chicago Park police and Otto E. Jelinek, park district traffic engineer, after conferences with representatives of the utilities and The Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., sponsor of the game.

While at least one-third of the huge crowd will go to the game by private automobiles, street cars, buses, taxicabs and steam trains will move most of the others to the stadium. Many avoid the traffic by parking their cars some distance from the field and walking to the stadium.

The special traffic regulations to handle the tremendous crowd have been drawn up to safeguard riders and pedestrians — there never has been a serious accident at an All-Star game—and to avoid congestion. The 93,200 ticket holders can ease the burden of police and make the evening a completely happy one for themselves by getting there early and avoiding the rush!

Never a Serious Accident.

To accommodate those driving to the stadium, police have set aside the parking area south of 16th street drive between Columbus and Leif Eriksen drives; the parking area east of Soldiers' field between East 14th boulevard and 16th street drive; parking spaces east and north of the Field museum and the parking area on Northerly island. Columbus drive between 11th street and Monroe street also will be reserved for parking. Parking will be prohibited on all other roads and drives adjacent to the stadium. Northbound traffic on the Outer drive will be detoured at 31st and 23d streets to Michigan avenue and southbound Outer drive traffic will detour at Oak street to Michigan avenue.

Now Harmon Is Seeking Autographs!

The closing days of the practice period always remind the College All-Stars that they will soon be leaving for distant parts and the many friendships formed during the three week period will be interrupted. It is then that the boys go the rounds obtaining autographs on squad pictures and footballs. Probably no player on the 1941 squad has been confronted with more autograph seekers than Tom Harmon, but yesterday Tom himself was busily engaged in the dining room getting signatures of the players on a football to be placed on the Harmon mantel.

Bill Leiser of the San Francisco Chronicle, Flem Hall of the Fort Worth Star Telegram, and Buss Hamm of the Oklahoma City Oklahoman comprise the advance guard of 300 out of town sports writers who will cover the All-Star game tomorrow. Leiser has attended all the previous All-Star games. Hall is on hand to chronicle the activities of the eight Texas players on this year's team.

Don Scott, last year's Ohio State captain, will arrive at the Municipal airport this afternoon from Randolph field, San Antonio, Tex., where he is a cadet in the army air corps. He will sit on the bench with the All-Stars at the game tomorrow night.

The All-Star game serves as a magnet for football coaches from all sections of the country. Among yesterday's arrivals who put in an appearance at the All-Star practice were Clipper Smith of Villanova; Harry Mehre of Mississippi; Ray Morrison of Temple; Red Saunders of Vanderbilt; Joe Davis, assistant at Rice; Harry Stuhldreher of Wisconsin, and Jim Kelly, track coach and assistant football coach at Minnesota.

Ambrose Schindler, former Southern California half back, who was voted the "most valuable player" in last year's game, has arrived to receive his trophy at the opening ceremonies tomorrow night. Schindler will start his second season as football coach at Glendale, Cal., High school this fall.

Each of the All-Stars became the proud possessor yesterday of a handsome white blanket with the All-Star emblem appearing in the center.

If the Bears stymie the All-Star running and passing attack, don't be surprised if the collegians resort to field goal kicking. They have a number of boys who are expert at splitting the uprights from anywhere inside the 40 yard line. A trio of lads gave a brilliant exhibition at yesterday's practice. They included Augie

BEARS PUT A PUNCH IN THEIR FOOTBALL SONG

BY EDWARD PRELL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Delafield, Wis., Aug. 26.—Strains of that new musical opus which includes the line "Bear down, Chicago Bears," rang thru the corridors of Smythe hall at St. John's Military academy tonight. The vocal power was supplied by the National Football league champions, who sang the battle song with a fervid fighting spirit that means business in Thursday evening's game with the College All-Stars in Chicago's Soldiers' field.

Their musical bent was considered a good omen by the coaches, evidence they are relaxing with the important football test only 48 hours away. This is the way the coaches want it. George Halas, owner-coach, recalls that in the first game of the series, back in 1934, the Bears were tightened and taut. That team was held to a scoreless tie.

Bears Take Two Hour Drill.

The Bears raced thru a two hour workout this morning. It was the final polishing of their offense and defense. From a formidable list of more than an estimated 300 plays in his own copyrighted T formation man in motion system, Halas and his aids have painstakingly selected those they consider best.

Tomorrow morning the champions will leave for Chicago and in the evening will work out in the lake front stadium in their new uniforms.

This is a physically well conditioned squad the professionals are sending into battle, perhaps the best in that respect in the history of the series. It perhaps is the youngest team ever to play against the All-Stars.

Even so, a note of pessimism persists among Halas and some of his assistants. This is understandable since it never has been the custom for a football coach to predict victory, and Halas is not one to set a precedent.

Players Aren't Kidding Selves.

"I understand we're 3½ to 1 favorites," said Halas tonight. "Seriously, I wouldn't bet even money on the Bears if I were a betting man. The All-Stars are preparing for this one game. We've had to think and plan ahead to our regular season while getting ready for them."

The players aren't kidding themselves, either.

"Those 98,000 people will expect to see another massacre like that of the Redskins," said Bob Swisher, one of the Bears' fleet backs. "They'll be looking for that Joe Louis or New York Yankee punch from us. But we're not thinking in terms of 73 points. We know we'll have to fight for every inch of ground."

The Bears are pleased that the 11

5,000 SERVICE MEN TO WATCH GAME AS GUESTS

Collegians Hold Drill Under Lights.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Five thousand soldiers and sailors will watch the College All-Stars and the Chicago Bears battle tomorrow night from the seats in front of the administration building at the north end of Soldiers' field. These service men will be the guests of The Chicago Tribune Charities.

Half of these men will come from the sixth corps area, principally from Fort Sheridan and Camp Grant. The sailors will come from Great Lakes station, the Naval armory, and the United States Naval Training center at Abbot hall, Northwestern university.

With the addition of these service men 98,200 will see the eighth annual game between the collegians and the champions of the National Football league. This attendance not only is a record for the series, but will compose the largest sports crowd in Chicago's history since the days of the Army-Navy game and the battles between Southern California and Notre Dame more than a decade ago.

100,000 Will Be in Stadium.

Actually, more than 100,000 persons will be jammed into Soldiers' field, for to the above figure may be added the newspaper men and such groups as ushers, police, and employés of the park district assigned to Soldiers' field.

Standing room will not be sold. Unless you hold a ticket for tomorrow's game there is no excuse to come to the stadium. The soldiers from Fort Sheridan will arrive at 7 o'clock tomorrow evening. They will be transported in 85 army trucks. Both groups will be under military discipline. Two hundred and twenty-five midshipmen from Abbot hall will arrive at the south end of the stadium at 7:45 p. m. and will march to their seats at the north goal on the east side of the field.

These midshipmen will take part in the ceremonies at half time when at least four members of the college squad will be inducted into the navy air corps. They are Dave Rankin of Purdue, captain of the All-Stars; George Franck of Minnesota, Ed Frutig of Michigan, and Bob Saggau of Notre Dame. Admiral John Downs, commandant of the Great Lakes Naval station, will have charge of the ceremonies.

Massed Band Will Parade.

Before the induction, the gigantic massed band of 190 members representing 43 universities and colleges will parade. The band is led by Glen Cliffe Bainum, director of the Northwestern university band. More than 5,000 colored lights will be used to illuminate the bandsmen and their instruments. Nine drum majors and nine drum majorettes will lead the band thru intricate formations devised by Mr. Bainum.

While final details for the game were being completed yesterday the rival squads were tapering off after two weeks' practice. The All-Stars, after a morning drill in Dyche stadium, visited Soldiers' field last night to work out briefly under the lights. The squad arrived promptly at 7:45, donned game uniforms, and then went thru passing and kicking exercises. The players finished with an offensive drill.

The All-Stars are winding up with an intense study of defense. While their plans have been carefully guarded the players and coaches entertain high hopes of spiking the big guns of the T formation which carried the Bears to a world title last fall. Most of the final work is being done in the squad meetings from which it is possible to exclude all except the All-Stars.

Hold One Field Practice Today.

The collegians will practice once today on the gridiron and also will hold a squad meeting in the afternoon. After luncheon tomorrow the boys will go to the Sherman hotel, where they will be served an early dinner before departure for the stadium.

White blankets, trimmed with blue, and with a red All-American shield, were presented to the All-Stars yesterday. These blankets, as well as white sweaters, are the souvenirs of the game given each year to the college players.

The Chicago Bears are due this afternoon from their training camp in Delafield, Wis. They will check in at the Stevens hotel and hold their last drill tonight in Soldiers' field.

The vanguard of the army of out of town spectators began arriving yesterday. Prominent college coaches from all sections of the country will arrive today and early tomorrow. All clubs of the National Football league will be represented.

Record Press Reservations.

A record number of press reservations has been made and more direct telegraph wires have been ordered than for any other All-Star game. Bill Stern, who will broadcast the game over the Blue network of NBC, will arrive today. The entire game also will be carried by W-G-N and the Mutual broadcasting system with Bob Elson at the microphone. W-G-N is the only Chicago outlet for the game,

DOLVEN MOVES TO SECOND ROUND IN COUNTY TOURNEY

Medalist Defeats Welch, 5 and 3.

Frank Dolven Jr. of Mid-City, who captured the qualifying medal from a field of 125 entrants, smashed his way into the second round of the 26th annual Cook county golf tournament yesterday in Columbus park. One down at the turn, Dolven kept within par for the last six holes to eliminate W. D. Welch, unattached, 5 and 3.

Along with the medalist advanced John Graw of Columbus, 1940 tourney finalist; Robert Dougherty of Navajo Fields, Louis Lembke of the home club, and Carl Jankowski of Westgate Valley. Lembke furnished the closest contest of the first round when he had to travel twenty holes before ousting Mike Nimeth of Harlem, 1 up.

First round results:

Frank Barcik, Columbus, beat Joe Libman, Roselle, 6 and 5.

Carl Jankowski, Westgate Valley, beat Joe Kinchin, Fairlawn, 5 and 4.

Albert Wietecha, Big Oaks, beat Richard Schikora, Harlem, 3 and 1.

Dolven vs. Fahey; Johnson vs. Williams; Graw vs. Schmidke; Phelps vs. Barcik; Jankowski vs. Lembke; Huebner vs. Olish; Welch vs. Dougherty; Wietecha vs. Durgan.

Sirocco Beats Chi in Feature at Homewood

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Sirocco demonstrated that he is ready to fill his engagement in next Monday's $25,000 Washington Park handicap by beating four speedy rivals in the Leonatus purse yesterday at the Homewood track. The Dixiana farm's capable performer, which has been coming up steadily to his best form, got home a length and a quarter in advance of Chi in this mile and a furlong race.

The latter beat Plowshare by a head for second place. Ranger II. and Steel Heels completed the field, all five having gone over the line with only about three lengths separating the first from the last.

Runs Fast Race.

Sirocco ran the mile and a furlong in 1:50 4-5, which was 1 1-5 seconds slower than the track record. Jockey Jack Richard held him in last place during the early stages while Chi and Ranger II. were setting the pace side by side.

Half way around the last turn, Sirocco moved up on even terms with Plowshare and Steel Heels. These three then went to the pace setters and all five came into the stretch side by side.

Sirocco, forced to go to the extreme outside, lost ground on the swing, but he went to work steadily to wear down Chi, which continued to hold on well. In the last furlong, Sirocco drew clear and was going well at the finish.

Run Distance Feature Today.

The $2,500 Johnny Bullman handicap, fourth of a series of distance races, will be run today. The program will be featured by a quarter mile exhibition race for stable ponies ridden by old time jockeys.

The Bullman handicap, which will be a gallop of two miles and a quarter, has drawn a field of 12 in the overnight entries. Betty's Bob, winner of last week's distance run and second to Shot Put in the Snapper Garrison handicap, has been allotted top weight of 122 pounds. Gen L. and Bucking, who finished second and third, respectively, behind Betty's Bob, will try again today, the former with an impost of 107 pounds and the latter with 113. Others in the field are Copper Tube, Landlubber, Fandan, Cherry Trifle, Spiteful, Shin Plaster, Regent, Margo G., and Traicionero.

The race for ponies ridden by old time jockeys will be put on at 1:55 p. m., 20 minutes before the regular program begins.

Stars Coming from Saratoga.

Word was received from the east yesterday that Haltal and Big Pebble are scheduled to be shipped from Saratoga today to fill their engagements in the $25,000 Washington Park handicap on Labor day. Warren Wright, Whirlaway's owner, has stated that he plans to start the 3 year old champion in this event also. With these three horses in the field, together with Equifox, Sirocco, and other high grade performers, the Labor day event may develop into one of the most important handicaps run anywhere in the country this season.

ILLINOIS BOARD ALTERS RULE ON RACING FOULS

The Illinois racing board yesterday announced a revision of the rules governing disqualifications. Under the new measure it will be possible for the stewards to take first money away from a horse without placing him last. He may be placed wherever they think he ought to go depending on the nature of the foul and the number of horses with which he interfered.

The new rule will make itself felt on occasions where the first and second horses finish many lengths in advance of the others after one has committed a foul involving the other. Under the old rule the guilty one would be put out of the money entirely. This was believed to be unfair to the bettors and the owners.

Tonight will be the last night the collegians will spend in their quarters on the Northwestern university campus. They will establish headquarters in the Sherman hotel tomorrow where they will remain until after the game.

RADIO HAMS TO GIVE REPORTS AT TAM O'SHANTER

Ham radio operators will play an important rôle in the $11,000 Tam o' Shanter Open golf tournament September 4, 5, 6, and 7, George S. May, club president, announced yesterday. He said the amateur announcers will report progress on the meet from key spots along the Caldwell road and Howard avenue course.

The operators will relay scores to the score boards, keeping the spectators abreast of the play.

After reviewing the entries, which closed Monday night, President May said that practically every professional and amateur of note will tee off next Thursday in the 72 hole medal play meet.

COLBY HANOVER WINS WITH EASE IN NOYES STAKES

RED SOX DEFEAT INDIANS, 9 TO 4; REGAIN 3D PLACE

Heath Hits Futile Homer for Cleveland.

Cleveland, O., Aug. 26 (AP).—The Boston Red Sox regained third place from Cleveland today with a 9 to 4 triumph. Pitcher Heber Newsome won his own game in the third inning by lining a three run double after Lamar Newsome was intentionally passed to fill the bases. Jeff Heath's three run homer in the first inning represented just about the whole Cleveland attack. Score:

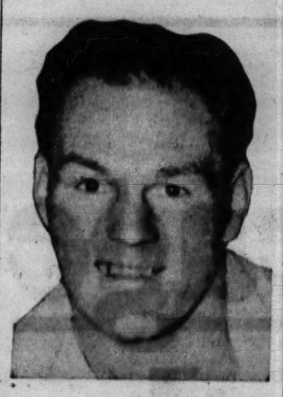
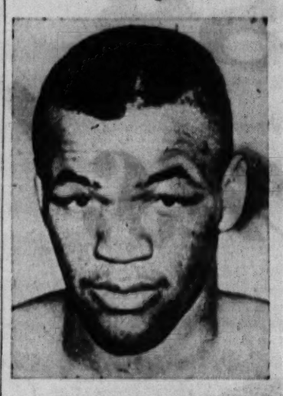
They Battle Tonight



Red Burman, rugged Baltimore heavyweight, who meets Booker Beckwith in the main bout of a fight card in the Chicago Stadium's outdoor arena tonight.



Booker Beckwith of Gary, former Golden Glover, who meets his sternest test when he faces Burman tonight. He will be seeking his 17th straight victory.

Beckwith to Face Big Test —Red Burman

BY FRANK MASTRO.

Booker Beckwith tonight will resume his campaign as a light heavyweight and heavyweight championship threat in a 10 round bout against Clarence [Red] Burman, rugged heavyweight fighter of Baltimore, in the Chicago Stadium's outdoor arena, Madison and Wood streets.

Beckwith, who will be seeking his 17th consecutive triumph in what is expected to be his hardest test, will raise his classification in both weight divisions if victorious, Joe Triner, president of the National Boxing association, said yesterday.

In the current NBA ratings the 1938 international and intercity Golden Gloves middleweight title holder from Gary is listed among the first ten 175 pounders and is mentioned among the heavyweights.

Lacks Experience.

Altho Beckwith has shown impressively in recording his chain of victories, especially while knocking out Altus Allen and beating Solly Krieger, once world middleweight ruler, fight judges do not believe the 21 year old Negro has sufficient experience to cope with the highly regarded Burman.

Competition with some of the greatest boxers in the game, including Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis, against whom Red lasted five rounds last January, should be sufficient guarantee for fans that Beckwith will not win this evening's adventure by awing the roughhouse Red.

May Be Moved Inside.

In case of rain the card will be moved indoors to the adjacent Stadium building.

Brooklyn Maintains Lead of 1½ Games.

Brooklyn, N. Y., Aug. 26 (AP).—Battling in terrific heat before a crowd of 39,107, the Brooklyn Dodgers and the St. Louis Cardinals again divided a double header today to preserve Brooklyn's one and one-half game lead in the National league.

The Dodgers walloped the Cards, 8 to 3, in the first game behind fine pitching by Curt Davis, and then dropped the second session, 3 to 1, in eight innings. Two successive errors by Shortstop Peewee Reese helped the Cards to all their runs as Mort Cooper yielded only seven hits. Dark storm clouds rolled over the field in the first half of the ninth inning of the second game, halting play.

The first game was very nearly a rout. The Dodgers spread their 12 hits into every inning except one in an assault on four pitchers. Billy Herman had a perfect turn at bat with a single, double, triple, walk, and sacrifice. He made his double in the first inning off Lefty Max Lanier. Joe Medwick then came thru with a triple and Ex-Cub Augie Galan singled. This accounted for two runs. Reese singled home one in the third. Davis himself hit a home run to lead off the fourth against Clyde Shoun and Herman tripled, then scored on a fly by Cookie Lavagetto.

White Sox and Senators Open Series Today

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The White Sox and the Washington Senators will open a two game series in Comiskey Park this afternoon, the visit concluding the calls by eastern teams to Chicago until next spring.

Johnny Rigney, who made five futile tries for his ninth victory, then got hot to score two three single shutouts his last two times out, this afternoon will seek to splatter a quantity of whitewash on the Senators.

CHRYSLER ARMS PLANTS RAP OUT RHYTHM OF WAR

Visitors See Tanks and 1942 Autos.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

K. T. Keller.

First, officials of the company showed the great progress made in the part they were asked to perform in rearming the nation. Second, they gave a private display of an entirely new line of automobiles for 1942, details of which are to be announced publicly in a few weeks.

The high spot in an all day tour of the vast Chrysler arms plants, which was led by K. T. Keller, president, was a tank rodeo at the newly completed 20 million dollar tank arsenal. Six 28 ton medium tanks, with cannons and machine guns roaring, were put thru maneuvers at the proving ground.

Tanks Do Their Stuff.

Four of the tanks disappeared into a big crater—a synthetic shellhole—and then crawled out at dizzy angles. The 400 horsepower engines propel the monsters at 25 miles an hour. Armament includes six guns, including a 75 mm. cannon.

At one side of the tank proving ground is the vast arsenal for which the ground was broken only last November. Keller said production is on schedule and the rated capacity is five tanks a day. Acres of machines form the thousands of parts which go into the tanks. Along one side of the building are three assembly lines and there, as far as the eye can reach, are tanks in various stages of building. Once off the assembly they go thru 73 miles of testing.

Trucks Can Take It.

Almost as spectacular as the tank performance was a demonstration of what trucks for the army may have to take. O. M. [Frenchy] Raes drove them over ground as rough as that over which the tanks traveled, and thru a deep hole at the bottom of which was sticky mud several feet deep.

A stop was made at the plant in which Chrysler is to build Martin bomber fuselages and noses. Before these parts are shipped to assembly plants, the fuselages will be equipped with fully completed pilot's quarters. In the fuselages alone 11,500 parts will be required, compared with about 2,500 that go into the average automobile. Production is scheduled for the not far distant future.

55,000 Vehicles Shipped.

Reviewing Chrysler's efforts in its 400 million dollar arms program, Keller said that shipments of army vehicles already have exceeded 55,000, and 250 new army trucks and cars are coming out of the Dodge plant daily. The 1,700 engineers and technicians in the corporation's laboratories are devoting 85 per cent of their energies to arms work.

Most important of the development activities is the designing of a 2,000 horsepower air cooled aviation engine and a 500 horsepower liquid cooled tank engine. Other developments include work on a new airplane landing gear strut and propulsion machinery for cargo ships.

Keller disclosed that nearly two million hours of tool work were required in preparing the way for assembly of the fuselages.

Some War Fruit Ripens.

"The nation's defense program—and I would say that our area is fairly typical of that of the nation—is in that phase where you have fruit coming off some of the trees," Keller said. "On the other hand we have a lot of this preparatory work, which is hard to see, coming to full development.

"It is the productivity of the country and the skill and experience with which war machines are engineered that are going to decide the outcome of this terrible thing that is going on in the world today."

Discussing the automobile situation, Keller said that he is glad the government has made up its mind as to what the curtailment of production shall be, because the decision makes possible an orderly program.

SILK WRAPS WIRE AND NOT LADIES' LEGS IN WAR ERA

Belden Manufacturing company, Chicago and Richmond, Ind., manufacturer of electrical wiring and other products, reported yesterday the receipt of its first shipment of silk released under federal priorities regulations.

H. W. Clough, vice president, said a special order, sufficient for 10 days' supply of pure tram silk, arrived Monday. Production of unusually fine sizes of magnet wire requiring the silk for insulation had been curtailed for the preceding 10 days because of dwindling silk supplies, he said.

The wire is used by Belden's customers in the manufacture of precision instruments and controling devices and in small electric drills. All these products are employed by the aircraft, tank, and other armament industries.

★SMALL BUSINESS★ MAN'S DEPARTMENT

This department is prepared to help the small business man who is seeking information on priorities, substitute materials, and related subjects. Inquiries should be directed to the Small Business Man's department, Chicago Tribune, Chicago, Ill. All inquiries will be given careful attention. Letters on subjects of broad interest will be published and commented upon.

The distress of small business cut off from vital material supplies, as related in personal experiences to the Small Business Man's Department, yesterday evoked responses of old fashioned neighborly helpfulness.

A manufacturer of electrical control switches telephoned and said he had read of the tool and die concern that was losing its business because of priority controls.

"I would like to get in touch with the tool and die enterprise," he said. "I think I could use it on some subcontracting. I have quite a load of government orders and I don't have enough tool and die making facilities."

This department thereupon notified the tool and die concern to communicate with the electrical company.

Names Not Given to Outsiders.

The names of inquirers are not disclosed to outsiders. Information that may be helpful to inquirers is transmitted to them to use as they see fit.

Another offer to keep small plants busy with orders for which materials could be obtained under preference ratings was made by a sales representative of several wrench companies. He said he was able to obtain large contracts for aircraft motor wrenches but had been unable to find a manufacturer who has the available facilities.

He asserted that factories with drop hammers and light forging equipment could undertake the manufacture of the special type of wrench which is in demand by airplane and ordnance makers. He explained that the companies he represents are working full capacity on standard types of wrenches and do not wish to change their dies and retool for the special wrench.

Plight of Salesmen Revealed.

The plight of salesmen whose companies no longer can fill new orders was illustrated by the following letter of a salesman for a brass, copper, and aluminum products company:

"There are many thousands of salesmen, who, after much effort, have built up a clientele, now see their efforts dissipated and no means provided for the alleviation of their distress."

So many phone calls on priorities are being received at the field office of the Office of Production Management in the Federal Reserve bank building that it was necessary to restrict local calls to Harrison 2320, the federal reserve bank number, in order to leave the field office line open for long distance messages.

The priorities office in Chicago has been flooded with questions from manufacturers, warehousemen, jobbers, and others asking for methods of obtaining the preference ratings. The steel priority order which goes into effect Sept. 1, added to this load. Forms PD 73 required under the steel priority order may be obtained by writing to the Small Business Man's department.

EXHIBITS AND BLUEPRINTS.

I would like to bid on government contracts, but I do not have any exact idea of the kind of items I might be able to make. Where can I get blueprints or a model?

Answer: The Defense Contract Service, 164 West Jackson boulevard, has available the specifications for many items needed by the military services. The army's Chicago ordnance district maintains an exhibit at the First National Bank building of small artillery, bombs, explosives, and other items. These offices may be visited by the manufacturer who wishes to obtain a definite idea of what his plant may be able to produce for the government.

FOODS.

Answer: An examination of the list reveals a wide variety of items. A few are canned prunes, teak, pickles, screwdrivers, binnacles, paint thinner, nails, wrenches, mosquito nets, felted mattresses, tractors, electric furnaces, and sleeping bags.

Asks Aid Thru Orders

Washington, D. C., Aug. 26 (AP).—Representative John D. Dingell [D., Mich.] has introduced a bill to grant preferential treatment in allocation of national armament contracts to manufacturers adversely affected by the priorities program of raw material distribution. The bill provides that manufacturers whose activities are curtailed because of inability to obtain materials shall "thereafter be given preference in the award of negotiated contracts by the United States," and in the subcontracting of large defense orders.

New Sacrifice for the Public Hinted by OPM

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 26.—An all day symposium on priorities, held today by the Office of Production Management and attended mostly by newspaper and magazine writers, was interpreted as foreshadowing further reductions in materials and commodities for civilian use because of the rearmament program. The speakers, officials of the OPM, warned of a growing shortage of materials and hinted that Americans must prepare for new sacrifices and privations.

They urged that to "lessen the shock," the newspapers, magazines, trade journals, and other periodicals keep the people fully informed of the various reasons for cutting down on the civilian use of certain materials. For their part, the officials promised full coöperation in dealing out information and answering questions, both as to the mechanics of priorities and the use of substitute materials wherever possible.

Would Avoid Adverse Reaction.

Observers viewed the conference and the promises of coöperation by the officials as a reflection of the desire of administration leaders to prevent an adverse public reaction as the shortages of materials become more acute.

Approximately 250 men and women attended the morning and afternoon sessions in the auditorium of the United States Chamber of Commerce. Officially, it was explained that the meeting was scheduled in recognition of the growing importance of priorities in every day life. The meeting was intended to acquaint the correspondents with the background of the complex priorities system which has sprung up in recent months as a result of the government's effort to make components of war articles available to armament plants.

Edward R. Stettinius Jr., priorities director of the OPM, who welcomed the conferees, asserted that "strategic materials are as tight as can be," and that the demand for such materials as nickel far exceeds the supply.

Speaks of Civilian Needs.

"Meanwhile," he said, "certain civilian activities must go on. A certain amount of nickel must be released to make stainless steel for such things as surgical instruments. Copper must be used to repair power plants. We are striving to work out a system whereby all vital needs can be met and we have made rapid advances in eliminating confusion."

Dr. R. E. McConnell of OPM's conservation section, said the nation is on the way to a war economy and is just beginning to get a glimpse of the dislocations that are coming. It is not a pleasant outlook, he added.

"We have resources for guns and butter, but not for all the guns and butter we can use," said Dr. McConnell. "If we get all the guns we need we cannot have as much butter as we have been used to.

"But if we keep the people informed as to our progress and the reasons for depriving them of certain materials and commodities it will help to lessen the shock which will come when they fully realize what is in store for them."

In reply to a question, he said he could see no drop in the demand for strategic materials as early as next July. However, he added, the OPM hopes to establish a clearing house of information for substitute materials that can be used to reduce demand for those needed in rearmament.

SUPER PRIORITY BOARD HEADED BY WALLACE REPORTED CONSIDERED

Washington, D. C., Aug. 26 [Special].—President Roosevelt was reported in reliable quarters today to be considering appointment of a super priorities board, headed by Vice President Henry A. Wallace, to coordinate the allocation of materials and supplies for military, lend-lease, civilian, and export needs.

Roosevelt said at his press conference that studies of the jurisdictional conflicts between the Office of Production Management and the Office of Price Administration and Civilian Supply have been concluded and that a new executive order, redelegating the priorities powers granted in the Vinson act, was being prepared and may be signed within 24 hours.

The studies have been conducted by Judge Samuel Rosenman of New York, long a Rooseveltian brain truster. The President made it plain that Judge Rosenman's study would result in more than a mere reshuffle of the OPM and OPACS priorities functions, and this lent credence to the reports that one of the proposals before him would create a seven member "General Requirements board."

The membership of this board, it was reported, would include Harry L. Hopkins, lend-lease administrator; William S. Knudsen, OPM director general; Leon Henderson, OPACS administrator; Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson; Sidney Hillman, OPM associate director general, and Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox, in addition to Wallace.

COURT MAY DROP BAN ON HOUSING STOCK PAYMENT

Judge Peter A. Schwaba indicated yesterday he would dissolve a temporary injunction issued last week to enjoin three directors of Chatham Park, Inc, $2,500,000 housing project at 83d street and Cottage Grove avenue, from issuing 1,780 shares of stock to the Regan Contracting corporation to cover excess costs incurred by the firm in constructing the project.

The directors, Robert G. Regan, head of two construction companies; Henry Crown, chairman of the board of Material Service corporation, and Attorney Preston Boyden, said to be a director of both Regan companies, agreed not to issue the stock until an accounting suit brought by stockholders who obtained the injunction is settled.

The stockholders' suit accused the three directors and two Regan companies of conspiring to profit illegally thru the stock transaction.

Chicago Area Alien Property Census Starts

BY LELAND FORRESTER.

The Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago has started on the immense task of taking a census of all property in this district owned by foreign nationals, Clifford S. Young, president of the bank, announced yesterday.

Every type of property or evidence of ownership of property will be listed in what is said to be the most comprehensive survey of alien owned property ever made in this country. All of the 12 reserve banks are conducting the survey in their respective districts as the fiscal agents of the federal treasury.

The purpose of the census is to compile property ownership data to facilitate administration of foreign funds controls under Presidential orders freezing the American assets of numerous nations invaded by, or in sympathy with, the axis powers.

Senior Officers in Charge.

Young sent to all member and nonmember banks in the 7th [Chicago] reserve district a letter directing each bank to place a senior officer in charge of foreign funds control problems affecting the bank.

Young's letter quoted from a treasury telegram a statement that foreign funds control "places important responsibilities on every bank thruout the nation, no matter how small and no matter how few of its clients are foreign nationals or have financial transactions with foreign nationals."

About 50,000 reports are expected to be filed in this district, and about 250,000 forms will be required. Foreign nationals individually, trustees or agents, and others affected by the program may obtain the forms from commercial banks.

Citizenship Is Not Involved.

The reserve bank's assistant counsel, Paul C. Hodge, who is handling legal matters in the census work, emphasized that the question of citizenship is not involved in the census. He said that even an American citizen must list his property as a foreign national if he was domiciled in a foreign country and did not return to the United States before June 17, 1940. This does not apply to Americans who were merely visiting or vacationing abroad, and no fulltime resident American citizen is required to file his holdings of any property, domestic or foreign, such as foreign bonds.

On the other hand, even an unnaturalized foreigner will not be required to list his property if he has been domiciled in the United States since June 17, 1940, and intends to continue living in this country.

Properties to Be Listed.

Following is a brief summary of the all-inclusive classifications of property which must be listed if held by a foreign national as defined in the regulations:

Bullion, currency and coin, demand deposits payable in the United States; other deposits payable in the United States; United States government obligations; state, municipal, and other local government obligations; bonds of domestic corporations; common stocks of domestic corporations; preferred stocks of domestic corporations; foreign securities held in the United States, warrants, scrip, rights, and options; other securities, checks, drafts, acceptances, notes.

Letters of credit, debts, claims, demands, contracts, warehouse receipts, bills of lading, options and futures in commodities, goods for business use [except jewelry for business use], jewelry as personal property, precious stones, precious metals, machinery, equipment, and live stock for business use.

Objects of art and furnishings for personal use; liens on and claims to personal property; lands and buildings for personal use or other than for personal use; mortgages on real property; other rights to land, patents, trademarks, copyrights, inventions, franchises, concessions, licenses, permits, interests in estates and trusts, interests under partnership and profit sharing agreements; surrender value of insurance policies, present value of annuities, and other property not classifiable under the other types.

Reports must be filed by nationals themselves, by persons having property of nationals, by organizations whose securities are held by nationals, and by persons acting as agents or representatives of nationals. However, no report is required on the property of any national which was valued at less than $1,000 on given dates, except that the exemption does not apply to leases of safe deposit boxes, patents, partnerships, etc.

In the case of nationals of all foreign countries except Japan and China, the census will show holdings as of June 1, 1940, and June 14, 1941. Nationals of Japan and China also must list holdings as of July 26, 1941.

The reserve bank's foreign funds control department is in the charge of Neil B. Dawes, assistant vice president. The census taking organization is a division of the department and is under the supervision of Leland Foster.

LAUNCH 2-A-DAY PLAN TO BUILD 556 MORE SHIPS

Forecast 1,400 New Vessels by 1943.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 26 (AP).—Another expansion in the nation's shipbuilding program with a view to turning out two ships a day in 1942 and 1943 was announced today by the Maritime commission.

Within a few hours after President Roosevelt had signed a bill providing $1,698,650,000 in cash and contract authorizations for ships and shipbuilding facilities, the commission reported that it had negotiated for the construction of 23 additional ways and 66 freighters of the "C" design.

Expansion of other existing yards, the commission said, will be authorized as rapidly as practicable.

566 Ships Provided For.

The bill, the commission stated, will make possible the production of 566 additional merchant ships. Previously the commission had authorized the construction of 710 vessels, of which 100 have been delivered.

The commission predicted completion of nearly 1,400 vessels in United States shipyards by the end of 1943.

New ways, averaging about 1 million dollars per way, including the necessary shops, equipment and machinery, were authorized as follows:

South Portland Shipbuilding company, South Portland, Me., two; Bethlehem Steel company, Sparrows Point, Md., two; Alabama Shipbuilding and Dry Dock company, Mobile, eight; Ingalls Shipbuilding company, Pascagoula, Miss., two; Delta Shipbuilding company, New Orleans, La., two; Consolidated Steel corporation, Los Angeles, four; Richmond Shipbuilding corporation, Richmond, Cal., three.

Boat Contracts Listed.

Consolidated Steel, 26 of the C-1 type; Gulf Shipbuilding corporation, Chickasaw, Ala., 16 C-2 type; Ingalls Shipbuilding, 10 C-3 type, and Bethlehem Steel, 14 C-3 type.

The "C" boats were designed before the outbreak of the war and are regarded by the commission as among the world's finest in their class. The three types will average about 10,000 deadweight tons. The cost was estimated at $2,200,000 to $3,000,000 each.

The exact types of the remaining 500 ships in the new program, officials said, has not been fully determined. The final decision will depend on the availability of various types of propelling machinery.

HEARING CALLED ON COLUMBIA GAS SIMPLIFICATION

Washington, D. C., Aug. 26 (AP).—The Securities and Exchange commission tonight ordered proceedings under the so-called "death sentence" of the utility act against Columbia Gas and Electric corporation and four subsidiaries to determine what steps may be necessary for simplification of the system.

Sept. 16 was fixed as a hearing date and these subsidiaries were ordered to respond: Columbia Oil and Gasoline, a non-public utility holding company; Panhandle Eastern Pipe Line, a non-public holding and operating company which produces and transports natural gas by pipe line from Texas and Kansas; Michigan Gas Transmission, which operates gas transmission facilities in Michigan, Ohio, and Indiana as an extension of the Panhandle line, which runs to the Indiana-Illinois border, and Indiana Gas Distribution, which also takes gas from the end of the Panhandle line and distributes it in Indiana.

Big Gain This Year

Washington, D. C., Aug. 26 [Special].—Value of department store sales during July increased 24 per cent over July of last year and were 13 per cent above the sales for June, 1941, the board of governors of the federal reserve system reported today. The United States total for the current year thru July was 16 per cent above total sales for the corresponding period in 1940.

Stepup in Use of Freight Cars Urged by Budd

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 26 (AP).—Ralph Budd, defense transportation commissioner, said today the most desirable way to enlarge the capacity of the nation's transportation plant would be to step up movement of freight cars.

Ralph Budd.

Budd, also president of the Burlington railroad, told the National Association of Railroad and Utilities Commissioners that freight cars actually were moving in trains only a little more than 10 per cent of the time, or about 2½ hours of 24.

Increase of 20 Per Cent.

"If this 2½ hours of actual movement could be increased to 3 hours a day," Budd continued, "it would mean an increase of 20 per cent. The practical approach to this problem, of course, is to reduce the 21½ hours daily that cars are not moving, rather than to increase the already fast train speeds."

Budd predicted the proposed expansion in railroad freight cars to a total of 1,800,000 by Oct. 1, 1942, would fall 100,000 short unless some way is found immediately to supply more steel, iron, lumber, and other essentials.

Tells Threat to Roads.

"It is true the roads have not failed yet, and their record indicates that they will not fail if arrangements can be made promptly for securing the necessary material, but otherwise failure is inevitable," he added.

Budd said that in event of a shortage of railroad transportation it might become necessary to ask removal of state enforced restrictions on the size of trains.

Railroads also are seeking coöperation of state commissioners, he said, in efforts to discontinue certain duplicate or branch line passenger service to allow diversion of that equipment for troop movements.

Call of the String Bean Leaves Salem Deserted

Salem, Ore., Aug. 26 (AP).—Answering calls from growers unable to find pickers to catch the string bean crop at its peak, this capital city's business closed or adopted skeleton staffs today. Hundreds of men and women deserted desk, counter, kitchen, and bridge table to move endlessly down the long rows. All were paid at the rate of $1.25 to $1.50 a hundred pounds.

Strike Threat Settled; Phone Tieup Averted

Washington, Aug. 27 [Wednesday] (AP).—The Federal Conciliation service early today announced settlement of a threatened strike of Western Electric company installation workers. A blanket wage increase of 6 cents an hour was granted some 9,000 employés.

Announcement was made on behalf of the company and the Association of Communications Equipment Workers, an independent union. Company officials estimated the wage boost, together with a new wage progression agreement, represented additional cost of about $1,500,000 annually.

Other terms of the settlement—which averted the possibility of a nation-wide tieup of telephone service—included national recognition of the union as a bargaining agent, new seniority provisions, an arbitration agreement, and the right of the union to reopen wage discussions March 1, 1942, if it sees fit.

Dress Industry Tieup Ends.

New York, Aug. 26 (AP).—The city's dress making industry will resume work on a full scale tomorrow after a one day stoppage that affected 52,000 workers. Harry Uviller, impartial chairman of the industry, late today directed two manufacturers' associations to reopen their plants pending final settlement of their dispute with jobbers.

The contractor groups, the United Popular Dress Manufacturers association and the United Better Dress Manufacturers association, voted the stoppage last night after failing to agree with jobber groups over the method of distributing the cost of a 10 per cent wage increase.

Ship Workers Return.

Kearny, N. J., Aug. 26 (AP).—Nearly 17,000 workers swarmed into the Federal Shipbuilding and Dry Dock company plant today and resumed work on a 493 million dollar defense construction program.

Rear Admiral Harold G. Bowen, new boss of the vast plant taken over Sunday by the navy department on order of President Roosevelt after a 19 day CIO strike, said the men were "working enthusiastically and will attempt to make up lost time."

He said he could not comment on an offer by L. K. Korndorff, president of Federal, to sell the whole business to the government, and referred such queries to the navy department.

Arms Project Tied Up.

Lewis, Del., Aug. 26 [Special].—Work was halted today on a $20,000,000 government armament project at Fort Miles, two miles east of here, by a strike of 600 workmen called out by the Delaware Building Trades council [AFL].

RENT FREEZING CONSIDERED TO PREVENT BOOSTS

Ald. Arthur G. Lindell [9th] chairman of a special committee named by Mayor Kelly to investigate reported rises in rents and living costs, said yesterday the committee may seek means of "freezing" rents to prevent increases.

He said he has been informed by an official of the Office of Price Administration and Civilian Supply, that Chicago could be named a "defense area" and would then have authority to control rentals.

ROOSEVELT TAX PLAN KILLED BY SENATE GROUP

Keep Present Excess Profit System.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 26 [Special].—The senate finance committee today joined the house in backing the two alternative methods of computing corporation excess profits in the defense tax bill. It ruled out the recommendation made by President Roosevelt and the treasury department permtiting only the capital gains method for determining the excess profits levy. The alternative methods involve invested capital and average annual earnings.

Senator Walter F. George [D., Ga.], chairman of the committee, said no formal vote was taken on this, but indicated that conversations of members behind closed doors had definitely established their stand.

The committee also approved a treasury recommendation for a simplified chart system that will enable small taxpayers—those with incomes of $3,000 or less—to compute their tax bill by the use of a table and without filling out a complicated return.

System Would Be Optional.

The chart system, however, would be optional. If the taxpayer, by taking deductions not figured in the chart, could reduce his tax he would be allowed to do so thru the use of the regular return.

Under the decision of the committee to recommend a lowering of exemptions for married persons from $2,000 to $1,500, and for single persons from $800 to $750, some 6,000,000 new taxpayers will be added to the tax rolls. It is to help them that the treasury recommended the chart system.

The committee voted small increases in the normal corporation rates for those earning less than $25,000. These raises, it was explained, absorbed the defense tax in the normal rates. The change will add about $3,200,000 to the revenues.

Rates on Small Firms Changed.

The committee changed the rates on small corporations earning up to $5,000 from 14.85 to 15 per cent. On those earning $5,000 to $20,000 the present house approved rate of 16.5 per cent was raised to 17 and on those earning between $20,000 and $25,000 the rate of 18.7 per cent was raised to 19.

The committee voted to approve a provision of the house bill providing for a reversal of credits in computing excess profits. After a corporation computes its net income it then determines its excess profits and takes this sum as a deduction before computing its normal tax. This is a reversal of the present system.

The committee voted, 10 to 7, to subject to excess profits taxes the income of companies mining strategic minerals such as tungsten, quicksilver, manganese, platinum, antimony, chromite, and tin.

Asks Higher Wine Rates.

A decision was made to recommend much stiffer taxes on wines than was proposed by the house, as follows: On wines with an alcoholic content not exceeding 14 per cent, 10 cents a wine gallon compared with the house provision for 8 cents; on wines of alcoholic content from 14 to 21 per cent, 35 cents compared with 24 in the house bill, and on wines of 21 to 24 per cent alcoholic content, 65 cents compared with 50 in the house bill.

The committee also decided to raise the tax on sparkling wines over the house bill from 4 to 7 cents a half pint; on carbonated wines, from 2¼ cents to 3½ cents per half pint. On brandy, now taxed at $3.75 a gallon, the committee would raise the levy to $4 to bring it into line with hard liquor taxes.

Senator George said the committee, without a record vote, decided not to raise the gasoline tax from 1½ cents a gallon to 2.

STOCKS PICK UP A LITTLE MORE RALLYING VIGOR

Rail Group Is Stronger; Volume Larger.

New York, Aug. 26 (AP).—The stock market picked up a little more rallying vigor in today's market for gains of fractions to a point or more in favorites.

Best recoveries were recorded in the forenoon when volume also was largest. Quoted values were shaded after midday and many leaders finished under their tops. Dealings also slowed toward the last. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks held a net advance of 0.2 point at 43.4. Transfers of 458,930 shares compared with 330,370 Monday.

The war situation continued sufficiently cloudy to intimidate some potential purchasers, brokers said, and taxes and governmental controls still served as bearish influences.

Railroad Group Rises.

Rails edged upward at the start as a fresh batch of carrier revenue statements provided further confirmation of the strong comeback of the transportation systems since the start of the armament program.

Among stocks emerging with advances were United States Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, General Motors, New York Central, Southern Pacific, Kennecott, Standard Oil [N. J.], Warner Brothers, Commercial Solvents, Westinghouse, Union Carbide, Allied Chemical, Sears Roebuck, Boeing, and Douglas Aircraft.

Jones & Laughlin skidded to a new 1941 low on a Pittsburgh federal court "show cause" order regarding payment of dividends on the concern's new common and preferred stock.

CHICAGO LIST HIGHER.

Prices edged irregularly higher on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday on transfers of 21,000 shares, against 13,000 Monday.

Paramount Pictures, an unlisted issue, led in volume, closing at 15, up ¾, on sales of 1,050 shares. International Harvester and Libby, McNeill & Libby were next with sales of 1,000 shares each. They closed at 52¾ and 5⅝, respectively, both unchanged from Monday's closing prices.

Four issues showed changes from the New York close in the extra half hour of trading in Chicago. They were International Harvester and Paramount Pictures, each ¼ lower than at New York; Libby and Illinois Central up ⅛.

MIDDLE WEST'S NET EARNINGS RISE THIS YEAR

Stockholders Are Warned of Tax Threats.

Increased profits for the three and six month periods ended June 30 over corresponding periods of 1940 were reported yesterday by the Middle West corporation. Purcell L. Smith, president, warned, however, in his report to stockholders that provisions of the new federal tax bill as passed by the house would sharply reduce the reported earnings, because reserves for this year's taxes were set up on the basis of tax laws now in effect.

Purcell L. Smith.

For the parent company alone, net income for the three months ended June 30 was more than double the year ago figure, amounting to $635,353, or 19 cents a share, against profit of $289,004, or 9 cents a share. Six months profit showed smaller increase at $921,392, or 28 cents a share, against $659,577 or 20 cents a share last year.

Consolidated Income, $985,153.

Consolidated net income of the company and its principal subsidiaries, excluding Central Illinois Public Service company, amounted to $985,153 for the three months ended June 30, against $744,850 in the corresponding 1940 period. Profit for six months was $2,104,770 against $1,603,186.

The report said that the consolidated net income for the six months included approximately $1,050,000 and $635,000 in the respective 1941 and 1940 periods, which could not be distributed as dividends on stocks of subsidiaries "due principally to dividend arrearages on preferred stocks of certain subsidiary companies."

A separate report for Central Illinois Public Service company disclosed net earnings of that company were $561,914 in the three months ended June 30, against $489,428 a year earlier. Six months net income was $1,177,770 against $1,078,391.

Sperry Earns More.

Sperry corporation, manufacturer of airplane instruments and other military products, reported consolidated net earnings of $4,084,907, equal to $2.03 a share on the capital stock, for the first half of 1941. In the corresponding period last year the company earned $3,068,282, or $1.52 a share.

In a report for the fiscal year ended April 30, 1941, National Battery company and subsidiaries reported net income of $748,082, equal after dividends on preferred stock to $7.33 a share on the common, compared with $634,882, or $6.20 a share, in the preceding fiscal year. A. H. Daggett, president, said the increase in profits was caused principally by increased volume in the company's heavy battery line which is manufactured at Depew, N. Y.

ENGINE MAKER'S 50C DIVIDEND IS FIRST SINCE '31

LeFebvre Named Head of Cooper-Bessemer.

Cooper-Bessemer corporation, Diesel and gas engine manufacturer, will pay the first dividend on its common stock since Jan. 1, 1931, it was announced yesterday. Directors voted to distribute 50 cents on Nov. 1. The company will pay all back dividends on its old $3 series A cumulative preferred stock on Oct. 1, and the shares have been called for redemption.

In addition to taking action on the regular quarterly payment due on the new $3 prior preference stock, voting payment for Oct. 1, the directors elected Gordon LeFebvre vice president, general manager and a director of the corporation. LeFebvre is general manager of the Diesel engine division of the American Locomotive works.

First Payment Since 1939.

The first payment since 1939 on the American shares of the Mortgage Bank of Colombia will be made on Sept. 12. It will amount to 84 cents a share as compared with 22 cents paid Sept. 1, 1939.

The North American company, holding company controling one of the nation's largest utility systems and operating extensively in the middle west, on Oct. 1, will pay a dividend to its common stock holders in the form of capital shares of the Detroit Edison company. The payment is subject to the approval of the Securities and Exchange commission and will be made at the rate of one Detroit Edison share for each 50 shares of North American common owned.

INFANT BUSINESS.

I read recently in your column that the rising birth rate since the war has increased sales of infants' diet products and furniture. Has this affected the business of Mead Johnson & Co., which manufactures the former, and Storkline Furniture corporation?—R. B. O.

Answer: Net sales of both companies have risen steadily in recent years. Net incomes last year were slightly under 1939 but above 1938. A sales comparison for the last three years follows:

	*Mead Johnson.	†Storkline.
1940	$8,105,333	$2,220,596
1939	7,707,988	1,886,881
1938	7,055,547	1,556,531

Mead Johnson profit in 1940 was $1,676,711, compared with $1,814,009 in 1939 and $1,608,212 in 1938. Storkline's net earnings in those respective years were $103,281, $109,960, and $60,316.

MASKS AND GOGGLES.

What does Willson Products, Inc., manufacture? Could you tell me something about the company? — W. J. G.

Answer: Willson Products, Inc., manufactures safety devices for protection against dust, smoke, fumes, and other injurious matter. These include goggles, masks, and respirators. The plant is at Reading, Pa.

Net earnings slumped in 1938, but in the next two years made a favorable recovery. Dividends have been paid regularly in varying amounts since 1932. Net income and dividends in the last five years follow (years ended Dec. 31.):

	Net Income.	Per Share.	Dividends.
1940	$219,023	$1.71	$1.00
1939	147,725	1.15	.70
1938	3,351	.03	.35
1937	151,026	1.41	1.10
1936	192,990	1.51	*.35

*In addition to $1.30 paid on no par common stock, which was changed to $1 par in that year.

For the six months ended June 30 this year, net income was $172,943, compared with $110,743 in the same 1940 period. Dividends so far this year total 80 cents, including a 20 cent extra. There are 128,162 common shares outstanding. Total assets at the end of June were $2,163,600.
